MY FATHER AND MOTHER

THEIR ANCESTORS AND DESCENDANTS

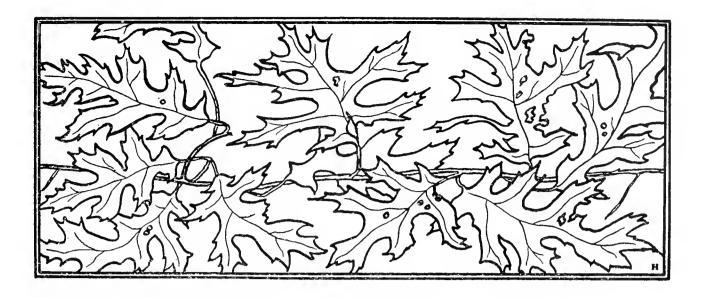

PREFACE

HAVE gleaned from the past, here a little and there a little, these memorials of my ancestors, in the hope that their descendants may emulate their simple, blameless lives.

In the compilation thereof I have been materially assisted by many to whom acknowledgment has been made under the respective families in which help has been rendered, but I am further indebted to Mr. Charles H. Engle, clerk of the Mount Holly Meeting of Friends, Mr. Leander Rogers, Miss Edith Rogers, Mrs. William C. Lawrence, the Rev. William White Hance, my grand-uncles, Edward Winslow Coffin and John Hammond Coffin, and Mrs. John Richard Pine Coffin, of Portledge, Devonshire, England, and especially to my friend, Miss May Atherton Leach, who first inspired me with a love of genealogy, and who has given me unsparingly from her store of historical and genealogical knowledge; to all of whom, as well as those who, for the moment, I may have overlooked, I extend my sincere thanks.

OUNTY WEXFORD, for centuries the home of the family Synnott in Ireland, was, before the Norman invasion of 1169 under Robert Fitz-Stephen, inhabited first by the Celts, and then by the sea-roving Scandinavians, and the echo of the power of each is still to be heard in the place and family names of the county. The names beginning with Bally, Kill, and Dun, numerous from a very early period, are traceable to Celtic influence, while Wexford, Forth, Bargie, Scar, Tuscar, and Saltees are among those given by the Danes. It was, however, from the Anglo-Norman, twelfth century conquest that Wexford obtained its most enduring characteristics and surnames, and it was as one of this latter band of adventurers, under Fitz-Stephen, that the first of the Synnott name acquired possessions in what afterwards became the barony of Forth in Wexford. And there his descendants are to be found in considerable numbers to the present day. In treating of this conquest, the "Chronicle of the Four Masters" describes the invaders as [&]quot;'seventy Flemings, clothed in coats of mail,' thus showing the special extraction assigned by the Irish to the first enterprisers; and it appears that, besides these, very many settlers of the twelfth century came from the Flemish colony in South Wales, and imprinted their characteristics in Ireland. Of this fact, several surnames are evidence—as Fleming, Baron of Slane; Prendergast, whose original name has a Flemish appearance, and was to be found in the colonies from Flanders which established themselves in Pembrokeshire and on the Scottish border; Chievres, now Cheevers; Synad, now Synot; Cullen, Wadding, Whythay, now Whittey; Cusac, Siggin, Wilkin, and Boscher. Indeed, were we to run through the roll of old county Wexford names, we should find fewest of Saxon origin; so that we have to seek a sound reason why the Saxon language was the birth-tongue of the barony Forth dialect. Thus, the Norman prefix Fitz was frequent, there being Fitz-Henry, or Fitz-Harris; Fitz-Reymond, now Redmond; Fitz-Elie, and Fitz-Nicol. Other Norman names were Talbot, from the barony of this name near Rouen, with Devereux, Rochfort, Neville, Browne, and Poer. To Pembrokeshire, the adjacent hive across the sea whence the largest immigrant swarm issued, may be traced the families of Barrett, Barry, Bryan, Carew, Caunteton (now Condon), Hay, Keating, Meyler, Roche, Russell, Stackpole, Scurlock, and Walsh. Devonshire, Furlong of that ilk, Bellew, Codde, Cruys, Hore. Of uncertain locality are Harper (said to be descended from Strongbow's harper), Sutton, Stafford, Rossiter, Loundres, Esmonde, French, Lamport, Peppard, St. John, and Turner. These names are only part of those of the first colonist families, yet suffice to show that the Teutonic character was strongly impressed, by means of these families, on this part of Ireland. An old barony Forth alliterative rhyme, still in men's mouths, conveys the hereditary characteristics of some of these races:

Stiff Staffort,
Dugged Lamport,
Gay Rochfort,
Proud Deweros,
Lacheny Cheevers,
Currachy Hore,
Criss Colfer,
Valse Vurlong,
Shimereen Synnott,
Gentleman Brune,

Stiff Stafford.
Dogged Lambert.
Gay Rochfort.
Proud Devereux.
Laughing Cheevers.
Obstinate Hore.
Cross Colfer.
False Furlong.
Showy Synnott.
Gentle Browne." *

The chief seat of the Synnotts was in the barony of Forth. An interesting history of this barony appears to have been written by a clergyman of the Synnott name, about 1680, entitled "A Briefe Description of the Barony of Fort, in the County of Wexford, together with a Relation of the Disposition and some Peculiar Customs of the Antient and Present Native Inhabitants thereof," and published in the Proceedings and Papers of the Kilkenny and Southeast of Ircland Archæological Society for January, 1862. Herbert F. Hore, Esq^r, the late able editor of this record of the past, says of the author that "from the frequent reference to religious matters, the thorough acquaintance displayed with them, the quotations from classic writers, and the circumstance that the citations from the Old and New Testaments are in the Latin language, I conjecture that he was a Roman Catholic priest; and further that his name was Synnott, because he shows intimate knowledge of this family. Whoever he was, he evidently was chosen as capable of drawing up a complete account of the old colonists of the barony of Forth. His statements respecting these descendants of the first English settlers in Ireland have the lively interest resulting from the close acquaintance of the writer with his subject; and the apparent faithfulness of his delineation."

Mr. Hore has enhanced the interest and value of Father Symnott's narrative by copious annotations, and from these, as well as from the history, liberal citations have been made, since it is not possible to dissociate the chronicles of a family from those of its habitat. The historian, after a short introduction, thus enters upon his subject:

"As the County of Wexford, immediatlie after the Conquest of the Kingdome of Ireland by Henry II., King of England, was honoured by the primier English Colony introduced and planted at Bannoe,* [which was] then made a corporate towne, favoured and adorned with extraordinary priviledges and immunityes comprized in its Charter,—soe the said County's Inhabitants (cæteris paribus) ever since in all publique assemblies, civil conventions, and military expeditions had indisputablie allowed them precedency in nomination and order throughout all parts of the Kingdome of Ireland.†

"The said County comprehends and is subdevided into eight Baronyes, vizt.:

Fort,
Bargye, Shilbirne, Shilmalier, Bantry, Scarawailsh, Ballaghgeene,
Gowry,

Called English baronyes.
Irish. ‡

"The Barony of Fort, on all emergencyes of publique concerne in the said county, precedeth and hath pre-eminence. § The Gentry and Inhabitants thereof first in all courts called, and in time of Warre, Expeditions, Rising in Arms (in order to the opposing and suppressing turbulent seditions, factions, or knowen declared rebels), some one prime Gentleman thereof had the conduct and command of forces raised in the said County.

"The said Barony in longitude extends from the north-west part of the Commons of Wexford, inclusive, unto the extreamest point of Carne, Kemp's Cross, about tenn miles. Its breadth, dilated from the west side of the Mountain of Fort, six miles, comprehending, by ancient computation, 20,000 acres of arable land, naturally not fertile, but by the sollicit-^{*} Probably Bannow was the oldest corporate town in Ireland.

[†] I have not found this statement borne out. From the thirteenth to the seventeenth century, the county of Wexford was so isolated, or cut off from the other English parts of Ireland, that during disturbed times even mere communication was difficult, and the shire was not reckoned on as a portion of the pale, partly because, as a "liberty" or palatinate, its government was unmixed with that of the rest of "English" Ireland.

[‡] These "Irish" baronies were not created into baronies till the reign of James I.

[₹] This statement is borne out by a summons, enrolled in Birmingham Tower, to the Wexford gentry, in 1345, in which the men of the barony Forth are named next after the knights.

ously ingenious industry and indefatigable labour of the Inhabitants, soe improved and reduced to that fecundious perfection, that it abounds with all sorts of excellent Breadcorne, and Graine, Gardens, orchards, fruits, Sweet Hearbs, Meadows, pasture for all sorts of cattle (wherewithall it's plentifully furnished), not much infferiour, if not equivalent, to the best in Ireland, though not generally soe great in body or stature.

* * * * * * * * *

"There have been by the Danes, upon their first invasion of that Barony, many places with high Rampires fortyfied, commonlie a mile distant one from another, of an orbicular forme, in which they did encamp, called Rathes, amongst which the most remarkablic ample and terrible was the Rath of Ballitrent, on the sea Banke erected on theyre first Arrivall, raised and strengthened with two Rampires, each forty foot thicke and neere sixty feet distant, circularlie the diameter of the inmost being towards one hundred geometrical paces, situated on the east side of that Barony, from which (conspicuous many miles distant) the said Barony is said to have had its originall denomination.

"Another notable fortification, about the same time and occasion raised neere Wexford (on which afterwards King John built a sumptuous and impregnable Castle, yet extant), on the west side of that Barony, from the situation whereof the contiguous towne (as by tradition related) is denominated, first called West Fort, in tract of time by the vulgar corruptlie intituled Weisfort, and finally (as now) called Wexford.

"The ancient Gentry and Inhabitants of that Barony deryve theire originall Extraction lineally from England, theyre predecessors haveing beene officers in the Army under the conduct of Fitz-Stephen, who first invaded Ireland. Suddenlie after the conquest thereof, distinct Allotments of land according to theyre respective qualityes and merits were assigned them, which, untill the Cromwellian usurpacion and Government, they did, during the 500 years, almost compleat, without any diminution, or addition, peacablie and contentedlie possess; never attainted nor convicted of any crime meriting forfeiture; soe frugally prudent in theire expences, and sollicitous to improve and preserve hereditary peculiar interest, that noe Revolution of Time, disastrous accidents, Government, nor advantagious proposed motives whatsoever could induce, nor force them to quit theire possessions, or alienat them, narrow in extent, and inconsiderable in Revenue (but some elsewhere acquired valuable additional Estates); * many Gentlemen and freeholders being there interested, who, to perpetuate the memory of theyre progenitors and familys, alwayes conferred theyre reall Estates on theyre masle progeny or next heire masle, descending lineally in consanguinity; soe that there are, untill this day, many gentlemen's habitacions and villages retaining the names of theyre first conquering possessors, as, Sinnotstowne, Hayestowne, Sigginstowne, &c., but by the late proprietors were ejected, and remaine exiled.

"They retain theire first Language (old Saxon English), and almost onely understand the same, unless elsewhere educated; and untill some few years past, observed the same form of Apparell theyre predecessors first theyre used.

"The Natives (descended as aforesaid), inviolablie profess and maintaine the same Faith and forme of Religious divine worshipe theire first Ancestors in Ireland believed and exercised, which the violent and severe Tempests of persecutions wherewithall they were frequentlie afflicted, Imprisonment, Loss of Goods, threatened forfeiture of Lands, nor any penal Laws were prevalent to alter: though their conformity would have been a meane and steppe to beneficiall advancement, Ecclesiastical and Civil. They are generally zealous in their Religious profession, having very many remarkable Monuments extant of the pious zeal and devotion of their progenitors, in the aforesaid narrow extent of that Barony; wherein ancientlie were erected, and the precints and walls yet extant visiblie, of Churches and Chappells, first firmelie builded and richlie adorned for divine service, in the several peeces or parishes. . . ."

^{*} This statement is borne out by these instances: The Synnotts obtained large additional properties throughout the shire. Sir Nicholas Chevers, of Ballyhally, ancestor of Lord Mountleinster, acquired a large estate in Meath. The Hays, of the Hill, had Castlehaystown, in the fassagh or waste of Bantry. The Brownes, of Mulranken, built a castle near Taghmon, and another near Enniscorthy. The Meylers, of Duncormack, owned Priestshaggard, and a considerable property there.

A catalogue of the churches, chapels, and convents, with the names of the patrons and saints to whom the sacred edifices were dedicated, together with a statement of the condition of the buildings is then given, from which it is shown that the single barony under consideration had no less than eighteen churches, thirty-three chapels, one religious hospital, and two convents.

Completing descriptions of the habits and modes of life of the inhabitants, which are word pictures of considerable detail, the author adds:

"It is observable that before the late Commotions in Ireland, anno 1641, and the usurper's invasion, there were divers protestant Ministers constantlie resident in the said Barony, receiving and enjoying Tythes and other Emoluments appendant to theire parish Church, having hardlie any native a proselite, entertaining Roman Catholique servants, lived peaceably and securely, all neighbourlie human good offices being twixt them and the native inhabitants exactlie performed; Discrepancy in principles of Faith or points of Religious worship noe way exciting Discord, Animosity, Aversion, or opprobrious contumelie in word or act, one of the other:—An evident Demonstration of the innate propenscion of the inhabitants to humanity and Affection of Tranquillity.

"The mansion howses of most Gentry in the said Barony were fortified with Castles, some neere 60 foot high, having walls at least 5 foot thicke, of Quadrangle forme, erected (as is supposed) by the Danes, to the number of Thirty, of which very few as yet becom ruinous. Theyre howses built with Stone-walls Sclated; having spacious Halls, in the Center of which were fire Hearthes (according the ancient English mode) for the more commodious extension of heat to the whole family, surrounding it (but that forme is antiquated), all howses at present haveing Chimneys. Plebeians have theyre habitacons compleatlie built with Mudwalls soe firme and high as they frequentlie raise Loftes thereon, after that form they finde most convenient for husbandry Businesses; neate, well accommodated with all necessary Implements, more Civilie and Englishlike contrived than vulgarlie elsewhere in many parts of Ireland."

After this there follows a scholarly account of the troubles incident to the Cromwellian invasion and of the loyalty of the gentry to the Stuart cause, from which much interesting matter might be extracted, did not the limits of this narrative forbid. The writer then proceeds to give some genealogical deductions concerning the "prime Gentlemen and Freeholders in the Barony," concluding with the Sinnotts, of whom he says,—

"There are many distinct families of Sinnots in the said county in number exceeding any other ancient name within its limits; whose Estates were valuable before the late tyrannieall usurpacons; amongst which the howse of Ballybrenan, in Forte was esteemed the most eminent: whose possessors frequentlie were intrusted with greatest Authority in affaires of publique Concerne in that County, from whose progeny descended several men remarkable for schoole learning and persons indowed with heroicke spirits and martially disposed minds, vigorously active in theyre constant Loyall affection to the Crowne of England, during all Combustions and Rebellious Insurrections in Ireland, wherein they resolutelie demeaned themselves, exposing what was most deare unto them and theyre Lives in opposing, repelling and suppressing Common Enemyes invading the said County, as also elsewhere especially during the 15 yeares warrs in Q. Elizabeth's Reigne, when Richd. Sinnot of Ballibrenan aforsd, commanding and haveing the conduct of Forces raised in the said County (attended by his sonns and many other Sinnots his Relations and dependants) affoorded signal testimony of theire valour and loyalty to theire prince and country in several violent and fierce conflicts returning with theyre party victorious; wherein Walter Sinnot, eldest sonne of the sd Rich. was slaine (then Sheriff of the said County) neere Iniscorthy. For which numerous demonstracons of Fidelity and noble services, the said Rich. Sinnot became her Majestie's favourite, on whom as a Royal Gratuity, her Majesty vouchsafed gratiouslie to conferre a considerable Estate of forfeited lands (which after the death of his eldest sonne as aforesaid) he distributed and settled on the yonger.

The present proprietor whereof persevering in his predecessors' zealous Loyalty to his King, was by the late Regicide usurper expulsed and Exiled, his Estate, anno 1653, being as a gratuity given unto General Monke, and since detained by his Graee the Duke of Albemarle, the said proprietor, though distressed, preferring an Existence in some forraigne Region before transplantacion into Connaught, especially his dear and dread Sovereign being exiled, he neither desiring nor accepting (when officiously procured) any compensation in lieu of his ancient inheritance (as most other proprietors in Ireland), depending on divine providence and his Majestie's Charles 2 unparaled [sic] Clemency and Bounty. ^{*} This Nicholas Synnot's son and heir is mentioned by Sir William Brereton, in 1634, as "Mr. William Synod of the Lough, landlord" of the Park of Wexford, and as having leased this latter place to Mr. Hardey (Harvey?), an Englishman. The knight, who was in search of a farm, says the rent of this place was £16 a year, for between two hundred and three hundred acres, and he gives a curious account of the place. Sir William Synnott governed the country of the O'Murroughoes (Murphys), by lease from the queen. By letter dated 15 July, 1600, the privy council speak highly of his "qualytye and services." (Council Office Register.) He was commander of the forces in county Wexford to execute martial law in that county, and was knighted on 22 June, 1600 (Carew MS. 619). He was one of the justices of the peace, and resided at Ballyfernock. His son Walter had his estate created into a manor, in 1617, and was knight of the shire in 1613. His son William married a daughter of Sir James Carroll, mayor of Dublin.

Colonel Oliver Synnott was in the service of the Duke of Lorraine, and was sent to the Marquis of Clanricarde in 1651 on the king's service. (Clanricarde's "Memoirs," append. 30.) It is observed in a remarkable state paper of 1614, printed in "Desid. Curiosa Hib.," that many of the Irish Gael had, as officers in Continental service, and as ecclesiastics educated abroad, acquired extraordinary endowments, rendering them formidable. The same afterwards applied to many of the Anglo-Irish of similar education.

† The Synnotts in Spain may have descended from John Synnot, who is mentioned in the Life of Sir Peter Carew as having been employed as an "honest lawyer;" but who, having lent money to Gerald, sixteenth Earl of Desmond, and being otherwise implicated in this nobleman's rebellion, exiled himself. (Maclean's "Life of Carew," pp. 80, 250.)

‡ Simon Sinnot, of Ballygery, was one of the gentlemen of this barony in 1608. (Carew MS., 600.) As was also Jasper Sinnot, of Rathdowny, one of the small ancient freeholders of the district. Henry Sinnot, of Greatkyrock, is similarly recorded in the same MS. Synnott's "Stone howse" in Wexford is of record. Of this branch was Colonel David Sinnot, governor of the town, who was killed in 1649. James Sinnot had a grant of the castle of the Owleord, and nine hundred and twenty acres, in soccage, and died in 1618, leaving Edmund, who was expulsed. Jasper Sinnot, of Ballymore, had a son, Arthur, who held eight hundred and fifty-nine acres, and was at the battle of Ballinvegga, or Ross, 17 March, 1643. (Printed Inquisitions.) Edmond Sinnot, is mentioned as of Garrynisk, in the parish of Castle-Ellis. Matthew Sinnot is mentioned as of Tinraheen, in the parish of Killisk. Richard Sinnot is mentioned as of Ballinvacky, in the parish of Kilnemanagh. Besides the above there were others of the name proprietors in Ballaghkeen, as appears by the Book of Survey: as Piers Synnott, owning seven hundred and fifty-five acres in Ardemine; Edward, four hundred and twenty-one acres in Ballyhuskart; Arthur, in Garryvadden, and another Arthur in Killily. David Sinnot, of Ballyroe, in Edermine, had a grant of lands, 15. Jac. I: by his wife Alison Roche, he had an heir Richard. Walter Sinnot son of Richard (son of Walter of Farrelston or Balintroman) by "Amy, dau. of Rosse M'David, of the familie of M'Davidmore," lived at Ballykayle, and by his wife Amy, daughter of Cahir O'Doran, had an heir, Melchior Sinnot, who was deprived of his property by the Parliamentary government.

^{*}COLONEL DAVID SYNNOTT is mentioned in Carte's "Life of Ormonde," i. 367, as being brought to Wexford in September, 1642, by Colonel Preston, and in vol. ii. 90, as lieutenant-colonel of Preston's regiment and governor of Wexford. His colonel and he had commanded the famous Anglo-Irish regiment in the Austrian service, first known as Butler's, and then as Devereux's. (Carve's "Itin.") He was son of Michael Synnott, of the Rahine, by Mary, daughter of Edmond Hore, of Harperston. His son, Timothy, was brought up in Derry as a protestant.

Sinnot of Ballinkilly. Sinnot of Monyvilleog. Sinnot of Mogangolie.

"These Gentlemen compleatlie armed, and mounted on horsbacke, in Q. Eliz. warrs, adhearing and unanimous in theyre resolutions, vigorouslie opposed such as appeared Rebellious or disaffected to the Crowne of England; they enjoyed their freeholds and ancient Inheritance untill the late usurped Government, being then as proprietors transplantable. How innocent soever, Loyalty to theire King seemed Criminal."

Richard Synnot, Esq^r, of Ballybrennan, referred to by the chronicler, was a member of Parliament for the County of Wexford in 1559, and, as was stated by Mr. Hore, he purchased from Edmund Spenser, the poet, by indenture of 9 December, 1581, the grant of the abbey, castle, manor, and lands of Enniscorthy, and this he conveyed, 8 March, 1585, to Sir Henry Wallop, knight, then treasurer of Ireland. For his service in the Elizabethan wars Mr. Synnot received a forty years' lease of the ancient and fortified manor of Rosegarland, as well as other estates, by letters patent dated 29 September, 1582, which read:

"By the Queinc.

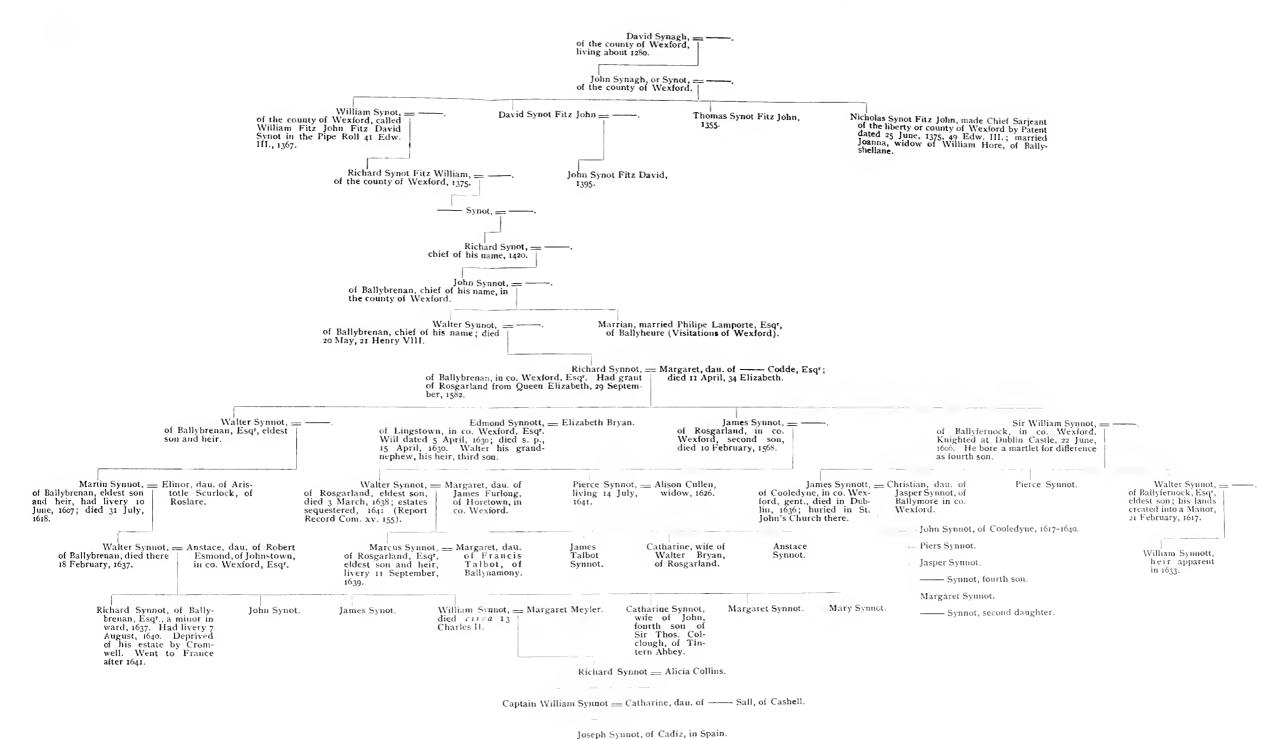

"Right-Reuerende father in God, right trustie and well beloved and trustie and right well beloved we grete you well, and whearr owre well beloved and faythfull subject Richard Synnot of Ballibrenan in our Countie of Wexford within that ourc Realme of Ireland, Esquire, holdeth of us at this present by lease for divers yeares yet to come the Mannor of Enescorthie and the Moroes within the said Countie of the yearly Rent of £44 2s. 3d. sterling, and also the Mannor of Rosegarlone in the said Countie of Wexford of the yearly rent of £12. st. We let you wete that in consideration of the chardgeable and faythfull sarvice of longe tyme done unto us by the said Richard Synnot in that oure Realme of Ireland, and for that he hath receaved no benefit of the premisses duringe these last warres because the same adjoine unto the borders of the Rebelles theare, we are pleased to graunt that he shall have a lease in reucrcion of all the premisses for the tearme of 40 yeares to begin after the determinacon of his former years in the same premisses respectively, paieing yearly for the same such rent [or] other duties as be reserved respectively upon his old leases. Wherfore We will comaunde you to cause a lease in reversion to be made in sufficient forme of the said Manor of Enescorthie and the Morocs, and also of the said Manor of Rosegarlone to passe from us to the said Richard Synnot and his Assigns for the tearme of yeares aforesaid, and in manner before specified, and to cause the same to be sealed with our great Seale of Ireland for his full assurance of the premisses according to our pleasure and good meaning above expressed. And theis our Letters &c &c.

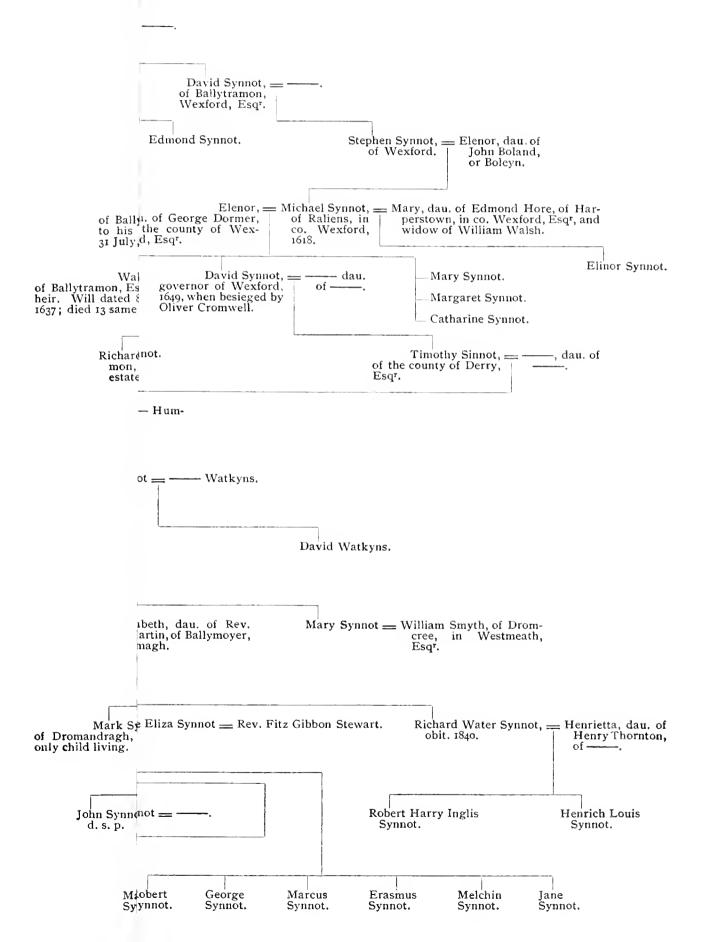

"Given under our Signet at oure Castell of Windsor the 29 daie of Sept. in the 24th year of Our Reigne, 1582."

The manor, or feudal territory of Rosegarland, was considered a barony, and, until the middle of the sixteenth century, gave its possessor the title of baron. The Inquisitions Post Mortem specify the buildings on the manor as "one Castell, one Hall, and several small houses or offices." The word castell is used here to designate a fortified stone house; but the place was known as Rosegarland Hall, or Court, from the barons having held court there for pleas, causes, etc. The present Rosegarland House occupies part of the site of the old Anglo-Norman fortress, originally quadrangular, and flanked at the opposite angles with massive square and round embattled towers. All that remains of the historic fortress is the ivy-covered watch-tower and campanile. The view, in the head-piece of this chapter, is from a plate in Hore's "History of the Town and County of Wexford." *

Richard Synnott was described by Lord Deputy Sir William Fitz-Williams, in a letter of 19 August, 1582, as "a man of good birth, living, and credit." He died in the faith of the ancient church 9 September, 1591, leaving Rosegarland and his various estates to his children and grandchildren, who retained its possession until, having kept allegiance to the Roman Catholic faith, they were attainted by Cromwell after the Great Rebellion of 1641, when it, with other lands, passed to Robert Leigh, in whose family it has remained until the present time.

With varying fortunes, the family continued in Wexford, though many of its members found homes and honors in other lands,—Austria, Spain, France, and America,—as will be seen in the inserted charts and following pages.

Of the armorial bearings of the Synnotts, Burke says: "Synnot (Ballybrennan, County Wexford; derived from David Synagh, of that county, living in 1280, possessed at a remote period of considerable estates, and ranked amongst the most eminent of the gentry of the baronies of Forth and Bargy. In America the name is to be found in Milton, Massachusetts, as early as 12 March, 1638, when Walter Sinnott had a grant from that town of a house-plot, and the next year he had an additional grant of a "great lott at the mount for three heads." From the context on the town records it would appear that this grant was made as an award for the heads of wolves or other wild beasts. He was afterwards of Boston, where he had "one house and garden bounded with John Odlin south; the streete west; Thomas Buttolph and Miles Readinge east; and Jacob Leger north." * and grounds were on the east side of Washington Street, from Bedford Street to Essex Street, bounding the house-yard in which stood the "Liberty Tree," said to have been planted in 1646, and which became famous during the trying period of the Stamp Act and was demolished by the Tories in 1775. His wife Mary joined the church at Boston, 23 May, 1647. His children were: 1. Mary Sinnott, born 19 November, 1640; married, 26 November, 1661, John Sparks. 2. Elizabeth Sinnott, born 23 June, 1642; died young. 3. John Sinnott, born 10 July, 1643. 4. Stephen Sinnott, born 12 November, 1645; died 14 September, 1657. 5. Joseph Sinnott, baptized 12 March, 6. Sarah Sinnott, baptized 28 April, 1650. 7. Thomas Sinnott, 8. Isaac Sinnott, born 22 September, 1654; baptized 28 March, 1652. The family is later found in Maine, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania, carried there possibly by the descendants of this early emigrant, whose name is perpetuated in the well-known romance, "A Woman of Shawmut."

Still another member of the Synnot family to emigrate to America in the seventeenth century was Susan Synnot, of Wexford, who had married George Nixon, also of county Wexford, before 1686, and who was destined to become the grandmother, through her son Richard, of that picturesque figure, Colonel John Nixon, born in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, in 1733, who, standing on the platform of the observatory erected in State-House yard, Philadelphia, by the American Philosophical Society, to observe the transit of Venus, 3 June, 1769, read to a waiting world the immortal Declaration of Independence, in tones so clear "as to be heard in Mr. Norris's house on the east side of Fifth Street." A broadside copy of the Declaration, printed at the time, was found among the papers of John Nixon and deposited in Independence Hall. It may be that it was from this sheet that he read on that memorable 8 July, There is, in the possession of one of Colonel Nixon's descendants, an old sea-chest with these initials and date on the top in large brass N GS nails, a not uncommon method, says Charles Henry Hart, Esqr, author of an extended monograph on Colonel John Nixon,* of denoting and 1686 memorizing the period of departure from their native home of the early emigrants to America; and the arrangement of these letters would indicate that the initial letters of the surname was N, and that G and S represented, respectively, the Christian names of the emigrating husband and wife.

In New Orleans, Louisiana, the Sinnott name is honorably represented by Mr. James Butterfield Sinnott, son of James and Mary (Butterfield) Sinnott of Banuthas Parish, Callan, county Kilkenny, who descended from the Kilkenny branch in Ireland. Mr. Sinnott served in the Civil War on the staff of General Robert E. Lee. He married Margaret Butterfield, of Nova Scotia, and had the following children: 1. Mary Sinnott, married Charles Holland. 2. Emma Sinnott. 3. Ella Sinnott, married Raoul Vallon. 4. Charles Sinnott. 5. James Butterfield Sinnott, Jun^r. 6. Henry Lee Sinnott.

JAMES SYNNOTT, one of the descendants of the Synnotts who remained in Wexford after the great Cromwellian slaughter, was born just one hundred years after that event. Few details of his life have been preserved; he kept the religious faith of his fathers, resided at Castletown, and was buried, though the date thereof has been lost, at Kilkevan, under Tara Hill, some three miles from Castletown.

He married, 17 January, 1762, Ann Connor, of Ross, in county Wexford, the marriage being recorded at the church of St. Mary and St. Peter, Arklow, county Wicklow, where the baptisms of their children were likewise entered.

Children of James and Ann (Connor) Synnott; born at Castletown:

- i. Pierie Synnott, baptized 24 November, 1763; died 1858; married, 15 July, 1791, Catherine Carty. Issue: 1. James Synnott. 2. Thomas Synnott. 3. Ann Synnott, married Willis.
- ii. MARY SYNNOTT, married, 13 August, 1789, James Ferrill.
- iii. John Synnott, baptized 1 May, 1775; married Elizabeth Murphy.

JOHN SYNNOTT, the youngest child of James and Ann (Connor) Synnott, was baptized at the church of St. Mary and St. Peter, in Arklow, I May, 1775, just eleven days after that baptism of fire at Lexington, in Massachusetts, which proclaimed to the world the beginning of the long struggle for American Independence. Born in the shadow of war, he had but attained manhood when the internecine troubles in his native country called him to action, and he fought bravely on the Insurgent side, in the rebellion of 1798, against a furious Orange ascendency in the Government of Ireland, which looked forward to the ultimate possession of the landed estate not alone of Catholics, but of liberal Protestants. He was wounded in the celebrated fight at Vinegar Hill, Enniscorthy, and left for dead, but was rescued by a friend through the service of a faithful dog. Some time afterwards he was captured by the king's troops, and sentenced to death, but escaped, according to family tradition, through the effort of the governor's wife, a playmate of his childhood.

Thomas Synnott, of this family, was also a patriot, and his service at Enniscorthy, in the Insurrection, is partially set forth in Thomas Cloney's "Personal Narrative of those Transactions in the County Wexford, in which the Author was engaged during the awful period of 1798:"*

"A division of about 1000 men of the Insurgents was led on by Mr. Thomas Synnott, of Killbride, who was the husband of my paternal aunt—a man aged about sixty years, and of very independent property; a person of the most quiet and peaceable disposition, commanding the respect and esteem of all who knew him, and who had a young family growing up about him. Bound by every tie that should make life dear to him, yet his manly and generous spirit was roused at the atrocities he saw committed on the unoffending and defenceless farmers and peasantry, and though sure of protection himself, from his intimacy with the leading Protestants of the country, he spurned that protection which was to be purchased by remaining a cold spectator of the destruction of his neighbors. Humanity, the sure attendant of true courage, was manifested by him so strongly throughout the Insurrection, to his Protestant neighbors, that the respect and esteem of his countrymen, of every religious persuasion, was rather increased than diminished by his heroic resistance to subaltern tyranny.

"This brave man, with his little band, were fired upon warmly, both by cavalry and infantry from a rising ground, while they fearlessly waded through the river Slaney, above Enniscorthy, ascended the rising ground, and put their military opponents to flight. . . . The Insurgents lost in the contest about 100 men in killed and wounded."

Amnesty was finally granted to the Insurgents and peace began to settle over disturbed Ireland, when John Sinnott, of the sketch, whose estates had been confiscated, with fine faith in the future, married, at the church of St. Mary and St. Peter, Arklow, 9 January, 1803, Elizabeth, the eldest daughter of John Murphy,* of Monogarra, by his wife Ann McDonald, and, for a time, resided on his wife's portion of her father's lands at Monogarra, in county Wexford, some eight miles from Arklow. Subsequently he removed to Dublin, where several of his younger children were born, and where he became a sea-captain, sailing to various ports in America, West Indies, Africa, and other foreign lands; and it may have been at this period that Captain Synnott modified the ancient spelling of his surname to Sinnott. Upon retiring from the sea, he spent his declining years with his eldest son, John Sinnott, in northwestern Donegal, but died in 1850, near his birthplace, while on a visit to his niece, Mrs. Willis, at Rathdrum, county Wicklow, at the head of the beautiful vale of Avoca, Mary Ann Murphy, a sister, married —— De Fretis, of Portugal, and removed to South America. Another sister, Katherine Murphy, married a Mr. Brown. John Murphy married, 2 January, 1769, Ann M'Donald, by whom he had: 1. Mary Murphy, born 14 May, 1775; died young. 2. Elizabeth Murphy, born 21 December, 1782; married, as above, John Sinnott. 3. Ann Murphy, born 26 December, 1785. 4. Margaret Murphy, born 25 March, 1787; died 5 March, 1852; married Owen Fogarthy. 5. Mary Ann Murphy, born 10 August, 1788, married John Clark. 6. Lucy Murphy, born 27 May, 1789; married Felix O'Neill. 7. Ann Murphy, born 17 February, 1791. 8. Katherine Murphy, married John Kavanagh. 9. Agnes Murphy, a religious, died at Montreal. 10. Johanna Murphy, a religious, died at Montreal. John Murphy, the father of these children, resided at Monogarra, in Wexford, and at his death his estate there was divided among his daughters, Elizabeth Sinnott, the eldest, receiving the homestead.

of which Moore further sings:

"There is not in this wide world a valley so sweet, Sweet Vale of Avoca!"

His wife, Elizabeth Murphy, was born at Monogarra, 21 December, 1782. After the death of her husband she, about 1852, accompanied her daughters Ann, Mary, Eliza, and Eleanor to America, where she died of yellow-fever at Charleston, South Carolina, 9 June, 1854.

The name Murphy is of undying memory in Ireland, by reason of the splendid courage displayed by the martyr-priests, Father John Murphy * and Father Michael Murphy, both of Wexford and cousins of Elizabeth Murphy Sinnott, during the Insurrection of 1798. Substantial monuments in their honor have been erected by a grateful people. To the former, at Boolevogue, and to the latter, at Arklow.

Children of John and Elizabeth (Murphy) Sinnott, born at Monogarra and Dublin:

- i. Ann Sinnott, born at Monogarra; died at Charleston, South Carolina, U. S. A., in July, 1854; married, 14 July, 1830, William Dinning.
- ii. Mary Sinnott, born at Monogarra; baptized 30 May, 1808; died unmarried at Macon, Georgia, U. S. A.
- iii. Robert Sinnott, born at Monogarra; baptized 27 January, 1811; died in infancy.
- iv. John Sinnott, baptized 20 June, 1813; died 4 October, 1877; married Mary Armstrong.
- v. James Sinnott, born at Monogarra, 7 June, 1815; died at New Haven, Connecticut, U. S. A., 1 September, 1870; married, at the Church of the Conception, Dublin, 15 November, 1846, Mary Barry, and in the following year removed to America with his brother Pierce.

^{*} JOHN MURPHY was born at Tuicurry, in the parish of Ferns, in county Wexford, about 1753. He was educated at Seville, in Spain, and having taken holy orders, and apparently graduated D.D., he returned to Ireland in 1785, and was appointed coadjutor or assistant priest of the parish of Boolevogue, in the diocese of Ferns. At the outbreak of the Wexford Insurrection of 1797, he took the oath of allegiance to the government, but the sanguinary measures of the militia and the burning of his chapel, clergy-house, and some twenty farmsteads in the neighborhood of Boolevogue in 1798, drew him to the Insurgents, whom he bravely led at Enniscorthy, Vinegar Hill, Castlecomer, Kilcomney, and Scollagh Gap. At the latter place his followers were dispersed by the king's troops, and he was shortly afterwards captured and hanged at Tullow.

Michael Murphy was born at Kilnew, County Wexford, circa 1767. He attended school at Oulart, was ordained a priest at Whitsuntide, 1785, and was sent to Bordeaux to complete his education at the Irish College at that place. After his return to Ireland he was appointed officiating priest of the parish of Ballycanew, in the diocese of Ferns. At the beginning of the troubles in Wexford in 1798, Father Murphy displayed great zeal in inducing his parishioners to take the oath of allegiance to the government and to surrender their arms, but at the outbreak of hostilities he was reluctantly compelled to take up arms for his own safety. He joined the Insurgents at Oulart under Father John Murphy, whose fortunes he shared until his death at the battle of Arklow, 9 June, 1798, where he greatly distinguished himself by his intrepid conduct.

JOHN SINNOTT, the eldest surviving son of John and Elizabeth (Murphy) Sinnott, was born at Monogarra, and baptized 20 June, 1813. While still a mere youth he accompanied his parents to Dublin, where he received a good education, which secured him in early manhood a position in the custom-house in that city, and enabled him later to enter the revenue service of the United Kingdom. During his incumbency in the last position he was stationed in northwestern Donegal until he retired on a pension, after which he resided at Sea-Bank Cottage, Killybegs, overlooking Killybegs Bay, in the same county. This cottage was taken down in 1900, and another built on the same site from plans furnished by an American architect, which is now occupied by Mrs. MacGinley. He was called the "Wizard of the North," by reason of his knowledge and skill as a navigator; and for three successive years he commanded the yacht that won the international races in Ireland. He died at Killybegs, 4 October, 1877.

Mr. Sinnott married, at the church of St. Michael, Kingstown, Diocese of Dublin, 9 January, 1832, Mary, daughter of Francis Armstrong by his wife Margaret Byrne, "of the wild Byrnes of Wicklow." Mrs. Sinnott was born at Glasthule, Kingstown, near Dublin, 1811, and died at Killybegs, on Easter Sunday, 10 April, 1898. Like her husband, she was descended from strong Roman Catholic ancestry, and followed the faith of her fathers with a loyalty and zeal that is a blessed heritage for her descendants. Rising regularly with the dawn, her first hours were spent at devotion, and no morning was too inclement to find her at early mass in Killybegs church. Her exemplary piety and benevolence won her the respect and affection of all who knew her, and at her death, in extreme old age, her obsequies were attended by a remarkable concourse of clergy and friends. The then current number of the Derry Journal gives an account of this sad event which is worthy of preservation:

"FUNERAL OF THE LATE MRS. SINNOTT, KILLYBEGS, CO. DONEGAL.

"The funeral of this much-esteemed lady took place at Killybegs the other day. Her death caused widespread regret, for during the many years she had lived in Killybegs she had gained to a high degree the esteem and respect of all for her unaffected piety and her kindliness of disposition. The remains were conveyed at eleven o'clock from the residence of the deceased to St. Catherine's Church, Killybegs, where the Office for the Dead was recited, followed by solemn Requiem Mass and absolution. His Lordship the Most Rev. Dr. O'Donnell, Bishop of Raphoe, presided at the Office and Mass. At the Requiem Mass the Rev. James MacGinley, Dean, Maynooth College (grandson of deceased), was celebrant; Very Rev. Monsignor Walker, P.P., V.F., Burtonport, deacon; Rev. Daniel Stephens, C.C., Letterkenny, sub deacon; and Rev. Patk. M'Cafferty, Adm., Inver., master of ceremonies. Rev. Patrick Dunlevy, C.C., Killaghtee, and Rev. John M'Ateer, C.C., Ardara, were the chanters at the Office, and there also assisted in the choir the Rev. John Sweeney, P.P., Killybegs; Rev. E. Cassidy, C.C., Donegal; Rev. J. Dr. O'Donnell addressed a few touching words to those present, in which he paid a high tribute to the virtues of the deceased, whose life (he said) had been a constant source of edification to all who knew her. After absolution had been given by the Bishop the remains were borne to the cemetery, where the last rites were also performed by his Lordship. The chief mourners at the funeral were: Rev. James MacGinley, Dean, Maynooth College; Mr. Casimir MacGinley (grandsons of deceased), Mr. Hugh C. O'Doherty, solicitor, Derry (son-in-law). Messages of sympathy were received from Rev. James P. Sinnott and Mr. Joseph F. Sinnott, Philadelphia (sons of deceased); and from Rev. John MacGinley, D.D., Philadelphia (grandson), who were represented at the funeral. Among those present or represented there were, in addition to those already mentioned: Right Rev. Monsignor Kearney, P.P., V.G., Buncrana; Right Rev. Monsignor M'Fadden, P.P., V.G., Donegal; Right Rev. Monsignor M'Glynn, P.P., V.G., Stranorlar; Very Rev. Monsignor Francis Gallagher, P.P., V.F., Carrigart; Very Rev. Dr. Maguire, Gweedore; Very Rev. M. Forker, Professor, Maynooth College; Rev. James M'Fadden, P.P., V.F., Glena; and thirty other priests.

Children of John and Mary (Armstrong) Sinnott:

- i. Anne Sinnott, born at Dublin, in 1833; died near there, about 1851.
- ii. ELIZA SINNOTT, twin of the above, died in infancy.

- iii. Peter Sinnott, born at Dublin, in 1835; went to America in 1850 to join his uncles, and resided at Charleston, South Carolina, and Savannah, Georgia. He was a sculptor by profession, and gave promise of prominence. There is a fountain of his designing in Augusta, Georgia. He died, unmarried, at Savannah, of yellow fever, in 1857.
- iv. Joseph Francis Sinnott, born 14 February, 1837; married Annie Eliza Rogers.
- v. John Sinnott, born at Killybegs in 1839; went to Australia about 1862, and after residing there for a few years returned to Ireland, but later sailed for America and died in Texas, 8 May, 1878.

VERONICA CECILIA MACGINLEY. 12. LEO PATRICK MACGINLEY, now in American College, Rome, studying for the priesthood. 13. MAGDALEN MARY JOSEPHINE MACGINLEY, died May, 1888.
- ix. Katherine Susan Sinnott, born at Gweedore, 8 April, 1846; died at Wilmington, Delaware, U. S. A., 18 April, 1899; was a Religious at the Convent of the Visitation at Wilmington. A touching memoir, written by one of the Order, bears the title: "A Hidden Apostle of the Sacred Heart. An Abridgment of the Life and Virtues of our dear Sister Mary de Chantal Sinnott, who died in this Monastery of the Visitation of Wilmington, Delaware, April 18, 1899, aged fifty three years. Professed twenty four years, of the rank of Choir Sister."
- x. James Patrick Sinnott, born at Carrickfin, in 1848. He was educated at the seminaries of Navan and Letterkenny, and in 1868 went to Philadelphia, and was sent from the Catholic Diocese of that city to the American College in Rome, where, after an eight years' course in theology, he was ordained a priest, 10 June, 1876. He returned to Philadelphia, and in October of that year was appointed, by Archbishop Wood, assistant rector to the Cathedral Parish of that city, in which position he remained until I May, 1888, when he was made rector of the church of St. Charles Borromeo, Philadelphia, by Archbishop Ryan, and on 10 June, 1901, the silver jubilee of his ministry, became permanent rector of that parish. Father Sinnott is one of the managers of the Catholic Protectory, and one of the Building Committee of the Diocese.

- xi. Ann Jane Sinnott, born at Bunbeg, Gweedore, county Donegal, 9 March, 1852; was educated at Convent School at Letterkenny, Ireland, and in 1876 accompanied her brother, Father Sinnott, to America, where she entered the novitiate of the order of the Sacred Heart, at Kenwood, Albany, 12 May, 1880. In 1887 she made her last vows at the mother-house in Paris, France, and spent a year at the Convent at Besançon, teaching and perfecting herself in the French language. Mother Sinnott died at Eden Hall, Torresdale, Pennsylvania, 3 March, 1905, having spent nearly twenty-five years in the faithful performance of her duties.
- xii. Agnes Sinnott, born at Bunbeg, Gweedore, in 1854; was graduated from the Convent School of the Sacred Heart, at Eden Hall, Torresdale, in 1873. On 12 June, 1874, she entered the order as a religious, and besides her work in teaching she has filled many offices of trust, having been treasurer at the Convents at Manhattanville and Rochester, New York, for several years. Mother Sinnott is now stationed at the Convent of the Sacred Heart at Boston, Massachusetts.
- xiii. Francis William Sinnott, born at Gweedore; died in infancy.
- xiv. Lucy Charlotte Sinnott, born at Gweedore; married, 23 June, 1884, Hugh Camillus O'Doherty, Esqr, of Londonderry. Issue: 1. John Jerome O'Doherty. 2. Joseph Cahir O'Doherty. 3. Margaret Dorus O'Doherty. 11. Francis Izod O'Doherty.

JOSEPH FRANCIS SINNOTT, son of John Sinnott by his wife Mary Armstrong, was born at Killybegs, county Donegal, Ireland, 14 February, 1837. He was educated at the schools of Gweedore, a few miles distant from his native place, and took a special course in navigation at Lord George Hill's School before leaving Ireland. In July, 1854, at the early age of seventeen, he embarked from Londonderry for America, in the ship "Mahongo," and after a passage of thirty-three days arrived in Philadelphia. It was his intention to join his relatives in the South, but upon his arrival he learned of the death of his grandmother and aunt, in Charleston, South Carolina, during an epidemic of yellow fever, which decided him to remain in Philadelphia, where, shortly afterwards, he entered the employ of Watkins & Weaver, custom-house brokers, and remained with them, at a salary of one hundred and fifty dollars a year, until 1856, when he entered the counting-house of John Gibson's Son & Co., distillers, as assistant bookkeeper, receiving for his services two hundred and fifty dollars per annum. This salary was gradually increased until April, 1861, when he responded to the "call to arms," and enlisted as a private in the famous Washington Grays of Philadelphia, which command was the first to pass through Baltimore after the citizens fired upon the Sixth Massachusetts regiment. After three months' active service in West Virginia, under Major-General Robert Patterson, Mr. Sinnott returned to Philadelphia, and was mustered out with his command, resuming his position with John Gibson's Son & Co. About this time the firm determined to establish an agency in Boston, and to send Mr. Sinnott there for that purpose, and, in consequence thereof, he was obliged to decline a captaincy in Rush's Lancers, which was tendered to him. In August of that year he went to Boston, where he advanced rapidly in his knowledge of commercial business. In the establishment of the branch house there he displayed remarkable practical talent, which, with his close application and rigid integrity, and his successful management of the enterprises intrusted to him, won for him the entire confidence of his employers and an interest in the Boston house. In 1866 he returned to Philadelphia, and became a partner in the entire business of the firm, which came to be the most extensive of its kind in the United States. 1884 Mr. Henry C. Gibson retired from the firm, and the business was continued by Andrew

Moore and Mr. Sinnott, under the firm name of Moore & Sinnott. Mr. Moore died in 1888, since which time Mr. Sinnott has been sole proprietor of this noted house.

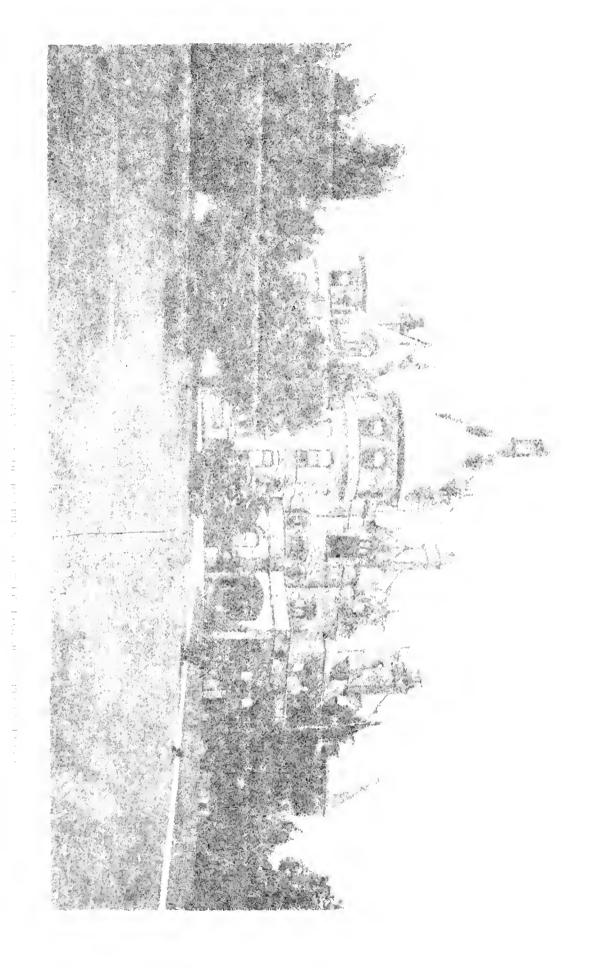

Mr. Sinnott's whole career since boyhood has been marked by activity and enterprise, and it is said that, perhaps his success is due as much to his broad liberality as to his skilful management and strict devotion to business. He is a member of the Roman Catholic Church, as were his ancestors for centuries, and he has ever taken a deep interest in the advancement of this church and its many charitable institutions in Philadelphia. He is also deeply interested in the welfare of his adopted city, and has been identified with many of its public institutions. He is a manager of St. Charles Borromeo Theological Seminary, St. John's Orphan Asylum, St. Francis Industrial Home, and Catholic Protectory; has served in the directorate of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company; is a director of the First National Bank of Philadelphia, and a member of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, the Genealogical Society of Pennsylvania, the American Catholic Historical Society, the Pennsylvania Society of New York, the Archæological Institute of America, the Archæological Society of Pennsylvania, the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, the Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia, the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, the Fairmount Park Art Association, the Penn Club, Art Club, Merion Cricket Club, and Radnor Hunt, and has held membership in the Union League of Philadelphia.

He married, at Philadelphia, 8 April, 1863, Annie Eliza Rogers, daughter of Clayton B. Rogers, by his wife Eliza Coffin (see Rogers Family, No. 22), the ceremony being performed by Archbishop (then Bishop) Wood. For two years after his marriage he resided on Warren Street, Roxbury, Massachusetts, and shortly after his return to Philadelphia he purchased from his partner, Henry C. Gibson, the latter's home and property in West Philadelphia, extending from Walnut to Locust and from Forty-second to Forty-third Streets, and resided there until 1891, when he built his present country-seat at Rosemont, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. His town house is at 1816 South Rittenhouse Square. Mrs. Sinnott was born at Mount Holly, New Jersey, 22 August, 1842, and educated at the Friends' Central School, Philadelphia. She is a member of the Pennsylvania Society of the Colonial Dames of America, the Daughters of the American Revolution, and other social and civic organizations.

EUTENANT WILLIAM ROGERS¹, the founder of one branch of the Rogers family in Burlington County, New Jersey, located in that county prior to 4 February, 1705, on which day he was commissioned, by Governor Cornbury, a lieutenant in the militia. His antecedents, place of birth, and the date of his settlement in New Jersey have not been ascertained, but this is not surprising when it is remembered that the most careful investigations upon the part of several genealogists have likewise been unproductive in the cases of John Rogers, of Marshfield, Massachusetts; William Rogers, of Southampton,

Long Island; and James Rogers, of New London, Connecticut; and also that little, if any, record of the descendants of William Rogers, of Scituate, Massachusetts, is to be found. It has been thought that William Rogers, the subject of this sketch, was of the family of William Rogers, of Southampton, and that he accompanied Richard Ellison, or Allison, from Long Island to New Jersey; but proof of this is wanting. A copy of his commission as lieutenant, and one of a similar date to Richard Ellison as captain of the same militia company, are of record among the archives in the office of the Secretary of State of New Jersey, the first of which reads:

"EDWARD VISCOUNT CORNBURY Captain General and Governor in Chief of the Provinces of New Jersey, New York, and Territories depending thereon in America and Vice-Admiral of ye same &c.

William Rogers to have purchased, under date of 1 September, 1715, two lots of land in the town of Burlington. The erasure of John Rogers's name in the instrument for lot No. 32 is possibly an intimation of a relationship between William Rogers of the text and the John Rogers of Burlington, who conveyed lands to his son, William Rogers, of Evesham, in Burlington County, by deed of 9 September, 1727,* and to his grandson, William Rogers, of the same place, 10 June, 1753.†

William Rogers married, first, Abigail —, who died 3 December, 1719, and was buried the following day, beside John and Elizabeth Woolman, in Friends' Ground at Rancocas, Burlington County. The maiden surname of his second wife, Hannah, is likewise unknown. She was without doubt a member of the Burlington Meeting of Friends, and married, after a widowhood of about a year, 7 November, 1737, as second wife, Alexander Beal, of Bucks County, Pennsylvania, when, as in all similar cases, "Friends were appointed by the Meeting to see that the children by the former husband were properly cared for." Of these "chil-

In the issue ascribed to Lieutenant Rogers the first three are his with certainty, and the latter two with great probability.

He had a further warrant for nineteen and a half acres, which was surveyed 11 April, 1760, and the lands located in "that part of Egg Harbor that goeth between the westerly side of an easterly branch of Wading River, called Tranquillity, and beginning at a pine tree lettered W. R., standing about fifteen or twenty chains below Rogers Bridge that crosseth the said Tranquillity on a point of rising ground." The boundary also "crossed Rogers Mount Misery Road to a pine tree." ‡ These surveys are all of record in the Surveyor-General's office at Burlington.

Mr. Rogers was one of the chosen freeholders of Burlington County in 1767. He married Elizabeth, the daughter of Thomas Branson, § of the Shenandoah River in Virginia, which he "had laid out" for Thomas Alexander. The first patent of record in Virginia is to Thomas Branson, Jun^r, his son, under date of 12 June, 1734, for "a certain parcel of land containing 1370 acres lying on the western side of the Shenandoah River, on both sides of Crooked Run, and designed to be included in a county to be called the County of Orange, being part of 40,000 acres purchased by Jost Hite." (Land Grants, xv. 531.) Another patent bears date 12 November, 1735, for a tract of eight hundred and fifty acres beginning at Jost Hite's corner, at the head of a small stream or branch of the Apeckon River. (Ibid., xvi. 385.) John Branson, son of Thomas Branson, Sen^r, also received a patent, bearing the same date as his brother's, for one thousand acres on the western side of the Shenandoah River. (Ibid., xv. 336.) Various deeds from Thomas Branson, Jun^r, and John Branson are of record in Orange County, for portions of the before-named patents, which, after 1742, were found to be in the then newly erected counties of Augusta and Frederick.

Thomas Branson, Sen^r, died in Springfield Township, Burlington County, New Jersey, before November, 1744, on the first of which month his will was proved. His wife, Elizabeth, whom he married 13 November, 1703, was the daughter of John Day, of New Hanover, Burlington County. The

The date of Thomas Branson's emigration to America is uncertain. On 13 March, 1703, he, then

* John Day, father of Elizabeth Branson, presented to the Philadelphia Meeting of Friends a certificate of removal from the Meeting in Ashwell, County Hertford, dated 12 March, 1682, and on 30 October of that year had a survey of one hundred acres of land in Springfield Township, Burlington County, New Jersey, on Assiscunk Creek, to which large additions were subsequently made. He was a member of the Council of Proprietors of West Jersey, 6 September, 1688, and one of the Rangers for the county of Burlington. His will of 4 December, 1723, proved 6 June, 1724, styled him of New Hanover, Burlington County. His legatees were his daughter Elizabeth, wife of Thomas Branson, and her children, and a grandson, Thomas Barton. The inventory of his estate valued the personalty at £225, and the realty at £150. He married Elizabeth, the sister of Peter Harvey, who predeceased him. Issue: i, Elizabeth Day, born 20 September, 1685; married Thomas Branson. ii. Mary Day, born 13 January, 1685. iii. Sarah Day, born 9 August, 1693; married, 21 November, 1706, Edward Barton.

Another John Day, also of Ashwell, had a grant of twelve hundred acres from the Proprietary of Pennsylvania, on 18 and 19 August, 1681. He settled in Philadelphia and was one of the committee to build the first Meeting-House in that town. His will of 15 October, 1692, divided his estate between his wife Hannah and daughters Hannah, Grace, and Sarah. The daughter Hannah died under age, and the widow Hannah, who received, under the will of her husband, a brick house standing in Delaware Front Street, married (2) James Atkinson, of Philadelphia.

Holly; and sons Isaac and Enoch are described as under age. The son Isaac Eldridge lived at Eldridge Hill, Gloucester County, and the house occupied by him there is still standing, about one and a half miles from Woodstown.

James Hortog

Esther Eldridge, the widow, calling herself "advanced in years," executed her will 26 June, 1777, which was probated 18 February, 1778.* It made bequests to her children, constituted her kinsman, Abner Rogers, one of her executors, provided for the education of two young slaves, Sally and Thomas, and the liberation of two older ones, Primus and Sibilla.

Children of James and Esther² (Rogers) Eldridge:

- i. Abraham Eldridge³, born 23 November, 1730; married, 14 November, 1757, Mary, daughter of Isaac Lippincott, and removed to Culpeper, Virginia.
- ii. Abigail Eldridge³, born 30 March, 1734; died 9 June, 1807; married, in 1763, Abraham Matlack, born 1730; died 19 January, 1813.
- iii. Levi Eldridge³, born 27 October, 1736; married, license dated 26 July, 1763, Sarah Pongard. His will, probated 29 April, 1773, speaks of children Enoch, Mary, Thomas, and James.
- iv. James Eldridge³, born 27 October, 1738; married, in 1766, Hannah, daughter of William Evans: The records of the Evesham Friends' Meeting give the births of their children Rachel, Abigail, William, and Sarah.
- v. William Eldridge³, born 18 February, 1740; died 31 August, 1823; married, 20 January, 1772, Sarah Crispin.
- vi. Enoch Eldridge³, born 12 September, 1743; died, unmarried, 1 November, 1766.
- vii. ISAAC ELDRIDGE³, born 23 May, 1746; married (1), license dated 23 April, 1772, Mary, daughter of Thomas Rakestraw, of Evesham; (2) Mrs. Phebe Clark. His will of 27 July, 1814, mentions no children, and gives his estate to his various nephews and nieces.
- 4. ABNER ROGERS³ (William², Lieutenant William¹), was born in Burlington County, circa 1728–29; died there, 11 March, 1804, and was buried with his first wife, Hope Rogers, in Friends' Graveyard, at Mount Holly, in the lot next to his brother, William Rogers. He built the brick farm-house, which is now standing, on the road from Vincentown to Buddtown. The letters A. & H. Rogers are in green brick on the gable of the house. He was a member of the Burlington Meeting of Friends, and, with his wife Hope, received a certificate of removal therefrom to the Richland Meeting in Pennsylvania, 5 August, 1751. On 8 January, 1777, he was proposed as an overseer of Mount Holly Meeting, and was in membership with that meeting at his decease.

He was one of the executors of his father's will, and his signature as such is here reproduced.

On 11 May, 1801, he, then described as of Northampton Township, executed a deed, in which his wife Sylvania joined, to his son. Abner Rogers, Jun^r, for a certain messuage and tract of land, the bounds of which began "at a stone of the standing on the bank of the north side of the south branch of Rancocas Creek, and which contained some sixty-three acres, being the same which Abner Rogers, Sen^r, purchased, together with other lands, of Abraham Leeds, 23 May, 1772."*

He died intestate, and his estate was administered upon by his sons Joseph and Abner. The inventory of his effects described him as "late of Northampton Township," and was dated 23 March, 1804.† At the May Term, 1804, of the Orphans' Court of Burlington County, Joseph Rogers, one of the children of Abner Rogers, deceased, set forth that the only heirs of the said Abner Rogers were Joseph Rogers, Abner Rogers, Moses Rogers, Jane Rogers, the children of Lettice, late wife of Hezekiah Jones, and the children of Abigail, late wife of William Brannin, and that, by reason of the minority of the children of Lettice Jones and Abigail Brannin, the estate of Abner Rogers could not be divided by agreement. The court therefore appointed Hudson Burr, Job Jones, and William Irick, to make the desired division.‡

His first marriage, to Hope, daughter of William Shinn, took place 4 March, 1750–51. She died 3 November, 1780, aged forty-nine years. He married (2), 4 December, 1782, Sylvania, widow of Nathan Evans, of Burlington County, and daughter of Jacob and Susanna Gaskill, by whom there was probably no issue.

Children of Abner³ and Hope (Shinn) Rogers; born at Vincentown:

- i. Abigail Rogers4, died before May, 1804; married, 3 March, 1779, William Brannin.
- ii. Jane Rogers', married, 3 April, 1782, William Sleeper, who died before 5 May, 1797. There were at least two children by this marriage, who died young.
- iii. Joseph Rogers⁴, born 13 August, 1760; died 10 January, 1830; married, 25 August. 1783. Esther, daughter of Samuel and Esther Atkinson, and removed in 1813 to Ohio.

- iv. Lettice Rogers⁴, died 7 February, 1796; married, 6 March, 1782, Hezekiah Jones, Jun¹, of Burlington County.
- v. Hope Rogers⁴, died unmarried, 10 June, 1790.
- vi. Abner Rogers⁴, born 1769; died 23 December, 1854; married Mary Atkinson, born 1773; died 10 December, 1842; and both are buried in the Baptist church-yard at Pemberton. He and wife Mary executed a deed of trust to John Dobbins, of Burlington County, 28 October, 1811, for the benefit of Elizabeth, wife of Lewis Atkinson.* Their children were: 1. Hope Rogers⁵, married, 30 October, 1817, Isaac Woolston. 2. Job Rogers⁵, married, 25 January, 1823, Sarah, daughter of Nathan and Hannah (Doren) Shinn, of Vincentown. 3. Abner Rogers⁵, married, 23 December, 1841, Sarah Ann Lanagan. 4. Mary Ann Rogers⁵, married, 6 June, 1839, John A. Pippitt, of Vincentown.
- vii. Moses Rogers4, died intestate, unmarried, before February, 1812.†
- 5. ABIGAIL ROGERS^a (William², Lieutenant William¹), was born about 1730, and married, 1 June, 1750, Samuel Jones, who is said to have been born in Glamorganshire, Wales, in 1727, and to have come to New Jersey about 1740. After his marriage he resided for a time in Pennsylvania, and during this period probably acquired the "pine lands, cedar swamp, and saw-mill in Northampton County," in that State, which he afterwards bequeathed to his son Abraham. He settled, in or about 1760, at New Mills, now Pemberton, New Jersey, where he established a tannery and built a large house overlooking the Rancocas. The former building was burned to the ground in 1820, and the latter has been entirely remodelled. He and his wife were constituent members of the Baptist Church of Pemberton, and he was buried near the centre of its old graveyard. According to his tombstone, which is in an excellent state of preservation, he died 6 November, 1783, aged fifty-six years. His wife Abigail was living at the date of his will, 27 August, 1782.

Children of Samuel and Abigail³ (Rogers) Jones:

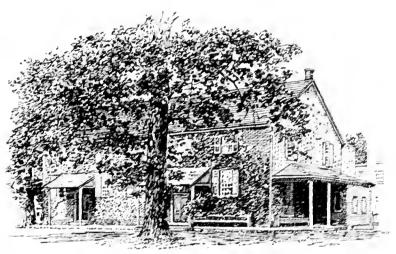

- i. Abraham Jones⁴, born 19 July, 1753; died 20 March, 1799; married, 31 August, 1773, Elizabeth Bolton. Issue: 1. Elizabeth Jones⁵, married William Shinn.
- ii. Elizabetii Jones⁴, married (1), 31 August, 1772, Samuel Allen, who died before his father-in-law, and she married (2) Frank D. Dobbins.
- iii. Ann Jones⁴, born 1758; died 17 April, 1837; married, 12 March, 1777, Thomas Scraggy. Her son, Samuel Scraggy, was named in his grandfather's will.
- iv. Samuel Jones⁴, born 11 December, 1762; died 28 September, 1849; married (1), 7 December, 1786, Elizabeth Woolston, born 6 October, 1769; died 15 September, 1823; married (2), 21 January, 1828, Mary Woolston, born 1772; died 14 September, 1843.
- v. Abigail Jones⁴, described in her father's will of 27 August, 1782, as not twenty-one; married Thomas Jennings.

6. WILLIAM ROGERS³ (William², Lieutenant William¹), was born in New Hanover, Burlington County, 27 May, 1732, and died in Northampton Township, 28 November, 1796, being buried on 1 December of that year. At the beginning of his married life he leased from George Herbert, under date of 8 November, 1755, for the term of three years, a plantation in Springfield, "containing about one hundred acres with the Dwelling house, Out-houses, Barns, Stables, Orchards, Gardens, Pastures, Meadow-ways &c," thereunto belonging. The instrument for this leasehold is still in possession of the family.* By deed of 8 March, 1763, he became possessed of some one hundred and fifty acres of land in Nottingham Township, which he purchased from Ebenezer Doty, and Margaret his wife, of Bridgetown (Mount Holly), and to this he added, on I May, 1764, seventy-nine acres in the same township, by purchase from Hannah Cox, John Cox, and Hugh Hollinshead, executors of the will of William Cox, of Willingsborough in the same county.† To these last-named tracts, he. from time to time, added sundry others, ‡ and became a large landed proprietor, a successful farmer and miller. In

Mount Holly Meeting-House

1768, he built a grist-mill and distillery, a short distance from Mount Holly, on the road to Rancocas, the ruins of which still exist, and bear the initials

[†] Both purchases noted in a mortgage deed from William Rogers and Martha his wife, to Joseph Noble, dated 9 March, 1767. (Burlington County Mortgages, I, 36.)

[‡] One hundred and seventy-five acres purchased from Joseph Cox and Mary his wife, 3 February, 1770. (Burlington County Deeds, K, 42, 43.)

Twenty-four acres also purchased from Joseph Cox, on which was a dwelling-house, stables, and out-buildings, and which William Rogers conveyed to Robert Domard, 23 March, 1776. (New Jersey Deeds, A L, 18–29.)

Five acres and fourteen perches of Cedar Swamp, in Evesham, purchased in partnership with Micajah Reeve from Henry Burr, Jun¹, of Northampton, 25 January, 1775. Deed in possession of Mr. Leander Rogers.

Eight lots, pieces, or parcels of land, situated on the southerly side of the main north branch of Rancocas Creek, purchased 10 September, 1784, from John Sleeper and Hannah his wife. (Burlington County Deeds, L, 722, 723.)

A parcel of land and cedar swamp in Gloucester County, New Jersey, on Little Egg Harbor River, and containing about ninety-six acres, purchased from Abraham and Nehemiah Leeds, of Northampton.

W. R. and the above date. During the occupancy of the Mount Holly Meeting-House by the British, in 1777, as the head-quarters of the commissary department, the mill is said to have been attacked by the Hessian troops, who, in their attempt to enter the distillery, destroyed the bolting cloth and much of the machinery.

Mr. Rogers was identified with the Society of Friends, and he requested that his children might be taken under Friends' care, but his connection therewith was not, however, strong enough to keep him from expressing his patriotic impulses during the Revolutionary struggle. He served at one time as express rider or light horseman,* took the "test oath," and paid the "military fines." Such conduct being a violation of the discipline of the Friends, they took his "delinquencies" into consideration, and on 4 April, 1781, the Mount Holly Meeting disowned him from their body. Mr. Rogers appealed the case to the Quarterly Meeting, and was eventually restored to membership.†

His will, which was probated 20 December, 1796, and is of record in the office of the Secretary of State, at Trenton, is given in full. The chest therein mentioned and bequeathed for "antiquities sake" to the son William, was of carved oak, painted a dull red. Surrounding the key-hole is a scene depicting the storming of a fortress, and below are plumed knights in armor. It was originally four feet ten inches in length, one foot ten inches in width, and two feet in height, but, some fifty years since, five inches were taken from each end. The lock is six inches square, and one and one-quarter inches thick, and the key is six inches in length.

William Rogers

The surname of his wife Martha is uncertain. He was licensed to marry, 19 August, 1754, and on the license bond, filed at Trenton, her name is written Martha Estergan or Estergans. As no such surname is elsewhere found, it is thought her name was possibly Martha Esther Gans or Gano. She was born 11 August, 1732, and died 12 December, 1800,* and was buried by the side of her husband in Friends' ground at Mount Holly. Her signature as given, is reproduced from a deed of mortgage executed by herself and husband to Joseph Noble, 9 March, 1767. Her will is as follows:

"I, Martha Rogers, of the Township of Northampton in the County of Burlington being at this time in a sound disposing mind and memory and calling to mind the uncertainty of this life and the certainty of death, and being desirous to dispose of all my Estate which it hath pleased Providence to give me in this life, do make this my last Will and Testament making void all other Wills heretofore by me made and this one to be taken for the same as followeth, I do order all my just debts and funeral Charges be paid by my Executors hereafter named out of such monies as may arise from my Estate. I do give and bequeath unto my two Grand Children, the Children of my Daughter Mary Kirkbride, namely William and Mary Kirkbride, thirty pounds each, to be paid to them in one year after my death out of my Estate by my Executors hereafter named and I do give and bequeath unto my Granddaughter Elizabeth Kirkbride my Calico Curtains one pair of sheets and pillow cases and Bed quilt and I do give and bequeath to my granddaughter Ann Rogers, daughter of my son John my silver tea spoons; one figure worked coverled and one pair of Sheets and pillow cases and my white curtains and one Deaper Table Cloth, and I do give Elizabeth Kirkbride one Deaper Table Cloth which I had forgot, and I do give and bequeath to my Daughter Esther Rogers, my Mare in lieu of any other pay for nursing and taking care of me, and I do give and bequeath unto my five sons, namely William, John, Asa, Samuel, and Henry Rogers, five shillings each, to be paid to them in hand by my Executor hereafter named, and the remainder of my Estate wheresoever or whatsoever it may be, I do leave to be sold and equally divided betwixt my five daughters namely Elizabeth, Martha, Esther, Ann, and Sarah, Share and Share alike, and I do appoint and nominate my son Henry and my daughter Esther Rogers, Executor and Executrix of this my last Will and Testament, Giving or granting unto them or the Survivor of them full power to sell and distribute agreeable to the words above written to the best advantage of my Estate. In Testimony whereof I have thereunto set my Hand and Seal this twenty-fifth day of September one thousand eight hundred 1800.

7. JOB ROGERS³ (William², Lieutenant William¹), was born in Burlington County, about 1739, and died there, 17 February, 1799, aged fiftynine years.

In his father's will he is styled "shop keeper at New Mills," and he probably was its pioneer in this pursuit. Previous to 1752, the village of

New Mills, now the borough of Pemberton, was called Hampton Hanover, but in that year, David Budd, Robert Smith, Daniel Smith, and Patrick Reynolds built a gristmill on Rancocas Creek below the bridge,

- iii. Keziah Rogers⁴, named in the will of her grandmother, Mary Allen, of New Hanover, Burlington County, which bears date 22 March, 1789. The real estate of the testator was left to her children, Samuel Allen, Margery Rogers, and Margaret Allen, and the personalty to her grandchildren,—Rhoda to receive the silver, Keziah the pewter, and Margaret various articles of furniture.*

8. THOMAS ROGERS³ (William², Lieutenant William¹), was born in Burlington County, 26 August, 1740; died in Ohio, 17 January, 1817. He removed to Fayette County, Pennsylvania, after 29 March, 1796, and settled on the east bank of the Monongahela River. He purchased a large tract of land in Columbiana County, Ohio, and at his death he left one hundred and sixty acres to each of his seven sons, and eighty acres to each of his seven daughters. This tract is now known as Rogersville. He married, 10 May, 1765, Ann, daughter of Joseph Rodman by his wife Tabitha Mumford. She was born 31 January, 1749, and died at Brown's Ferry, Pennsylvania, 20 July, 1823. All of their sons were tall men, the shortest being six feet in height, and the tallest, Daniel Rogers, six feet six inches.

will of Thomas Elton, certain lands in Northampton Township, beginning at a stone in the great road leading from Burlington to Rancocas.*

He was a farmer, and is so described in a deed executed by himself and wife Anne, to Abraham Merritt, 9 January, 1801, for a plantation of one hundred and seventy-five acres in Northampton Township, which he had received from his father, William Rogers, and Martha his wife, by deed of 23 November, 1786.† William and Anne Rogers were also parties to a deed of 27 March, 1801, to William Cowperthwait for forty-six acres in Northampton Township, which his, the grantor's, father purchased from Joseph Cox, 3 February, 1770.‡ In 1812 he purchased the old house on Mill Street in Mount Holly, known as the Stephen Girard House, where Philadelphia's greatest philanthropist, her merchant and marine prince, carried on his business of bottling wines and brandies while Lord Howe held possession of the city of Penn in 1777–78. Mr. Rogers held various township offices, and was a justice of the peace and of the courts of the county.

His will, which bears date 5 September, 1818, and was probated 17 August, 1819, §

William Rogers zur

declares him to be in his sixty-third year, makes bequests to all the children enumerated below, except Caleb, Martha, and Elizabeth, who are not named, and gives to son William "a large oak chest for antiquities sake."

He married, 20 December, 1777, Anne, daughter of Revel Elton by his wife Anne Lippincott, || born 11 April, 1757; died 26 August, 1843. By deed of 24 December, 1819, Anne Rogers, Elton Rogers, and William Rogers, as executors of William Rogers, Esq^r, conveyed to Stacy Downs, Jun^r, of Mount

11. JOHN ROGERS⁴ (William³, William², Lieutenant William¹), was born in Mount Holly, 5 June, 1758, and died at Rancocas, 16 December, 1828.

He received from his father land on the south side of Rancocas Creek, and certain pieces of swamp land, one of which had been purchased by his grandfather, William Rogers, from Eleazer Fenton.

He and his wife Ann were joint parties with his brothers and sisters, as heirs of William Rogers, to various conveyances for land in Northampton Township, which had been acquired by their father, the said William Rogers, and by their grandfather, William Rogers; the instruments for the same being of record among the public archives of Burlington County.*

Mr. Rogers married (1) Ann Norcross, born 18 February, 1762; died 20 March, 1785, daughter of Joshua Norcross by his wife Jane Stratton. He married (2), in 1787, Anne Kemble, born 15 February, 1767, died 22 July, 1859, daughter of Joseph and Martha Kemble.

12. MARY ROGERS⁴ (William³, William², Lieutenant William¹), was born near Mount Holly, 15 June, 1760, and died at Mount Holly, 25 November, 1784, leaving three children. She married, 22 July, 1779, Phineas Kirkbride, son of John Kirkbride by his wife Margery Woolston, born in Falls Township, Bucks County, Pennsylvania, 25 February, 1754, and died at Mount Holly, 5 April, 1815. Mr. Kirkbride was the pioneer wheelwright and carriage-builder of Mount Holly, and his shops there were located on the present Main Street, just opposite the county buildings. Mary Kirkbride had been in membership with the Mount Holly Meeting of Friends, and was disciplined by that meeting, 7th of 2 mo., 1781, for her marriage out of conformity with Martha Kurkbride expressed in writing, was "con-

Friends' customs. Her "sorrow," sidered," and she was accordingly reinstated to good standing. After her death, Mr. Kirkbride married her sister, Martha Rogers (13), who was born near Mount Holly, 27 May, 1762, and died there, 4 March, 1828. By this last marriage he had nine children.

The paternal ancestry of Phineas Kirkbride furnishes names which have figured prominently in the early history of the two Quaker settlements of Pennsylvania and West Jersey. Joseph Kirkbride, his great-grandfather, came to Pennsylvania with the Proprietary, William Penn, in the "Welcome," in 1682, then a young man of nineteen, having been born 29 September, 1662, and son of Mahlon and Magdalen Kirkbride, of the quaint little town of Kirkbride, in county Cumberland, England. He settled in Bucks County, Pennsylvania, where he became a wealthy and influential man, a magistrate, member of the Assembly, and a leading minister among the Friends, and where he died in March, 1737. He married (1), 14 March, 1688, Phebe, daughter of Randall Blackshaw; (2), 7 February, 1702, Sarah, daughter of Mahlon and Rebecca Stacy, of Burlington County, New Jersey. She dying 28 November, 1703, he married (3), 17 February, son, John Kirkbride. This John Kirk- Thinkbride Kirkbride bride married (1), 16 March, 1731, Hannah, daughter of John and Joanna Sykes, of Chesterfield, who died the following year. He married (2), in 1744, Edith Newbold, of Chesterfield, and (3), 11 November, 1750, Margery Woolston, by whom he had Phineas Kirkbride, the subject of this sketch.

ROGERS FAMILY THE

14. ASA ROGERS⁴ (William³, William², Lieutenant William¹), was born near Mount Holly, 16 March, 1764, and died at Vincentown, Burlington County, 10 May, 1838. He was one of the executors of his father's will, and as such gave bond with his brothers, Samuel Rogers and Henry Rogers, 13 April, 1797, to William Rogers, John Rogers, Phineas Kirkbride, Esther Rogers, and Sarah Rogers, all of the township of Northampton, Jarvis Stokes, of the township of Willingborough, and William Lippincott, of the township of Chester, legatees under the will of William Rogers, late of Northampton, deceased. The instrument recited that the aforesaid William Rogers, by virtue of a conveyance from Abraham Engle and Patience his wife, bearing date 18 March, 1796, became possessed of a certain plantation in Northampton Township, containing about ninety acres, which was not disposed of in his will, and which the above-named executors were empowered to sell and to divide the proceeds equally among the heirs. In 1804 Asa Rogers was living on a farm on the road leading from Mount Holly to Rancocas Meeting-House,* but he later purchased several tracts of land and a stone house in Vincentown, and there resided until his death. He was one of school in 1808 and in 1819. His will, made 5 August, 1834, named the children given below, and made all his daughters executors.† He married, about 1795, Beulah Gaskill, who was living as late as 16 May, 1839, when she advertised that all debts due to the estate of her husband, Asa Rogers, of Vincentown, should be paid to herself and her daughters, Elizabeth Rogers and Harriet Oliphant, as the executors of his will.

Children of Asa4 and Beulah (Gaskill) Rogers; all born in Northampton Township:

- i. Job Rogers⁵, married, 4 April, 1822, Margaret, daughter of William Stockton.
- ii. Asa Rogers⁵, died unmarried; sold his business at Vincentown, 13 May, 1833.
- iii. ABNER ROGERS⁵, died 20 October, 1858; married Mary W. Bodine.
- iv. Sarah Rogers⁵, married, 28 October, 1826, Charles Wilkinson.
- v. Elizabeth J. Rogers⁵, died unmarried.
- vi. HARRIET ROGERS⁵, born 1811; died 16 May, 1847; married, 20 October, 1835, Job Oliphant, born 8 January, 1812; died 2 August, 1849.

15. SAMUEL ROGERS⁴ (William³, William², Lieutenant William¹), was born near Mount Holly, 18 January, 1766, and died at Mount Holly, in November, 1825. He was a successful farmer, and the owner of considerable land, as well as a large plantation on the south branch of Rancocas Creek, between Hainesport and Mount Holly, a part of which he had inherited from his father. The following advertisement from the Mount Holly Mirror, of 24 September, 1832, somewhat describes his homestead, which was sold when his youngest child, Clayton Brown Rogers, attained his majority:

"Sale of valuable Farm. South side of Rancocas.

"Residence of Samuel Rogers, Township of Northampton, 1¼ miles from Mount Holly, 16 from Philadelphia. 150 acres, 4 of meadow land, residue upland. Large two story Dwelling. Three rooms on first floor, 4 on second floor. One-half of house stone and the other brick. Large barn, hay-house, wagon-house, and crib. Situation retired and remarkably healthy. See Samuel E. Rogers on premises. George Haywood, of Mount Holly. Clayton B. Rogers, of Philadelphia."

Mr. Rogers was in fellowship with the Society of Friends and a member of the Mount Holly Meeting, and was buried in the graveyard surrounding the old Meeting-House on Main and Garden Streets. His will, which was executed 27 July, 1825, and probated 13 November, 1826,* follows herewith:

"In the name of God, Amen, I, Samuel Rogers of the Township of Northampton in the County of Burlington and State of New Jersey, being sick and low as to bodily health, but of sound and disposing mind, memory and understanding and knowing the uncertainty of this transitory life, do make and publish this as my last will and testament in manner and form following viz: First.—It is my will and I do order that all my just debts and funeral charges be duly paid and satisfied as soon as conveniently can be after my decease. Rehoboam Braddock described himself in his will of 30 December, 1809, as of Evesham. His legatees were wife Jemima, children Darnell, William, Elizabeth, Bathsheba, Hannah, Phebe, Jemima, Rachel, Mary, wife of Edward Borton, and grandchildren Charlotte and Job Braddock, and Marie Borton.

ham.* Their eldest son, William Rogers Braddock, was one of the constituent members of the Surveyors' Association of West Jersey, and for many years the principal surveyor of South Jersey. In politics he was an old-time Whig, and was twice elected a member of the New Jersey Legislature. In 1848 he planted the first cranberry vines, and in 1850 cultivated successfully the first cranberry plantation in West Jersey. Darnell Braddock was a member of the Upper Evesham Meeting of Friends, but was disunited 3 mo. 8, 1800, for his marriage out of the order of Friends.

He was graduated at the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy, and shortly afterwards opened a drugstore in Mount Holly, New Jersey, under the firm name of Bullock & Rogers. On 13 May, 1833, the announcement was made in the Mount Holly Mirror that "Bullock & Rogers had taken a New Building opposite the Meeting-House, where they would dispense Drugs, Medicines, etc." The firm later became Wilson & Rogers, and Mr. Rogers continued at Mount Holly in this business until about 1848, when he removed to Philadelphia, and founded there a seed and agricultural warehouse, of which he remained proprietor until his death. "Philadelphia as it is in 1852," published by Lindsay & Blackiston (1852), contains his advertisement of that date:

"C. B. ROGERS'S

Coffin Lineage

HE Coffins of New England trace their lineage from the ancient and honorable family of their name in Devonshire, England. The name is found in that shire as early as the twelfth century, since which time it has had a habitat there. During the thirteenth century one Richard Coffyn was granted free warren in the manor of Alwington by King Henry III., and early in the next century the manor was settled upon another Richard Coffyn, from whose day, until the present time, the lordship of the manor has remained in the Coffin family. It is one of the rare instances of an English estate being retained for a period of nearly eight hundred years in one family and continuing the original name. The grounds belonging to the manor comprise most of the parish of Alwington, about three thousand seven hundred acres, near the borough of Bideford, in North Devon, which Charles Kingsley so graphically describes in his "Westward Ho." The compiler has visited the manor-house, Portledge, where are preserved the muniments of title of this ancient estate, dating back to the year 1254.

The approach from Bideford to Portledge extends for nearly four miles through a shaded road, banked on either side by luxuriant hedges, upon which opens a great gateway of stone. Passing through this, there is a driveway of about a mile through a forest, at the end of which is the manor-house, surrounded by lawns which extend on the one side down to the sea, and which in depth and beauty of verdure bespeak their centuries of cultivation. The mansion house, which is of stone, with coigns, buttresses, and battlements, many windowed and almost hidden by ivy, is entered through a capacious square hall galleried on the level of the second floor.

This, as well as the spacious, heavily wain-scoted dining-room, is lined with portraits of Coffins of other centuries, men and women in antiquated dress, but with the fine faces, blue eyes, and characteristic features of the race of to-day. The ancient arrangement of the interior of the house has been modified to meet modern requirements, but the stately carved doors and ceilings still display the emblazonments and quarterings of the family arms. On the ceiling of the dining-room the Coffin arms is quartered with those of the Pine family, another of the "Worthies of Devon," with whom the Coffins have intermarried.* Portledge was once famous for its extensive library, which contained a priceless accumulation of documents, dating from the fourteenth century. About 1800 many of the manuscripts and books were dispersed. The present owner of Portledge is Major Pine Coffin, of the English army. His youngest brother, Tristram Pine Coffin, Esq^r, bears his Christian name in honor of his remote kinsman, Tristram Coffin, the founder of the American family.

^{*} The description of the interior of Portledge is largely taken from Mrs. Johnson's account thereof, in the "Life of Admiral Sir Isaac Coffin, Baronet."

Mrs. Matilda Pine Coffin, of Portledge, in answer to a letter from the compiler inquiring as to the age of the manor-house, writes, under date of 10 September, 1902:

"In regard to the age of the old home 'Portledge,' I do not think we can suggest any date except that upon good authority I know that an old arch and old doorway on the north side is as old as the twelfth century, or about the date of Henry II., King of England. The house from time to time has been much changed, but a house has existed there for many centuries."

Nicholas Coffin, the grandfather of Tristram Coffin, Esq^r, the founder of the New England family of Coffin, resided at Butler's, Brixton Parish, in southern Devonshire, and was buried there 8 October, 1613. His will, dated 21 December, and proved 3 November, that year, names wife Joan; sons Peter, Tristram, Nicholas, and John; daughter Anne, and granddaughter Joan Coffin. His widow, Joan, was buried at Brixton, 5 February, 1614.

Peter Coffin, the eldest son of Nicholas, and the father of Tristram Coffin, Esq^r, resided at Butler's, and was a church-warden of Brixton Parish. He died at Butler's, in 1628. His will, dated 21 December, 1627, was proved the 13th of March following, and named wife Joan; sons Tristram and John; daughters Joan, Deborah, Eunice, and Mary; and brother Nicholas. He bequeathed the principal part of his estate to his wife, with remainder to his son Tristram, and mentioned an estate at Butler's, called "Silverhay." The will of his brother John, of the same place, is dated 4 January, 1624, and named as executor thereof his nephew Tristram Coffin, and gave legacies to his nephew and nieces John, Joan, Deborah, Eunice, and Mary.

Peter Coffin married, circa 1609, Joan, daughter of Robert * and Anna Kember, of Brixton Parish.† She survived her husband, and about 1642 emigrated to Massachusetts, accompanied by her son Tristram and daughters Eunice and Mary. She died at Boston, in May, 1661, aged seventy-seven years. Judge Sewall, in his famous Diary, notes that the Reverend John Wilson preached her funeral sermon and "embalmed her memory."

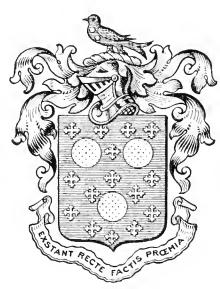

I. TRISTRAM COFFIN, Esq^{R1}, was the eldest child of Peter Coffin by his wife Joan Kember, and was baptized in Brixton Parish, 11 March,

† The courtesy of Charles Howard Colket, Esq^r, of Philadelphia, has furnished copies of these English wills, the Coffin entries from Brixton parish register, besides other assistance in the compilation of this chapter.

^{*} ROBERT KEMBER is styled in his will, proved in January, 1612, as "of Lower Harston within the parish of Brixton in the Countie of Devon, yeoman," and by the same he gave a bequest "unto Joane my Daughter the Wyfe of Peter Cawfing," and "unto Tristram and Joane the children of Peter Cawfing." His widow, Anna Kember, by her will, dated 23 March, 1625, proved 14 April, 1626, bequeathed "to Peter Coffings children Tenn shillings a peece."

1610. That he was a man of estate and of excellent repute prior to quitting his Devonshire home and coming to America, is plainly indicated in his selection, in 1639, as a warden of Brixton Parish. About two years later he emigrated to Massachusetts, accompanied by his mother, sisters Eunice and Mary, and his five children. Upon his arrival in the colony, he made his home, temporarily, at Salisbury, but shortly removed to Haverhill, where he remained until about 1647, when he removed to Newbury. The earliest record of his presence in the colony is under date of 15 March, 1642, on which day he was a witness to the Indian deed for the territory which became Haverhill. In 1647 he was "allowed to keep an ordinary at Newbury," and to "retayle wine," and was granted, at the same time, the franchise of a ferry across the Merrimac, on "the Newbury side." At a later date he removed to Salisbury, where, in 1654, he became magistrate, and signed his name and title, "Tristram Coffyn Commissioner of Salisbury."

In 1659 he became a leader in the movement to establish an English colony on the island of Nantucket, which point he visited with this end in view, and, being favorably impressed with the locality, he negotiated for the purchase of the island from Thomas Mayhew, who then held the patent for the same. Mr. Coffin induced a number of his friends to join him in the project, and on 2 July, 1659, the purchase was made. The deed for the island names nine grantees, with Mr. Coffin's name at the head of the list.

Shortly after the purchase was made, Mr. Coffin removed to the island, taking with him a portion of his family. He was foremost in the work of establishing the new colony, and in promoting its welfare, and so prominent and effective were his services in these directions, that he came to be recognized as its founder, and his descendants have ever since been conspicuously identified with its affairs.

Political affairs among the islanders drifted along, under the direction of the inhabitants themselves, until 1671, at which date the colony had attained such proportions that a more definite establishment of government was found to be necessary. The inhabitants presented their needs to the governor of the colony of New York, of which Nantucket was a part until 1692, and this action was soon followed by the appointment of Mr. Coffin to the governor-ship of the island, and the adoption of rules for its government. Mr. Coffin's commission to the chief-magistracy reads:

"Commiffion Granted to Mr. Triftram Coffin, Senr., to be Chiefe Magistrate in and over the Islands of Nantuckett and Tuckanuckett."—[Deeds III., 62, Secretary's Office, Albany, New York.]

"Francis Lovelace, Esq., &c.: Whereas upon Address made unto mee by Mr. Tristram Coffin and Mr. Thomas Macy on ye behalfe of themselves and ye rest of ye Inhabitants of Nantucket Island concerning ye Mannor and Method of Governmnt to be used amongst themselves, and having by ye Advice of my Councell pitcht upon a way for them; That is to fay That they be Governed by a Person as Chiefe Magistrate, and two Assistants, ye former to be nominated by myfelfe, ye other to bee chosen and confirmed by ye Inhabitants as in ye Instructions sent unto them is more particularly Sett forth. And having conceived a good Opinion of ye ffitness and capacity of Mr. Triftram Coffin to be ye prient Chiefe Magistrate to manage Affayres wth ye Ayd and good Advice of ye Affiftants in ye Iflands of Nantuckett and Tuckanuckett, I have thought fitt to Nominate, Conftitute, and Appoint and by these Preents doe hereby Nominate Conftitute and Appoint Mr. Tristram Coffin to be Chiefe Magistrate of ye faid Islands of Nantuckett and Tuckanuckett. "Given under my Hand and Seal at fforte James in New Yorke, this 29th day of June in ye 22^d Yeare of his Ma^{ties} Reigne, Annoq. Dni. 1671.

"Fran: Lovelace."

It will be observed that the foregoing commission made Mr. Coffin chief magistrate over the island of Tuckanuckett, as well as of Nantucket. The former island is near the latter, and was the property of the Coffin family, it having been purchased by Mr. Coffin and his sons Peter, Tristram, and James, by deed from Thomas Mayhew, 10 October, 1659.

Mr. Coffin again became governor of Nantucket, and this time by virtue of a commission from Sir Edmund Andros, dated 16 September, 1677. In his public life, as well as in that of a private citizen, he proved himself a worthy ancestor of his numerous posterity, many of whom reached distinction.

He lived at Northam, near Capaum Pond, Nantucket, and died 2 December, 1681, aged seventy-six years. He married, circa 1629, Dionis, daughter of Robert Steven, or Stevens,* of Brixton Parish, baptized at Brixton, 4 March, 1610.

Children of Tristram Coffin, Esq^{r1}, by his wife Dionis Steven:

- i. Peter Coffin², baptized at Brixton, 18 July, 1630; died at Exeter, New Hampshire, 21 March, 1715. He was a member of the New Hampshire Assembly, a Councillor of that Province, and for many years a justice of the Supreme Court. He married Abigail Starbuck, by whom he had nine children, of which Elizabeth married Colonel John Gilman, of Exeter.
- ii. Tristram Coffin², born in England, circa 1632; died at Newbury, Massachusetts, 4 February, 1704; was lieutenant of the Newbury militia company, a member of the Assembly, and for twenty years a deacon of the church at Newbury. He married Judith, widow of Henry Somerby, and daughter of Captain Edmund Greenleaf, by whom he had ten children.
- iii. Elizabeth Coffin², born in England; died at Newbury, Massachusetts, 19 November, 1678; married Captain Stephen Greenleaf.
- iv. James Coffin², baptized in Brixton Parish, 11 September, 1639. Family records give his birth as 12 August, 1640. If the baptismal record is correct, the year of his birth was no doubt 1639. He died at Nantucket, 28 July, 1720. He was a judge of the Court of Common Pleas and of the Court of Probate. He married, 3 December, 1663, Mary Severance, by whom he had fourteen children. His great-grandson, Nathaniel Coffin, was graduated at Harvard College in 1744, and was the father of General John Coffin, of the English army, and of Admiral Sir Isaac Coffin, rear-admiral of the White Squadron in the British navy.
- v. John Coffin², born in England; died at Haverhill, Massachusetts, 20 October, 1642.
- vi. Deborah Coffin², born at Haverhill, 15 November, 1642; died there, 8 December, same year.
- vii. Mary Coffin², born at Haverhill, 20 February, 1645; died at Nantucket, 13 September, 1717; married Nathaniel Starbuck, of Nantucket. She was a noted woman, and took a prominent part in the civil and religious affairs of Nantucket. "The islanders esteemed her as a judge among them, for little of moment was done without her." She became a Quaker and a preacher of that sect.
- viii. John Coffin², born at Haverhill, 30 October, 1647; died at Edgartown, Martha's Vineyard, in 1711; married Deborah Austin, by whom he had seven children.
- (2) ix. Stephen Coffin², born at Newbury, 11 May, 1652; died at Nantucket, 18 May, 1734; married Mary Bunker.

^{*} ROBERT STEVEN was a churchwarden of Brixton Parish. His will, dated 16 December, 1627, proved 14 February, 1627–28, and filed in the District Registry attached to the Probate Division of the High Court of Justice at Exeter, England, styles him "of Forde, within the parish of Brixton in the Countie of Devon, yeoman," and names, among others, his wife Dionis and daughter Dionis. The will of his widow, Dionis, is dated 17 October, and was proved 16 December, 1647.

2. STEPHEN COFFIN² (Tristram¹), was born at Newbury, Massachusetts, 11 May, 1652, and died at Nantucket, 18 May, 1734.* To him was intrusted the management of his father's estate on an agreement to "be helpful to his parents in their old age." He married Mary, daughter of George† and Jane (Godfrey) Bunker. She died at Nantucket in 1724.

Children of Stephen² and Mary (Bunker) Coffin, all born at Nantucket:

- i. DINAH COFFIN3, born 21 September, 1671; married Jacob Norton.
- ii. Peter Coffin3, born 14 November, 1673; married in Boston.
- iii. Stephen Coffin³, born 20 February, 1676; died in 1725; married, 21 November, 1693, Experience Look, by whom he had issue.
- (3) iv. Daniel Coffin3, died in 1724; married Elizabeth ---.
 - v. Judith Coffin³, died in December, 1760; married (1) Peter Folger, who was born in 1674, and died in 1707; (2) Nathaniel Barnard, who died 28 February, 1718; (3) Stephen Wilcox.
 - vi. Susannah Coffin³, died 11 June, 1740; married 9 January, 1700, Peleg Bunker, born 18 December, 1676; died 1 April, 1730.
 - vii. Mehitable Coffin³, married Armstrong Smith.
 - viii. Anna Coffin³, died 22 April, 1740; married Solomon Gardner, born in 1680; died 17 June, 1760.
 - ix. Hepzibeth Coffin3, married Samuel Gardner, who died 28 October, 1757.

- 3. DANIEL COFFIN³ (Stephen², Tristram¹), was born at Nantucket about 1678. No details of his life have been preserved. He followed the then great industry of the island, whale-fishing, and, according to the Starbuck Manuscripts, was lost at sea while on a whaling voyage in 1724. Others of his family met a similar death at about this period. In 1724, Dinah Coffin, widow of his cousin Elisha Coffin, presented a petition to the Legislature of Massachusetts, setting forth that her husband "Elisha Coffin sailed from [†] George Bunker was born in England, and died at Topsfield, Massachusetts, 26 May, 1658. Mr. Savage, in compiling his noted "Dictionary of New England Families," had, apparently, authentic evidence of the parentage of George Bunker, as he states without question that he was a son of William Bunker, a Huguenot in England. George Bunker came to his death by drowning. An inventory of his estate was filed by his widow three days after his death, and the records of the Probate Court in Essex County, Massachusetts, gives the names of his children and their ages,—to wit, Elizabeth, aged twelve; William, aged ten; Mary, aged six; Ann, aged four; and Martha, aged one and one-half years. Shortly after his death his widow married Richard Swain, and removed with him and her children to Nantucket, they being among the earliest English settlers on that island. George Bunker married, circa 1644, Jane Godfrey.

The prayer was granted, 25 November, 1724.*

Daniel Coffin married Elizabeth ——, and had at least the children here given:

a brother. His cousin, Charles Coffin, had joined the church in 1722, and some time earlier, William Coffin, of Nantucket, who married Ann Holmes, and was a brother to Charles Coffin, likewise joined the same church. Joseph Coffin married, at Boston, 11 August, 1730, Abigail Thomas; the officiating clergyman being the Reverend Thomas L. Cheever. He removed to Newbury, circa 1733, but retained membership in the New North Church at Boston until 1744, during which year he was dismissed to the Third Church at Newbury, now the First Church of Newburyport. The date of his death is uncertain, although it is probable that he is the Joseph Coffin who died at Newbury, 12 March, 1769.

Children of Joseph⁴ and Abigail (Thomas) Coffin:

- i. Abigail Coffin⁵, born 25 Sepember, 1731; died 18 January, 1823; married, 12 December, 1752, Joseph Remick, who died 2 October, 1782, and by whom she had a son, Captain William Coffin Remick, who married Hannah Noyes.
- (5) ii. William Coffin⁵, born 6 May, 1733; died about 1779; married Mrs. Parnel (Hammond) Sears.
 - iii. Joseph Coffin⁵, born 21 April, 1735; removed to Nantucket about 1762; died 13 April, 1801. He was known as "Joseph Coffin, the painter." He married (1), 12 January, 1759, Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Gillings, of Newbury. She died 6 March, 1784; and he married (2) Betsy, daughter of Samuel Palmer. By the first marriage he had six children, four of whom—Isaac, Elizabeth, Abigail, and George—died unmarried. William M. Coffin married Mary Burdit, and had issue, and the remaining child, Sarah, married Peleg Long, and died without issue. By the second wife he had a daughter Polly, who married Theodore Fish, and left issue.
 - iv. Benjamin Coffin⁵, born 26 June, 1736; married, in 1773, Hannah Wyatt, and had issue; removed to Hampton, New Hampshire.
 - v. Mercy Coffin⁵, born 19 May, 1738; baptized at Newbury, in May, 1739.
 - vi. Sarah Coffin⁵, born I March, 1740; married 6 September, 1764, Captain Moses Brown, born at Newburyport, 20 January, 1742; died at sea, I January, 1804. During the Revolution he commanded some of the largest privateers of New England, and was engaged in several battles and captured several vessels. On the establishment of the United States navy, the merchants of Newburyport built the "Merrimac" by subscription, and Captain Brown was placed in command, his commission dating from 15 September, 1798. An interesting autobiography, beginning with the year 1757, is in the possession of his descendant, Moses Brown, Esq^r, of Newburyport.
 - vii. Paul Coffin⁵, born 12 February, 1742; baptized in Newbury, in 1743.
 - viii. Mary Coffin⁵, born in 1744.
 - ix. Rebecca Coffin⁵, born in 1746.
 - x. Ann Coffin⁵, born in 1748.
 - xi. George Coffin5, born in 1750.
- 5. WILLIAM COFFIN⁵ (Joseph⁴, Daniel³, Stephen², Tristram¹), was born at Newbury, Massachusetts, 6 May, 1733; died at Greenbank, Burlington County, New Jersey, circa 1779. In a deed dated 3 November, 1767, he is styled "of Newbury, mariner," and he doubtless followed the sea in early life. He removed to New Jersey about 1768, and is said to have come there under circumstances related by his grandchildren, as follows: About 1765, a company was formed at Portsmouth, New Hampshire, to manufacture shingles from cedar procured from the cedar forests in southern New Jersey. This company sent men to fell the trees and cut them into shingles, and also sent out vessels to transport the shingles, or cedar logs, from New Jersey to New England and elsewhere. One of such vessels was "The Adventure," commanded by Captain Paul Sears, and on one of its voyages, about the year 1768, William Coffin was a passenger, being sent out as the agent of the company mentioned. He eventually settled near the cedar forests, and from entries in an old account book kept by a merchant in that day, it is found that for some years he purchased provisions for the supply of those engaged by the company which he represented. The last entry of purchase is in the year 1779, and it is thought his death occurred at about that time. Captain Sears * removed his family from Rochester, Massachusetts, to the locality in which Mr. Coffin lived, but was soon after lost at sea, leaving to survive him a widow and several children. Mr. Coffin married his widow. Mrs. Parnel (Hammond) Sears, and daughter of Josephus Hammond, of Rochester, by his wife, Thankful Winslow. (See Hammond Family, No. 3.) Mrs. Coffin was born at Rochester, 24 March, 1736, and died at Hammonton, New Jersey, 22 January, 1817, having married, as third husband, Burdsall Tyler. She was buried at Pleasant Mills near Hammonton.

Children of William⁵ and Parnel (Hammond) Coffin:

- i. Parnel Coffin⁶, born 20 June, 1773; died 27 February, 1848; married Cornelius Tice, Esqr.
- ii. William Coffin⁶, born 10 February, 1775; died 19 November, 1844; married Ann
- 6. PARNEL COFFIN⁶ (William⁵, Joseph⁴, Daniel³, Stephen², Tristram¹), was born 20 June, 1773; died at Tansboro, New Jersey, 27 February, 1848; married, 16 February, 1802, Cornelius Tice, Esqr, born in 1771; died at Tansboro, New Jersey, 28 July, 1823. Mr. Tice was a lay preacher

Cornelus Zi in the Methodist Episcopal Church, and was commissioned a justice of the peace. After his death, his widow became a member of St. John's Episcopal Church at Chew's Landing, the rite of baptism being administered in 1836 by the Reverend Mr. Handell.

^{*} Captain Paul Sears (Paul, Paul, Richard) was born at Rochester, Massachusetts, in 1722. and died at sea, probably about 1770. His banns of marriage to Parnel Hammond were published 30 November, 1755, and the marriage no doubt followed soon after. He was a sea-captain, and is said to have commanded the schooner "Adventure" on its voyages to Little Egg Harbor Bay, New Jersey, where it loaded with cargoes of shingles or cedar lumber. It is also a matter of tradition that, on one of his voyages to that point, his family accompanied him, to make a home in New Jersey. That his family removed to New Jersey is clearly established, as his widow married there, as did, also, some of his children. The latter, so far as ascertained, were: 1. ANN SEARS. 2. SARAH SEARS, who married Nicholas Sooy. 3. Josephus Sears, born 6 March, 1767; married (1), 13 September, 1789, Catharine Carter; (2), 6 July, 1812, Achsah, widow of Chalkley Cranmer, and daughter of Captain John Leake. 4. PAUL SEARS, born 28 April, 1769: died 18 April, 1848; married Patience Ware. The latter was for a number of years a member of the Township Committee of Deptford, Gloucester County, New Jersey. For some account of Paul Sears's descendants, see "Surveyor's Association of New Jersey," 389.

7. WILLIAM COFFIN, Esq^{R6} (William⁵, Joseph⁴, Daniel³, Stephen², Tristram¹), was born at Greenbank, Burlington County, New Jersey, 10 February, 1775; died at Hammonton, Atlantic County, New Jersey, 19 November, 1844. He spent his early life on a farm. Upon his marriage he removed to Philadelphia, where he remained until 1802, when he succeeded his father-in-law as proprietor of the hotel near Long-a-Coming, now Berlin, New Jersey. A little later he became the proprietor of the Sailor-Boy Inn, located about four miles southeast of Hammonton, on the main road to Egg This inn was at that time, and remained for many years after, one of the principal stopping-places for travellers on the route from Philadelphia to "the shore." In April, 1814, Mr. Coffin purchased of Dr. Jonathan R. Coates, of Philadelphia, a tract of over eighteen hundred acres of land, and founded there the town of Hammonton, which was named in honor of his son, John Hammond Coffin, and, incidentally, in honor of his mother's Here he established his home and engaged in the lumber maiden name. In 1819 he sold a half-interest in his lands at Hammonton to Ionathan Haines, and he and Mr. Haines established a plant for the manufacture of glass, which venture proved both successful and remunerative. Two years later he bought the interest of his partner, and shortly afterwards took his son William into copartnership, the firm name becoming William Coffin, Ir., & Co. Some time later, he purchased several tracts of land at what became Winslow, Camden County, New Jersey, the whole embracing over four thousand acres, and being known as the "Winslow Tract." Upon this property, composed chiefly of farms and forests, he built the Winslow Glass-Works, which grew to be one of the leading works of its kind in the country. Around the works has grown the town of Winslow, which received its name from Mr. Coffin, and was given in honor of his son Edward Winslow Coffin, as well as in honor of the prominent Massachusetts family of that name from which he descended. On 5 September, 1834, he took his son William into copartnership, and conveyed unto him a one-half interest in the Winslow tract and works, and on I August, the next year, he sold his remaining half-interest to his son-in-law, Thomas Jefferson Perce, who died a few months later.

Mr. Coffin continued in active business until within about a year of his death. Upon his retirement, he placed his glass-works at Hammonton in the hands of his sons John Hammond Coffin and Edward Winslow Coffin, and by his will he devised the same to them, in the following words:

"I give and devise all that my Tract & Tracts of Land, Glass Manufactory, Houses, Buildings, and appurtenances called Hammonton, Situate partly in Mullica township, Atlantic County, and partly in Gloucester township and county in the State of New Jersey; also all that Tract of Pine land of about one hundred acres more or less, which I bought of the Executors of Anthony Warrick, deceased, situated as described in the Deed, together also with all the Teams, Wagons, Stock, materials for making glass, Store Goods, and appurtenances, and all the glass on hand at the Factory at the time of my decease, unto my two sons John Hammond & Edward Winslow Coffin, in equal shares."

Mr. Coffin took an active interest in public affairs, his party affiliations being with the Whigs. In 1813, he was commissioned a justice of the peace for Gloucester County, and was several times recommissioned, receiving his last appointment 19 January, 1838. In 1827, he became the first postmaster of Hammonton, and held the office until his death, when he was succeeded by his son, Edward Winslow Coffin.

He married, 19 September, 1798, Ann Bodine, born at Swago Furnace, Burlington County, New Jersey, 13 August, 1779; died at Ashland, New Jersey, 17 April, 1863. She was a daughter of Joel Bodine by his wife Mary Corlies. (See Bodine Family, No. 12.)

- 8. WILLIAM COFFIN, June (William, William, Joseph, Daniel, Stephen², Tristram¹), was born at Philadelphia, 23 February, 1801, and died at his residence, No. 2007 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, 29 February, 1872. His business career was begun in connection with his father's glass-works at Hammonton. Here he acquired a practical knowledge of the manufacture of glass, and he displayed such aptitude in this direction, as well as in the general conduct of the business, that, almost immediately after he attained his majority, his father admitted him into copartnership with him, under the firm name of William Coffin, Jr., & Co. Five years later he, with three others, established a glass-works at Millville, New Jersey, where he remained three years, returning at the end of that time to Hammonton, and again becoming identified with the works there. He took a prominent part in aiding his father to found the Winslow Glass-Works, and it is said that he felled the first tree in the work of making a clearing in the woods on which to build these works. Upon their construction he became actively identified with the management of the business, becoming a partner in the same, and on 5 September, 1834, his father conveyed unto him a half-interest in the works and in the "Winslow Tract." On I August, 1835, the father conveyed the remaining half-interest to his son-in-law, Thomas J. Perce. The latter dying a few months later, his interest in the business and tract named was purchased by William Coffin, Ir., who thus became the owner of the entire works and the lands pertaining thereto. Three years later he sold a half-interest in the same to another brother-in-law, Honorable Andrew K. Hay, the firm then becoming William Coffin, Jr., & Hay, and so continuing until 1847, when Mr. Coffin sold his interest in the business to his brother Edward Winslow Coffin and John B. Hay, nephew of Andrew K. Hay. He then retired from glass manufacturing and removed to Philadelphia. Although he had accumulated an ample fortune, he was not content to remain idle, and so entered upon a new enterprise. He associated himself with Professor James C. Booth, of Philadelphia, in the experiment of refining nickel and cobalt, it being the first attempt in that direction made in this country. It proved successful, and in 1852 the business was removed to Cooper's Creek, in Camden, and much enlarged. The works are now owned by Joseph Wharton, Esqr, of Philadelphia, and have brought the latter large wealth. In 1850 Mr. Coffin was active, with others, in establishing the Brooklyn Gas-Works, and afterwards the gas-works in the city of Buffalo, New York. He was one of the founders of Atlantic City; was president of the Camden and Atlantic Land Company, and one of the projectors of the Camden and Atlantic Railroad, and gave this enterprise large financial assistance. In 1852 he became one of the first directors of the road, and remained such until 1857. About 1850 Mr. Coffin removed from Philadelphia to Haddonfield, and erected there a handsome residence, in which he made his home for several years, dispensing a liberal hospitality. He subsequently returned to Philadelphia, and built a residence at 2007 Chestnut Street, where he resided until his death.

He married, 20 July, 1829, Anne Dean, daughter of John and Frances Dean. Mrs. Coffin died at Haddonfield, 7 December, 1893.

- 11. JERUSHA ANN COFFIN⁷ (William⁶, William⁵, Joseph⁴, Daniel³, Stephen², Tristram¹), was born in New Jersey, 13 October, 1808; died at Hammonton, New Jersey, 12 April, 1845; married, in 1831, Honorable Andrew K. Hay, born in New York in 1808; died at Winslow, New Jersey, 7 February, 1881. Mr. Hay was a practical glass manufacturer, and was for some years in the employ of William Coffin, in the glass-works of the latter, at Hammonton, New Jersey. He was later admitted to an interest in the business, and in 1838, he purchased of his brother-in-law, William Coffin, Junr, a half-interest in the more extensive glass-works at Winslow, of which he subsequently became the sole proprietor. He also became interested in similar works in other places. He was one of the founders of Atlantic City, and was a projector of the Camden and Atlantic Railroad, of which he was a director from its incorporation until his death, and was, from 20 March, 1873, until 22 October, 1874, the president of the road. In the days of the Whig party Mr. Hay was actively identified with that organization, and in 1848 he was elected on the Whig ticket as a member of Congress from the district in which he lived. In 1872 he was chosen a Presidential elector, and voted for Grant and Colfax.

Children of Honorable Andrew K. and Jerusha Ann⁷ (Coffin) Hay:

- vi. Edward Coffin Shinn8, born 2 May, 1846; married in 1880, Matilda Flanigan.
- 13. MAJOR EDWARD WINSLOW COFFIN⁷ (William⁶, William⁵, Joseph⁴, Daniel³, Stephen², Tristram¹), was born at Hammonton, New Jersey, 5 June, 1824. He acquired a knowledge of the manufacture of glass in the works of his father, at Hammonton, New Jersey, and also in the Winslow Glass-Works. Under the will of his father he became a joint proprietor, with his brother John Hammond Coffin, of the Hammonton Glass-Works, and the lands appurtenant thereto, which embraced about five thousand acres, most of which were within the present limits of the town of Hammonton. In 1847 he sold his interest in the Hammonton property to his brother, John Hammond Coffin, and during the same year, he and John B. Hay purchased from William Coffin, Jun^r, the latter's half-interest in the Winslow Glass-Works. In 1850 he retired from the glass manufacturing business. Upon the death of his father, he was appointed postmaster at Hammon-Colorand Mouston Coffine ton, and later became postmaster at Winslow. On 24 March, 1862, he was commissioned captain and commissary of subsistence, United States Volunteers, and was in active service from that time until the close of the Civil War, being honorably mustered out, 13 December, 1865. He was brevetted major, 13 March, 1865, "for meritorious services in his department during the war." He is a member of the Commandery of Pennsylvania, Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, and was a member of the council of this Commandery in 1885 and 1886, and Registrar from 1896 until 1904. In 1870 Major Coffin became the General Freight Agent of the Camden and Atlantic Railroad, and upon the merging of that road into the Pennsylvania Railroad he became Division Freight Agent of the Pennsylvania road for its several branches in West Jersey, which position he retained until 1890, when he was retired "on account of age." Major Coffin now resides at Ashland, New Jersey. He married, 8 July, 1844, Leonora Stadler, who died 11 December 1899.

ENJAMIN HAMMOND¹, the emigrant ancestor of one branch of the Hammond family of New England, and a founder of the town of Rochester, Massachusetts, was, according to family records, born in London, England, in 1621, and died at Rochester, Massachusetts, in 1703. His grandson, Captain Elnathan Hammond, an eminent citizen of Newport, Rhode Island, who died there, 24 May, 1793, at the age of ninety, left a manuscript entitled, "A short Record of our Family, by Elnathan Hammond, copied from a Family Record of my Father's, Mr. John Hammond, of Rochester, 1737, and continued, beginning the year at the 1st of January," * from which the following is abstracted:

"William Hammond, born in the city of London, and there married Elizabeth Penn, sister of Sir William Penn, had children: Benjamin their son, born 1621, Elizabeth, Martha, and Rachel their daughters, all born in London. William Hammond died there and was buried. Elizabeth Hammond, widow of William Hammond, with her son Benjamin and three daughters, all young, left a good estate in London, and with several godly people came over to New England in troublesome Times in 1634, out of a conscious desire to have the liberty to serve God in the way of his appointment. They had with them the Rev. Mr. Lothrop,† their minister, A.D. 1634. Settled in Boston, and there died in 1640, had an honorable burial and the character of a very godly woman.

"Benjamin Hammond, their son, removed to Sandwich, and there married Mary Vinsent, daughter of John Vinsent. She was born in England in 1633. Benjamin married to Mary Vinsent in 1650."

ate about 1638, in which year she was received into the church at that place, becoming the thirty-third member of the same. Her stay at Scituate must have been a brief one, as she is found to have died at Boston, in 1640, and to have been buried there.

Upon the death of his mother, Benjamin Hammond removed to Yarmouth, then in Plymouth Colony, and, in 1643, he was enrolled among the men of that town who were found "able to bear arms." In 1652 he was chosen constable of Yarmouth, and he is on record as a resident there as late as 1655. Subsequently he removed to Sandwich, in the same colony. In 1669 he was a member of the Grand Inquest of the Colony; in 1672 he served as a member of a coroner's inquest, and in 1675 became constable of Sandwich. He was a land-owner at Sandwich, which fact is established by the following extract from the minutes of the General Court of Plymouth Colony, under date of 3 June, 1673.

"In answere to a petition preferred to the Court by Joseph Burge, concerning a way that goeth through the land of Myles Blackwell, and through the land of Benjamin Hammond, att Sandwich, the Court have ordered, and doe request, Mr. Hickley and Mr. Bacon in some convenient time to treat with the said Blackwell and Hammond about the said way, in the behalf of the said Burge, soe as on just and equal tearnes hee may enjoy it as formerly." *

In 1679 initiatory steps were taken toward establishing a town at the locality then known as Sippican. The first step was a petition of several colonists to the General Court of Plymouth Colony, asking for grants of land at Sippican.† The request was received with favor, the court expressing a willingness to make the grants, stipulating, however, that the petitioners should first procure "some more substantial men that are prudent persons and of considerable estates" to join "in a speedy settlement of themselves and families with them." The petitioners met this condition, and the grants were made, whereupon numerous families' removed to the locality named, and by the year 1686 the settlement had come to such proportions that the court incorporated it into a township, under the name of Rochester.* Mr. Hammond was probably one of the petitioners. If not, he was, no doubt, one of the "substantial men . . . of considerable estates" who were induced to join the settlement and become the founders of the town which so soon sprang into existence.

Benjamin Hammond's removal to Sippican, afterwards Rochester, was probably effected about the year 1682, and he established his home in that part of the town which later became Marion. In 1686, his eldest son, Samuel Hammond, was admitted a freeman of Rochester, and four years later he became one of the selectmen of the town, while in the same year his second son, John Hammond, was commissioned lieutenant, and placed in command of the Rochester company of militia.

Benjamin Hammond married, in 1650, Mary, daughter of Mr. John Vincent,† a prominent citizen of Sandwich. She survived her husband, and died at Rochester, in 1705, aged seventy-two years.

Children of Benjamin¹ and Mary (Vincent) Hammond: ‡

- i. Samuel Hammond, was admitted freeman of Rochester, Massachusetts, in 1686; chosen Selectman in 1690; was one of the founders of the Congregational Church at Rochester, and an extensive land-holder; married Mary, daughter of Arthur Hathaway, by whom he had eleven children.
- ii. John Hammond, born 30 November, 1663; died 19 April, 1749; was lieutenant in command of the military company at Rochester; served three years as selectman and assessor; was a member of the Massachusetts Assembly two years, and held a commission as justice of the peace; married, in 1691, Mary, eldest daughter of Reverend Samuel Arnold, first minister settled at Rochester, and by her had eleven children.

[†] Mr. .John Vincent was an early emigrant to Massachusetts, locating at Lynn, remaining there, however, only a short time. In the latter part of 1637 he was of that company of Lynn residents who removed to Plymouth Colony, and there founded the town of Sandwich. On 6 March, 1638, he was chosen the first constable of the town, an office of much dignity and importance in early colonial days. He was admitted a freeman of the colony the same year, and received a grant of land. In 1638 he was chosen a deputy to the General Court (Assembly), and was again chosen to that office in 1649, 1650, 1651, 1655, 1659, 1661, and 1662. He failed to attend a session of the court in the latter year, and, in consequence, was fined forty shillings, the fine being remitted at the next meeting of the court. He is always mentioned, in the records of the colony, by the title of "Mr.," which indicates that he was of gentle birth, or had, by education or achievement, attained to rank above that of yeoman. On 12 October, 1662, he and his son-in-law, Benjamin Hammond, were named as overseers of the will of Joan Swift. He was living in 1663, but the date of his death has not been ascertained.

- 2. CAPTAIN BENJAMIN HAMMOND² (Benjamin¹), the fourth son of Benjamin Hammond by his wife Mary Vincent, was born in Sandwich, Massachusetts, in 1673; died at Rochester, in that Colony, 29 March, 1747. He removed to Rochester at the time his father settled there, and, upon his marriage, he established his home on the west bank of the Mattapoisett River, in what became known as "Hammondtown." He was a man of superior abilities for his time, and filled with honor many public stations. He served for many years as a Selectman,—the most important town office, and for two years he was a representative from Rochester to the Massachusetts Legislature, and he is said to have held commission as justice of the peace under Queen Anne. He also served as captain in the militia of the colony. He was a noted land surveyor, "and in company with Benjamin Crane, of Taunton, is said to have surveyed and laid out many of the towns in Plymouth and Bristol Counties." * His cousin of the same name, in his will, dated I July, 1758, devises to his son Nathaniel Hammond one halfinterest in Ram Island, which he held "in partnership with the heirs of Capt. Benjamin Hammond," from which mention it is apparent that Captain Hammond had been the owner of one half-interest in the island. Captain Hammond married Elizabeth, daughter of Captain Richard Hunnewell,† the noted

[†] Captain Richard Hunnewell was a son of Roger Hunnewell, an early emigrant to Maine, who died at Saco, in that province, in 1654. The date and place of birth of the son are not known. He was a witness to a deed in 1667. His home was at Black Point, afterwards Scarborough, Maine. He appears to have been in military service during the greater part of his manhood. His first known service was at the outbreak of King Philip's War, when he was on garrison duty at Black Point, under Captain Joshua Scottow, serving until the close of the war.* In 1681 he became ensign of Captain Scottow's Company, in the York regiment, under Major Richard Walderne,† and later, but just when is not known, he was promoted lieutenant, and as such was in command of the troops which garrisoned the forts at Blue Point, Black Point, and Spurwicks, in 1689 and 1690. The order placing him in such command was made by the Council of War, held at Falmouth, 13 November, 1689, over which that splendid Massachusetts soldier, Major Benjamin Church, presided.‡ Hunnewell later became captain. In 1697 he presented a petition to the Legislature of Massachusetts, setting forth that he had for some time "been Imployed in his Majties and the Country's service against the common enemy in which service he hath been wounded several times," and praying for some compensation from the Colony on account thereof. The petition was favorably received, and a sum granted to him.* He came to his death in an encounter with the Indians, 6 October, 1703. He left a widow, Elizabeth Hunnewell, to survive him, and she petitioned the Legislature of Massachusetts, in the early part of 1704, stating that her husband "was killed in the last Fall past," and praying for "an allowance for a steer kill'd for supply for the garrison there, Black Point, and for disbursement by her husband in building the fortification," which request was granted.† Savage is no doubt in error in his suggestion that Richard Hunnewell was in Boston during a portion of the Indian War.‡ The Richard Hunnewell there was a son of Ambrose Hunnewell, and cousin, possibly, of Captain Hunnewell. Captain Hunnewell probably married a daughter of Richard Moore, of Scarborough, Maine.

HAMMOND FAMILY THE

3. JOSEPHUS HAMMOND³ (Captain Benjamin², Benjamin¹), was born at Rochester, Massachusetts, 6 May, 1703, and died in 1779, probably at Pembroke, Massachusetts, as he is called of that town in his will. He was a farmer, and resided for some years in that part of Rochester called "Church Neighborhood." On 10 September, 1740, his father executed to him a deed of gift for a tract of land in Rochester, and this tract Josephus

Hammond devised to his son Edward, and on 5 June, 1742, his father again made him a deed of gift for one hundred and sixty acres of land in Leicester, Massachusetts, which property the son sold, I March, 1762, to his kinsman, Edward Winslow. His last will and testament, dated 28 October, 1778, was proved 5 April, 1779, and names wife Mary, sons Edward and Josephus, and daughters Parnel, Thankful, and Zuriah. His estate was appraised at £6498 7s.

He married * (1), 10 April, 1735, Thankful, daughter of Major Edward Winslow, born 2 April, 1715. (See Winslow Family, No. 3.) She died before 1753, and, on 18 January of that year, he married (2) Mary Bourne, who may have been a widow at that time, as Josephus Hammond, in naming her in his will, mentions the estate which her "father Nye gave her."

THE WINSLOW FAMILY

Winslow Lineage

THE WINSLOW FAMILY

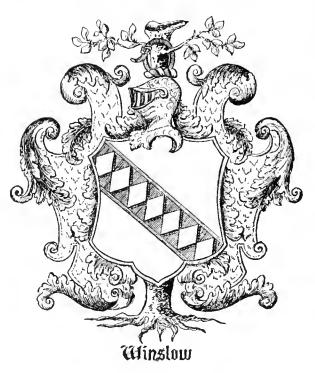

HE name Winslow stands forth so prominently among the founders and makers of this country that it would be impossible to write a history of New England without considerable mention of the first representatives of the Winslow family. Five Winslow brothers,—Edward, John, Kenelm, Gilbert, and Josiah,—were among the early emigrants to Plymouth Colony, Edward and Gilbert being of the Pilgrim company who came in 1620 in the "Mayflower." The latter returned to England shortly afterwards, but the former, Honorable Edward Winslow, became eminent in the public life of the Colony. He served thrice as governor, filled many important diplomatic appointments, and had the distinction of being the father of the first native-born governor of an American colony. The lives of this father and his son are briefly sketched in "Appleton's Cyclopædia of American Biography" as follows:

"Edward Winslow, governor of Plymouth colony, born in Droitwich, near Worcester, England, 18 October, 1595; died at sea, 8 May, 1655. He was descended from an ancient English family. When he was a traveller on the continent he met Reverend John Robinson, of Leyden, with whose church he united in 1617. He sailed in the 'Mayflower' with the band of first settlers at Plymouth, and on 22 March, 1621, he was deputed to negotiate with Massasoit, making a treaty that remained intact till it was broken by King Philip in 1675. In July, 1621, Winslow conducted the first embassy to the Indians, which was also the first attempt of the English to explore the interior. When, in March, 1623, Massasoit was likely to die, he was sent to Winslow, and by his skilful treatment the life of the valuable ally was saved, who in his gratitude informed Winslow's guide of the plots among the surrounding tribes to cut off Thomas Weston's colony. He sailed, 10 September, 1623, for England, where he prepared for publication the following year his 'Good Newes from New England,'* which drew much attention to the colony. On 16 March, 1624, he imported the first neat-cattle brought into New England. At the election that year he was chosen assistant governor, in which office he was continued till 1647, excepting 1633, 1636, and 1644, when he was chosen governor. Contrary to the advice of Winslow, the adventurers in London had sent John Lyford, a preacher, to Plymouth, who wrote letters full of slander and falsehood to people in England. He therefore sailed that summer (1624) for England, presented the matter at a meeting, and returned to Plymouth with evidence against Lyford, who, with John Oldham, was promptly banished. principal oversight of the commercial transactions of the colony was in his keeping during its period of development. Upon coming to the chief magistracy in 1633, he found that disputes had arisen with the Dutch in New York respecting the trade with the Connecticut River Indians. The Massachusetts colony declining to unite in establishing a trading-post on the river, Governor Winslow despatched a vessel, which went a mile beyond the Dutch fort on the site of Hartford, and erected the first house in Connecticut. In 1635 he sailed for England to defend the Plymouth and Massachusetts Colonies against the accusations of Thomas Morton, and to represent to the government the encroachments of the French on the east and the Dutch on the west. Archbishop Laud, then at the head of the special commission established in 1634, secured his imprisonment on a frivolous pretence; but, after seventeen weeks of confinement, obtaining his release by the privy council, he addressed an able paper to that body upon the object of his mission to the government. Under Winslow as governor the court of associates, in November, 1636, enacted the elaborate code of laws and statutes that placed the government on a stable foundation. About 1 April, 1637, in behalf of the government, he replied to Winthrop's letter for advice in the conduct of the proposed Pequot War, and was selected to meet the authorities in Boston on 12 May, to whom he declared the war was none of Plymouth's quarrel. In the establishment of the confederation known by the name of the United Colonies of New England, he was commissioner from his colony. This act of 1643 he seems to have anticipated in 1631, when he petitioned the royal commission for a warrant to the colonies to defend themselves unitedly against all foes. The Massachusetts government intrusted him in 1646 with the mission to answer the charges of Samuel Gorton and others in England, and to defend the colony from the accusation of religious intoler-His book, 'Hypocrisie Unmasked,' was considered a complete vindica-Winslow advocated the civilization and conversion of the Indians, and published an address to Parliament and council, with intelligence from New England upon the subject; and by his influence an act was passed, 19 July, 1649, incorporating the Society for propagating the Gospel in New England. The government appointed him one of the three commissioners in 1654 to adjust the claims against Denmark for losses to English shipping. Much light is thrown upon the important service in which he was engaged on behalf of the colonies, during his sojourn in England (1646-54), by the recent publication of the 'Calender of State Papers, Colonial Series, 1574-1660,' edited by W. Noël Sainsbury (5 vols., London, 1860-80). When Cromwell planned an expedition against the Spaniards in the West Indies under General Venables and Admiral Penn, he appointed Winslow head commissioner at a salary The general and admiral disagreed in their tempers and views, the control of the commission was of no avail, and the army was defeated at Santo Domingo. The fleet sailed for Jamaica, but on the passage Winslow died of a fever, and his body was committed to the deep with the honors of Among his accomplishments was a consummate address, which never failed him as the diplomatist of the colony. His piety was fervent, and for a day of intoleration he was often singularly tolerant to those who differed with him in matters of belief. Governor Winslow married at Leyden, 16 May, 1618, Elizabeth Barker, who died, 24 March, 1621, at Plymouth. married, 12 May, 1621, Mrs. Susannah White, who had given birth to the first white child born in New England, was now the first bride, and destined to be the wife of a governor and mother of another governor. had two children, Elizabeth and Josiah. His brothers, John, Kenelm, and Josiah, identified with the early history of the colony, are the ancestors of a numerous family. His family seat was established in 1636-37 at Green Harbor (now Marshfield), afterwards the estate of Daniel Webster. engraving of Governor Winslow is from the only authentic portrait of any of the Pilgrims. It was executed in London in 1651, and is now preserved at Plymouth. . . . Governor Winslow's pen has left some valuable and substantial writings to indicate his versatility in narration and argument. is called 'Bradford's and Winslow's Journal,' or by others 'A Diary of Occurrences' (London, 1622), covering the first year of the colony, is admirably supplemented by 'Winslow's Relation,' which brings down the history to 10 September, 1623. This work, also known as 'Good Newes from New England,' appeared complete in Alexander Young's 'Chronicles of the Pilgrims' (Boston, 1841). His letter to George Morton as advisory for such as proposed voyaging to Plymouth, the letters to John Winthrop, in Thomas Hutchinson's 'Collection of Papers,' and those to Secretary Thurlow ('State Papers,' iii.), from the Barbadoes, 1654-55, are among the most valuable of His 'Brief Narration,' or 'Hypocrisie Unmasked,' in his briefer remains. opposition to Samuel Gorton (1646), appears, in part, in Young's 'Chronicles.' This trenchant book was followed by another, under the title of 'New England's Salamander,' as an answer to the aspersions cast upon New England (1647). 'The Glorious Progress of the Gospel amongst the Indians in New England' (1649), dedicated to Parliament, contained also letters from John Eliot and Thomas Mayhew. 'A Platform of Church Discipline in New England' (1653) is his last publication extant or of which we have knowledge. . . . His son, Josiah, governor of Plymouth Colony, born in Plymouth in 1629; died at Marshfield, Massachusetts, 18 December, 1680. In 1657, two years after the death of his father, he was an assistant governor, which post he filled till his election as governor in 1673. This last office he held until his death. In 1658 he was chosen one of the commissioners of the United Colonies, and re-elected for fourteen years. On 5 September, 1672, he was one of the six signers of the new articles of confederation of the New England colonies, and on 9 September, 1675, he signed the declaration of war against King Philip, made by the commissioners. In 1652 he commanded the military company of Marshfield, in 1659 he was appointed military commander of the colony, and in 1675 he was elected general-in-chief of the whole military force of the United Colonies, being the first native born general as well as governor in New England. During his chief magistracy in 1674-75 the first public school of the colony was established, and in 1680 the first lieutenant-governor was elected. The General Court ordered in 1675 that four halberdiers should attend the governor and magistrates at elections, and two during the court sessions. The government now maintained a state that was hitherto unknown in the colony. Governor Winslow lived at Careswell, the family seat at Marshfield, where he enjoyed the distinction of being the most accomplished gentleman in the colony. His hospitality was generous, and the attractions of the festive and social board were not a little heightened by the charms of his beautiful wife. In 1657 James Cudworth was displaced by the colony from his official post for refusing to sign, as a commissioner, the proceedings against the Quakers. When first a commissioner, in 1658. Winslow refused to sanction the 'horrible recommendation' of that year against the Quakers, and in 1674, by his active friendship and powerful influence as governor, Cudworth was rescued from the disgrace to which Governor Prince and others had subjected him. He showed that he had a just spirit in the active part he bore in the preliminaries to the war against Philip, in which he was afterwards commander-in-chief. On I May, 1676, he wrote to the commissioners in Boston that the land in his colony had all been honestly purchased of the Indians, and, to protect the natives from wrong, no settler was allowed to receive land except by permission of the court. His capture of Alexander in 1662, the brother of Philip, and for two years sachem after Massasoit's death, illustrates his courage and personal daring as a soldier. His last public act, on 5 September, 1680, was to solicit a charter for Plymouth from the crown, Cudworth being appointed to present the address to the king. Governor Winslow celebrated the memory of Governor Bradford in a poem that is published in George Morton's 'Memorial.' He married, in 1657, Penelope Pelham, daughter of Herbert Pelham, who came to Boston in 1645, and was first treasurer of Harvard College, and assistant governor in 1646-49. , ,

John Winslow, the eldest brother of Governor Edward Winslow, was born at Droitwich, Worcestershire, England, 16 April, 1597, and died at Boston, Massachusetts, in 1674. He came to Plymouth, in the "Fortune," in 1621, and married there, 12 October, 1624, Mary, daughter of James Chilton, both father and daughter being passengers in the "Mayflower." John Winslow was frequently chosen by the General Court of Plymouth Colony to serve in public capacities, and he was also elected a member of the court. In 1656 he removed to Boston, where he became an eminent merchant and ship-owner. He was the grandfather of Colonel Edward Winslow, of Boston, who commanded a regiment there, served in the office of High Sheriff of Suffolk County, and was the great-grandfather of Sir John Singleton Copley, who became chief justice of Chester, England, and upon the retirement of Lord

Eldon, in 1827, was created Baron Lyndhurst, and constituted Lord High Chancellor of England. Another of John Winslow's eminent descendants was Admiral John Ancrum Winslow, the noted officer of the American navy, who commanded the "Kearsarge" in her famous engagement with the "Alabama."

Josiah Winslow, the youngest brother of Governor Edward Winslow, came to Plymouth about 1631, and was there admitted freeman in 1633. He was born at Droitwich, England, 11 February, 1605–6, and died at Marshfield, Plymouth Colony, 1 December, 1674. He married, in 1636, Margaret, daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth Bourne, of Marshfield, of which town Mr. Winslow was a founder and its first constable. In 1643 he was elected a deputy from Marshfield to the General Court of the colony, and was honored by reelection to this important position, in 1646, 1647, 1651, 1654, 1655, 1659, and 1660. In 1650 he was made a member of a commission on the part of Plymouth Colony, with Governor Bradford at its head, to meet a like commission from the Massachusetts Colony, for the adjustment of certain boundary disputes, and in 1667 he was a member of the Council of War of Plymouth Colony. At the time of his death he was the town clerk of Marshfield, having held the position continuously from 1646. Among his descendants of prominence may be mentioned Robert Treat Paine, LL.D., judge of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, attorney-general, and a signer of the Declaration of Independence; Honorable Reuben Hyde Walworth, LL.D, chancellor of the State of New York; Honorable William Woodbridge, United States Senator, and governor of Michigan; Honorable William Cushing, LL.D., judge of the Supreme Court of the United States; and Roger Griswold, member of Congress, judge of the Supreme Court, and governor of Connecticut, of whose mother it may be said that her husband, father, brother, son, and nephew were governors of Connecticut.

1. KENELM WINSLOW¹, the second brother of Governor Edward Winslow, and the third son and fourth child of Edward Winslow, of Droitwich, England, by his wife Magdalen Ollyver, was born at Droitwich, Sunday, 29 April, 1599, and was buried at Salem, Massachusetts, 13 September, 1672. His parents had been married at the venerable church of St. Bride's, in London, 3 November, 1594, where the entry of their marriage is still to be found. The baptisms of all their children are, however, recorded at St. Peter's, Droitwich, some eight miles from Worcester.

Kenelm Winslow, who bore his paternal grandfather's name, probably arrived in Plymouth Colony about 1629. He was admitted a freeman of that colony in 1633, and resided for some years at Plymouth, where, on 3 January, 1632, he and his brother Josiah purchased of Francis Eaton the homestead estate of the latter, and the year following he bought his brother's interest in the property. In 1634, Kenelm Winslow was associated with the governor, and with several members of the Governor's Council, in establishing a tax-rate for the Colony, and, on 5 January, 1635, he was chosen, with six others, by the General Court to assist the governor and Council in establishing the "rates on goods to be sould, & labourers for their hire, as should be meet and proper." At the first sitting of the General Court in 1636 he served as juryman in several causes then tried, his brother, John Winslow, and Captain Myles Standish also serving as members of the same jury. In 1637, 1638, 1641, and 1642 he was a member of the Grand Inquest of the colony, and in 1639, upon complaint that the highways of the colony were "in decay," he was one of those chosen by the General Court to join with the constables of the colony in surveying the highways and directing their repair.

He removed from Plymouth to a point called Green Harbor, but which, in 1641, became Marshfield. He received a grant of land there, 5 March, 1637–38,* and was one of the founders of the town. The next year he was chosen a deputy from Marshfield to the General Court of the colony, and was re-elected in 1643, 1644, 1649, 1650, 1651, 1652, 1653. He married, in June, 1634, Ellen Adams, widow of John Adams, of Plymouth. She died at Marshfield 5 December, 1681, aged eighty-three years. Her maiden name was probably Newton.†

Children of Kenelm¹ and Ellen Winslow:

- (2) i. Kenelm Winslow², born circa 1635; died 11 November, 1715; married Mercy Worden.
 - ii. Eleanor Winslow², born circa 1637; died 27 August, 1676; married Samuel Barker, and by him had issue.
 - iii. Nathaniel Winslow², born circa 1639; died 1 December, 1719. He inherited the homestead at Marshfield; was sergeant in the militia as early as 1686, and became captain of the Marshfield military company before 1698; was deputy to the General Court in 1689, and was elected a member of the Massachusetts Assembly in 1695, 1709, and 1711. He married, 3 August, 1664, Faith, daughter of Reverend John and Lydia Miller. She died 9 November, 1729, "in the 85th year of her age." They had issue.
 - iv. Job Winslow², born circa 1641; died at Freetown, Massachusetts, 14 July, 1720. He removed from Marshfield to Swansey, Massachusetts, about 1666. On 18 or 19 June, 1675, his house at Swansey was burned by the Indians,* which event is said to have been the first overt act leading to the opening of King Philip's War. Removing from Swansey, he became one of the first settlers of Rochester, but remained there only a short time, when he removed to Freetown, of which he was a selectman in 1686, and there served in various important town offices. In the same year he was chosen a deputy to the General Court of Plymouth Colony, and in 1692, on the union of that colony with the Massachusetts Bay Colony, he was elected a member of the first Assembly under the union. He was active in military affairs, and, as lieutenant, was in command of the military company at Freetown. By his wife Ruth he had issue.
- 2. KENELM WINSLOW² (Kenelm¹), was born at Plymouth, Massachusetts, about 1635, and died at Harwich, Massachusetts, 11 November, 1715. He early removed from Marshfield to Cape Cod, and settled in that part of Yarmouth which was incorporated with Harwich, and which later became Brewster. His homestead was near the westerly border of the town, now known as West Brewster, Satucket, or Winslow's Mills. He purchased a large tract of land in what became Rochester, on which several of his children afterwards dwelt. Among other purchases he secured a good "water privilege," which has been of advantage to his descendants even unto the present time. On 11 March, 1700, he purchased a tract of one thousand acres in Windham County, Connecticut. The tract was located in that part of the county which became the town of Mansfield. Later the same year he conveyed this tract to his son Samuel Winslow, and the latter afterwards sold the same to his brother Kenelm Winslow.

He married, 23 September, 1667, Mercy, daughter of Peter Worden, Junr,* by his wife Mercy. She was born about 1641, and died at Harwich, 22 September, 1688, "in the forty-eighth year of her age." Her gravestone in the Winslow burying-ground at Dennis, Massachusetts, is said to be the oldest stone in that ground. Mr. Winslow married (2) Damaris —, who survived him, and was living in March, 1729.

Children of Kenelm Winslow²:

- i. Kenelm Winslow³, baptized 9 August, 1668; died 20 March, 1728–29; resided at Harwich; was town treasurer five years, selectman three years, and in 1720 was a member of the Massachusetts Assembly. He married Bethia, daughter of Reverend Gershom Hall by his wife Bethia Bangs, and by her he had issue. She married, for second husband, Joseph Dawes, of Yarmouth.
- ii. Josiah Winslow³, born 7 November, 1669; died 3 April, 1761; resided at Frectown, Massachusetts; was prominent in public affairs, serving in many of the principal offices of the town. In 1725 he was commissioned captain in the militia, having previously served as lieutenant. He married (1) Margaret Tisdale, who died 12 January, 1737; (2) Mrs. Hannah Winslow, who was perhaps widow of his cousin Richard Winslow; (3) Mrs. Hannah Booth; (4) Martha Hathaway; (5) Mary Jones. He had issue.
- iii. Thomas Winslow³, baptized 3 March, 1672-73; died 6 April, 1689.
- iv. Samuel Winslow³, born circa 1674; was living in 1750; was a deacon of the Church at Rochester, Massachusetts, as early as 1710; married (1) Bethia Holbrook; (2) Mercy King; (3) Ruth Briggs.

Peter Worden, Jun', was born in England, circa 1608, and no doubt accompanied his father to New England, becoming a resident of Yarmouth, where he died 11 January, 1680/1. His will, recorded at Plymouth,† names wife Mary, son Samuel, and daughters Martha, wife of Joseph Severance; Mary, wife of Joseph Burgess; and Mercy, wife of Kenelm Winslow, of the text. In the inventory filed, his estate at Yarmouth was appraised at £500. The larger part of the estate, including that in "Old England," he devised to his son Samuel, who was a physician, and removed to Rhode Island. His wife, Mary Worden, survived him, and made her will 26 March, 1686. It was proved and recorded at Barnstable, 31 May, 1687,‡ and named the children mentioned in the will of her husband. Among her bequests was an "Indian squaw servant," which she gave to her son Samuel.

^{} Peter Worden, Sent, a native of England, was probably born at Clayton, Lancashire, where he owned a landed estate. The date of his emigration is unknown, as is the place at which he first settled. It is supposed, however, that he located at Lynn, Massachusetts, and removed from that town to Yarmouth, Plymouth Colony, about the time the latter town was founded. The earliest mention of him is under date of 7 January, 1638/9, when he was proposed as freeman. The next mention, is of his death, which occurred in the following March. On 9 February, same year, he, "being very sick," made his will, the witnesses thereto being Mr. Nicholas Sympkins, the first captain of the "castle" in Boston harbor, and Hugh Tillie and Giles Hopkins, both of whom were sons of "Mayflower" passengers. The will, proved 5 March, 1638/9, furnishes us with all that is known of his family, which seems to have consisted of a son, Peter, and grandson, John Lewis. He made Peter, whom he styled "only son and heir," his executor, and gave him his "Lands, Leases, Tenements with goods movable and unmovable in the Towne of Clayton in the County of Lankaster" [England], and all "goods which I have at Present in New England." He signed his name "Warden." His son,

- v. Mercy Winslow³, born circa 1676; married (1) Melatiah White; (2) Thomas Jenkins.
- vi. NATHANIEL WINSLOW³, born circa 1679; married Elizabeth Holbrook.
- (3) vii. Edward Winslow³, born 30 January, 1680–81; died 25 June, 1760; married Sarah ——.
 - viii. Damaris Winslow³, married Jonathan Small, of Harwich, and by him had issue.
 - ix. Elizabeth Winslow³, married Andrew Clark.
 - x. Eleanor Winslow³, married Shubael Hamblen.
 - xi. John Winslow³, born circa 1701; died circa 1755; married Bethiah Andrews.
- 3. MAJOR EDWARD WINSLOW³ (Kenelm², Kenelm¹), was born at Harwich, Massachusetts, 30 January, 1680–81; died at Rochester, Massachusetts, 25 June, 1760. He resided at Rochester, and was recognized as one of the leading citizens of that town. He was a farmer, and was also engaged for a time in the manufacture of iron. In 1725, together with Ebenezer Lewis, of Barnstable, and Edmund Freeman, of Harwich, he erected iron-works "for the making and forging of iron," which works were near his dwelling-house, "on the middle branch of the Mattapoisett River." He served in the offices of selectman, town clerk, and town treasurer, and in 1729 he was commissioned a justice of the peace, being several times recommissioned, and continued in such capacity until his death. He was also active in the military affairs of his county, and held for many years a commission as major in one of the county regiments. He married, circa 1702, Sarah ——, whose maiden name has not been ascertained. She was named in his will of 2 October, 1758, a copy of which here follows:

"In the name of God Amen, The second day of October Anno Domini One thousand seven hundred & fifty eight I Edward Winslow of Rochester in the county of Plymouth Esqr. being of a disposing mind and memory do make and ordain this my last will and testament and first of all I give my soul to God that gave it and my body to the earth to be buried in decent burial at the discretion of my executor herein named and as touching such worldly estate as it hath pleased God to bless me I give and dispose of the same in the following manner and form.

Reeves Lineage

ALTER REEVE¹, a colonist of West Jersey, came to that Province some time prior to 1682, and settled in Burlington County, where he purchased a plantation, located on the Rancocas Creek, upon which he established his homestead, which he occupied until his death, in 1698. He was probably from England, although it is possible that he came to Burlington County from Southold, Long Island, and was of the family of his surname settled there about 1650. John Reeve, of Southold, who was probably in the same generation with Walter Reeve, made his will in 1712, in which he named sons John, Elisha, Walter, Samuel, and Jonathan, all of which Christian names are found among the sons of Walter Reeve of Burlington County. The latter was a farmer and appears to have been engaged, to some extent, in trade with foreign parts. Among the archives in the office of the Secretary of State of New Jersey is the record of a bill of lading issued to Walter Reeve, 3 April, 1691, for an invoice of "cheese, flour and beef," shipped by him to John Brett, a merchant in the island of Barbadoes. Mr. Reeve prospered in his worldly estate, and at his death possessed two plantations, one of which contained one hundred and sixty acres, and the other two hundred acres. He was twice married, and had issue by both wives. The name of the first wife is unknown. On 11 November, 1682, he married (2) Anne Howell, who survived him nearly forty years. His will, dated 16 May, and proved 18 June, 1698, names wife Anne, sons John, William, and Joseph, and daughter Susanna. The will of his widow, made 23 September, 1732, and proved 31 July, 1733, names sons Walter, Joseph, Elisha, Caleb, and Samuel. John was a son of the first wife, and it is possible that William, Joseph, and Susanna were by her. The others were, no doubt, by the second marriage.

Children of Walter Reeve¹:

- (2) i. John Reeve², probably born in England; died circa 1748; married Ann Bradgate.
 - ii. Susanna Reeve².
 - iii. William Reeve². He married and had issue, of which the following are known:

 1. Samuel Reeves³, named in the will of his uncle, Samuel Reeves, 2 December, 1737.

 2. Elizabeth Reeves³, married, license, 12 January, 1736, Isaac Atkinson.

 3. William Reeves³, died 24 July, 1763, aged forty-seven years; married Sarah —————, who survived him.

 4. Joseph Reeves³, died 3 September, 1767, aged forty-seven years; married Jane —————, who survived him.*
 - iv. Joseph Reeve2. He was living at the date of his mother's will.
- (3) v. Walter Reeve², born circa 1684; died 21 March, 1754, married Ann —.
 - vi. Jonathan Reeve², made his will 18 March, 1725–26, in which he names wife Mary, brother Walter, "cousins" Esther and Solomon Curtis, and Matthew Heulings, "son of my wife." His wife had been a widow Heulings. On 23 February, 1727, she conveyed land to the son named.
 - vii. ELISHA REEVE². Letters of administration on his estate were granted unto David Watson, 13 December, 1750.
 - viii. Caleb Reeve. He probably died before 8 May, 1753, unmarried and without issue, as his brother Walter, in his will of that date, disposed of two hundred acres of land in Mannington, Salem County, which his "brother Caleb had purchased of George Webb."

^{*} Joseph Reeves³, in his will of 28 August, 1767, proved 26 September, following, named the children here given excepting the daughter Jane, whose tombstone in St. Andrew's graveyard, Mount Holly, states her parentage: 1. John Reeves⁴, born 1 August, 1744; died 26 February, 18∞; married Mrs. Sarah (Reeves) Patterson, his cousin, born 4 March, 1737; died 6 April, 1807. 2. Henry Reeves⁴, born 27 June, 1749; died 23 November, 1840; married, 8 February, 1772, Hannah, daughter of Benjamin and Dorothy Furness, born 15 May, 1753; died 17 November, 1824. 3. Joseph Reeves⁴, born 1753; died 26 October, 1801; married, license, 8 August, 1782, Elizabeth Toy, born 1757; died 17 May, 1830. 4. Abraham Reeves⁴, born 1763; died 23 December, 1838; married, license, 20 September, 1787, Christina Shykels. 5. Meribah Reeves⁴, married, license, 20 September, 1783, Edward Linthicum. 6. Jane Reeves⁴, born 1764; died 14 June, 1783; married, 18 July, 1782, James Coppuck.

HENRY REEVES⁴, above (Joseph³, William², Walter¹), had twelve children, of whom Benjamin Furness Reeves⁵, born at or near Port Elizabeth, New Jersey, 7 July, 1793; died 6 March, 1862; buried at Port Elizabeth; married Rachel, daughter of James and Abigail (Weaver) Godfrey, born 6 July, 1797; died 23 July, 1870; and became the father of Henry Reeves⁶, born 5 April, 1825; married (1), 13 November, 1852, Sarah Jane, daughter of Permenas C. Lee. Samuel V. Reeves⁷, a son of this latter marriage, born 1 May, 1854, and now residing at Haddonfield, New Jersey, has for more than twenty years been engaged in gathering data for a Reeves genealogy, and his untiring, generous effort has preserved a much larger list of the descendants of Walter Reeves than is given in this chapter on the Reeves Family.

- ix. Samuel Reeve², died circa 1737; married (license granted 2 January, 1735) Mary Hill. His will, dated 2 December, 1737, names wife Mary, and Samuel, "son of my brother William."
- 2. JOHN REEVES² (Walter¹), who was no doubt the eldest son of Walter Reeve, was probably born in England, although it is possible that he was born at Southold, Long Island. He resided in Burlington County, New Jersey, where, in 1704, he was granted the right to keep the ferry between the town of Burlington and the city of Philadelphia. Ferry privileges in colonial times were established by the public authorities, and were among the most valuable franchises granted. The grant in this case was made by Governor Cornbury, and reads:
- "Edward Viscount Cornbury, Captain-General and Governor-in Chief in and over her Majesties provinces of New Jersey New York, and all the territories and tracts of land depending thereon in America, and Vice-Admiral of the same.
 - "To Jeremiah Bass, Esq., Secretary of New Jersey, Greeting:
- "You are hereby required that you forthwith prepare a bill to pass under the Great Seale of this province, containing a grant or license to John Reeve, to keep the ferry betwixt the town of Burlington and City of Philadelphia upon the river Delaware, and you are to insert therein the prices allowed him to take for ferriage of either goods, passengers, or any other carriage, viz.: for each passenger in company from the feast of our lady to the feast of St. Michaell the arch angle, for the sum—half year—one shilling, if single, to hire the boat, six shillings from the feast of St. Michaell the arch angle to the feast of our lady in the winter, half year, single, seven and eight pence; in company fifteen pence for every tun of flower; ten shillings and six pence for every tun of bread; ten shillings for every hogshead of rum; three shillings and the same for molasses and sugar; for every pipe of wine five shillings; for all barrels one shilling per piece; for lead and iron six pence per hundred; for the beef ten pence per quarter; for every hogg ten pence; for every bushel of meale and salt three pence; sheep and calves at the same rate with the hogs dead. And you are to take security for the due performance of the same.

"Given under my hand and seale this 11th day of December, Anno Reg Anno nunc anglia, etc, Annoq Dei, 1704.

"CORNBURY."

Ferries at that period consisted of open boats with sails, and gave but slight comfort to patrons, and while the scant records of the time furnish no facts relating to the conduct of the ferry in question, it is, nevertheless, conjectured that John Reeves kept within the terms of the monopoly granted, and was never complained against for exorbitant charges.

He owned a landed estate in Burlington County, and it is believed that he died there in 1748, although he may have died at the home of one of his sons in Gloucester County, as the inventory of his estate appears to have been filed there. However, in this inventory, dated 8 November, 1748, he is styled "late of Burlington County." The estate was appraised at over £1300, —a large estate for his time. In a deed executed by his son, Thomas Reeves, of Deptford Township, Gloucester County, the father is called "son and heir at law of Walter Reeve." *

John Reeves was one of the guests at the wedding of George Deacon and Martha Charles, which took place 22 February, 1693/4, and a copy of his autograph was obtained from their marriage

Revell, Esq^r, the noted surveyor, 22 July, 1695, Ann Bradgate. The witnesses to the marriage were Anthony Elton, Elizabeth Elton, Robert Powell, Hannah Powell, John Powell, and Elizabeth Powell. He may have had other issue than the sons given below, and it is possible that the facts ascribed to the son Abraham should be credited to his grandson Abraham, the son of Henry Reeves.

Children of John² and Ann (Bradgate) Reeves:

- (4) i. Thomas Reeves³, died in 1782; married Sarah —.
- (5) ii. Henry Reeves3, died in 1745; married Abigail Shinn.
 - iii. Abraham Reeves³, married Susan Bryant. Issue: 1. Henry Reeves⁴, born near Mount Holly, circa 1760; died at Victor, Ontario County, New York, in 1811; married, 10 September, 1782, Elizabeth Powell. 2. James Reeves⁴, removed to Ohio. 3. William Reeves⁴, probably died unmarried, circa 1798. 4. Hannah Reeves⁴, married Asa Gaskill. 5. Charlotte Reeves⁴. 6. Exercise Reeves⁴.
- 3. WALTER REEVE² (Walter¹), the eldest son of Walter Reeve by his second wife, Anne Howell, was born in Burlington County, circa 1684, and died on his estate in Northampton Township, that county, 21 March, 1754, "aged 69 years." He possessed large landed interests, some of which he acquired by inheritance, and some by purchase. At his decease he was the owner of several plantations. He, his wife, and several of his children, are buried in the graveyard of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church at Mount Holly, so it is inferred that he was an Episcopalian. His last will and testament, dated 8 May, 1753, proved 23 May, 1754, names sons Samuel, Micajah, Jonathan, and Barzillai; daughters Elizabeth, Ruth, Rebecca, Ann, and Sarah, and "my son Walter's three sons." His wife Ann, whose maiden name has not been ascertained, died 11 December, 1744, "aged 49 years," as is learned from her gravestone.

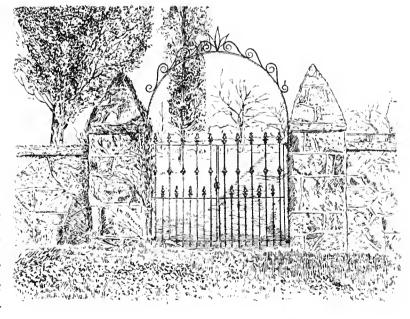

Children of Walter² and Ann Reeve:

i. Walter Reeve³, died 20 April, 1746, "aged 27 years 5 months." He married and had issue, but the name of his wife is not known. That he had three sons living at the date of his father's will is apparent from that instrument. One - of these was the Walter Reeve who married Tabitha Garwood, under license dated 9 February, 1765, and died in 1768. Another son probably was the John Reeve called "cousin" in the will of Rebecca Reeve, mentioned below.

- ii. Samuel Reeve³, an executor of his father's will, and probably the Samuel who obtained a license to marry Hannah Heustis, of Evesham, 12 January, 1747.
- (6) iii. Micajah Reeve³, died in 1777; married Hannah Lee.
 - iv. Jonathan Reeve³, styled "Jr." in deeds; died circa 1763, probably unmarried, and without issue. His will of 9 May, 1758, proved 29 January, 1763, gives a legacy to Jonathan Patterson, Jun^r, "son of Thomas Patterson," and the remainder of his estate unto his brother Barzillai and the latter's three children, John, Elizabeth, and Samuel.
 - v. Barzillai Reeve³, married and had issue; is named in the will of his brother Jonathan, 9 May, 1758, at which time he had the three children above named. His son, Samuel Reeve, was living at Mount Holly, in 1803, and he may be the Samuel who died there, 18 October, 1820, aged sixty-four years.
 - vi. Elizabeth Reeve3, died 21 April, 1760, aged "about 32 years."
 - vii. Ruth Reeve3.
 - viii. Rebecca Reeve³, died in 1760; her will, dated I February, and proved 24 March, 1760, names sister Sarah Pattison; Jonathan, son of Marmaduke Fort; "cousin" John Reeve, son of Walter Reeve, to whom she gave her Bible; "cousin" Ann, daughter of Micajah Reeve, to whom she bequeathed her prayer book.
 - ix. Ann Reeve3.
 - x. Sarah Reeve³, born 4 March, 1737; died 6 April, 1807; married (1) ——Pattison, or Patterson; (2) John Reeves, born 1 August, 1744; died 26 February, 1800.

4. THOMAS REEVES³ (John², Walter¹), the eldest son and heir at law of John Reeves, was born in Burlington County, circa 1700, and died in Deptford Township, Gloucester County, 2 December, 1780, "aged 80 years," as is learned from his gravestone, which is the oldest in the ancient Reeves burying-ground. He was a well-to-do farmer, and a large landed proprietor. In 1734 he conveyed two large tracts of land in Burlington County to Thomas Wetherell, at which time he was residing in Welling borough, in that county, but removed therefrom to Gloucester County about the same time. In a deed dated 7 February, 1765, by which he conveyed a parcel of land to his cousin, Micajah Reeve, he is styled "son and heir at law" of John Reeves, and in the same instrument the latter is styled "son and heir at law" of Walter Reeve.* The Pennsylvania Gazette, in its issue of 3 March, 1757, contains this notice:

"PHILADELPHIA, February 26, 1757.

"To be sold by private sale, at any time between this and the first of April next, a plantation, situated in Deptford Township, Gloucester County, about eleven miles from Philadelphia, and seven from Gloucester, and within half a mile from Mantua Creek, containing 200 acres, 30 of which is cleared, the rest well timbered, about five acres of meadow, with a good house, barn, stable, and other out houses, and a young orchard. Any person inclining to purchase, may apply to the subscriber, living near the premises.

"THOMAS REEVES."

Thomas Reeves is the ancestor of most of the name Reeves who have lived in Gloucester County. A fac-simile of the autograph to his will is here inserted, from which it will be noted that he wrote his name with a single

"e," as did his father. The will, dated 6 July, 1779, and proved 1 June, 1782, Thomas Rever 6 July, 1779, and proved 1 June, 1782, names sons Biddle, Arthur, Thomas, and Joseph, and daughter Ann Wood.

the latter he bequeathed three hundred pounds "in gold or silver." also named "grandson" Peter Rambo; "grandson" John Reeves, and a "granddaughter," but did not name the latter, or give the name of the parents of either of these grandchildren. He devised to each of his sons a plantation. He married Sarah —, who probably survived him, as she is mentioned in his will. Her maiden name has not been ascertained, although it is believed that she was a Miss Biddle, of Burlington County, and hence the Christian name of his eldest child.

Children of Thomas Reeves³; all doubtless born in Gloucester County:

- i. BIDDLE REEVES⁴, died in 1789; married Ann Clement. (7)
- ii. ARTHUR REEVES⁴, died in 1786; married Mary Cox. (8)
- iii. Thomas Reeves4, born 2 February, 1728; died 25 July, 1802; married Keziah (9)
 - iv. Ann Reeves⁴, married John Wood, of Gloucester, license dated 28 October, 1765.
 - v. RACHEL REEVES4, presumably the one of that name who married, at "Old Swedes," Philadelphia, 30 November, 1757, Benjamin Rambo.
- (10) vi. Joseph Reeves⁴, born 20 June, 1743; died in January, 1825; married (1) Elizabeth Morgan; (2) Sarah Gill.

5. HENRY REEVES³ (John², Walter¹), the second son of John Reeves, was born in Burlington County, from which county he removed, after his marriage, to Gloucester County, where he died, late in 1745 or early in 1746. In 1742 he purchased two hundred acres of land from George Ward. His will, dated 24 October, 1745, and proved 20

January following, named wife Abigail, and the six children given below, all of whom were then under age. His wife and his brother Thomas were made executors. His estate was appraised at £246 13s. 4d. He married, license granted 26 February, 1728, Abigail, daughter of James Shinn * by his wife Abigail Lippincott. (See Lippincott Family, No. 4.)

Children of Henry³ and Abigail (Shinn) Reeves:

- i. Hope Reeves*, married, license dated 2 November, 1748, Joseph Haines, of Burlington.
- ii. JAMES REEVES4.
- iii. Ann Reeves4.
- iv. Abraham Reeves⁴. One of this name was licensed, 24 February, 1769, to marry Mary Ward.
- (11) v. Henry Reeves⁴, born 21 December, 1742; died 2 April, 1809; married Rachel Jess. vi. Mary Reeves⁴.
- 6. MICAJAH REEVE³ (Walter², Walter¹), was born in Northampton Township, Burlington County, and died there, circa 1777. He was a farmer, and the owner of real estate of considerable proportions. He married Hannah Lee, the license thereto issuing 2 March, 1754. She predeceased her husband, and was buried at Mount Holly, 2 March, 1772. His will bears date 18 January, 1773, and was proved 29 April, 1777, in which are named the children given below.

Children of Micajah³ and Hannah (Lee) Reeve:

- i. Nehemiah Reeve⁴, who died intestate in 1799, leaving a widow Ruth, and issue.
- ii. Abraham Reeve⁴.
- iii. Caleb Reeve*, who conveyed land by deed dated 9 May, 1782, at which time he was of Northampton Township.
- iv. Thomas Reeve4.
- v. Ann Reeve4.
- vi. Rebecca Reeve4.
- vii. Vashti Reeve4.

Micajah Reeve

^{*} The family and ancestry of James Shinn are given in the "The History of the Shinn Family," by Josiah Shinn, A. M. (Chicago, 1903.)

7. BIDDLE REEVES⁴ (Thomas³, John², Walter¹), was born in Burlington or Gloucester County, New Jersey; died in Deptford Township, in the latter county, in 1789. He resided in Deptford, was a farmer and distiller, and possessed a large plantation and other landed holdings, with personal estate appraised, at his death, at £690 3s. His home plantation was on the west side of the road leading from Woodbury to Mantua, and about one and one-half miles from the former place. By his will, which was proved 2 March, 1789, he devised to his son Biddle a parcel of land "on the plantation whereon I now dwell and long since enclosed and used for a graveyard for our Family in trust nevertheless and for the use of all the Blood relations of sole Reves, deceased, and their heirs forever for the sole purpose of burying their dead." This graveyard, probably established by his father, is still maintained as a burying-ground for his descendants. It is located within a few hundred feet of the mansion house on the plantation named, and covers over half an acre of land, surrounded by an excellent stone wall, with iron gateways. It contains numerous grave-stones, with inscriptions, and over one hundred graves clearly marked by mounds. Many mounds have no doubt disappeared in the lapse of years.

Mr. Reeves wrote his name with one "e," while his wife, Ann, wrote her name with two. Fac-similes of their autographs are herewith inserted. He married twice, but the name of his first wife is not known. The second marriage was to Ann Clement, under license issuing 12 November, 1759. She survived her husband, and was the executrix of his will. The dates of her birth and death have not been ascertained.

Child of Biddle Reeves⁴ by his first wife:

i. Josiah Reeves⁵, born 11 November, 1756; died in April, 1808, and in his will, dated 6 April, and proved 25 same month, he names wife Esther, and sous Biddle and Edward, who were then minors. Biddle is believed to be identical with the Mr. Biddle Reeves whose death by accidental drowning in the Delaware River, May, 1824, was announced in the press of Philadelphia, of 20 May, that year. When drowned he was in an open boat, returning home from Philadelphia, the boat being run down by a sloop.

Children of Biddle⁴ and Ann (Clement) Reeves:

- ii. Mary Reeves⁵, born 12 September, 1760; married 13 January, 1787, John Groff.
- (12) iii. Thomas Reeves³, born 25 April, 1762; died 18 September, 1819; married (1) Mary Wood; (2) Abigail Thompson; (3) Sarah Haines.
 - iv. Ann Reeves⁵, born 26 February, 1764; died 25 July, 1849; married Archibald Moffett, and had issue.
- (13) v. Biddle Reeves⁵, born 4 October, 1766; died 2 June, 1828; married (1) Elizabeth Haines; (2) Elizabeth Ellis.
 - vi. Elizabeth Reeves⁵, born 10 June, 1768; died in infancy.
 - vii. Joseph Reeves⁵, born 16 March, 1771; died in 1825; married, 2 July, 1797, Sarah, daughter of John and Keziah (Tredway) Groff.
- (14) viii. Clement Reeves⁵, born 19 March, 1772; died 5 July, 1819; married Sarah Wood.
 - ix. John Reeves⁵, born 22 March, 1775; died unmarried.
 - x. Desire Reeves⁵, born 9 March, 1777.
 - xi. SARAH REEVES⁵, born 1 August, 1779; died 23 March, 1875; married John Smith.
 - xii. Elizabeth Reeves⁵, born 12 May, 1783; died 18 January, 1837; married John Mulford.
- 8. ARTHUR REEVES[‡] (Thomas³, John², Walter¹), resided in Deptford Township, where he farmed a plantation of two hundred and twenty acres, devised to him by his father. He died in April, 1786, possessed of considerable wealth. His will bears date 8 April, that year, was proved 2 May following, and names four sons, and mentions "daughters," but does not name them. He married, 7 May, 1758, Mary Cox, the marriage being recorded at "Old Swedes" Church, Philadelphia. She no doubt survived her husband, as she is mentioned in his will.

Children of Arthur⁴ and Mary (Cox) Reeves:

- i. Arthur Reeves⁵, died in 1821, unmarried.
- (15) ii. MARK REEVES⁵, married Ann Ewan.
 - iii. Aaron Reeves⁵, married Mary Ann Bond, and had issue: 1. Sarah Reeves⁶. 2. Mary Reeves⁶. 3. Aaron Reeves⁶. 4. Arthur Reeves⁶.
 - iv. William Reeves⁶, by wife Elizabeth, had issue: 1. William Reeves⁶. 2. Esther Reeves⁶. 3. Rachel Reeves⁶.
 - v. Beulah Reeves⁵, married Edward D. Clayton.
 - vi. Mary Reeves⁵, born 17 November, 1764; died 17 December, 1840; married, 16 February, 1785, Joseph Cook.
 - vii. RACHEL REEVES⁵, died unmarried.
 - viii. Sarah Reeves⁵, married James Stevens.
 - ix. Edith Reeves⁵, married Groff, and had issue.
 - x. James Reeves⁵, who was a farmer, and resided in Greenwich Township, Gloucester County, where he died, in February, 1849. He married (license dated 26 May, 1785) Margaret Solomon, by whom he had (at least) the following issue:

 1. John Reeves⁶, who died in 1868, unmarried and without issue. 2. Martha Reeves⁶, married, 27 December, 1810, John Porch. 3. Mary Reeves⁶, married, in May, 1813, John Tempest. 4. Eliza Reeves⁶, married Levi Phipps. 5. Edith Reeves⁶, married Loudenslager.
- 9. THOMAS REEVES, Jun⁸⁴ (Thomas³, John², Walter¹), was born 2 February, 1728, and died 25 July, 1802, his death being caused by a stroke of of lightning. He resided on his plantation in Deptford Township, Gloucester County, and became a prosperous farmer. His real estate holdings at the time of his death were large, and he died possessed of a valuable personal estate. The division of his real estate was made by the Orphans' Court of Gloucester County, at June Term, 1804, when the property was divided among his "then living" five children, Benjamin Reeves, Rebecca Ridgway, Sybilla Reeves, John Reeves, and David Reeves.

He married, license dated 18 November, 1777, Keziah, daughter of John Brown by his wife Sarah Cooper. She survived her husband, and died before 22 December, 1806, on which day administration on her estate was granted unto her eldest son, Benjamin Reeves.

Children of Thomas Reeves, Junr⁴, by his wife Keziah Brown:

- (16) i. Benjamin Reeves⁵, died 1 April, 1844; married Abigail Toy.
 - ii. Rebecca Reeves⁵, married John Ridgway.
 - iii. Sybil Reeves, married Isaac Reeves. (See No. 18.)
 - iv. John Reeves⁵, died in 1826, leaving wife Hannah and son Samuel to survive him.
- (17) v. David Reeves⁵, born 14 February, 1793; died 17 March, 1871; married (1) Clara Mary James; (2) Mrs. Hettie Miller; (3) Mrs. Sarah Pearson.

10. JOSEPH REEVES⁴ (Thomas³, John², Walter¹), was born 20 June, 1743, probably in Gloucester County, and died at Woodbury, in that county, in January, 1825. He was a farmer, and resided for many years at Red Bank, same county, where he owned a farm and valuable fishing rights, which he obtained under the will of his father. In 1779 he was chosen collector of Deptford Township, but declined the office. He was a Friend, and a member of the Woodbury Meeting. He married (1), 31 March, 1774, Elizabeth, daughter of Joseph and Sarah Morgan, born in March, 1752; (2) Sarah, daughter of John and Sarah Gill, born 28 May, 1751, died in September, 1797.

Children of Joseph Reeves4:

- i. Hannah Reeves⁵, born 4 April, 1775; married Zachariah Test.
- ii. SARAH REEVES⁵, born 25 July, 1777; died 3 August, 1817.
- iii. Joseph Reeves⁵, born 9 January, 1780; died 30 August, 1798.
- (18) iv. Isaac Reeves⁵, born 1 September, 1782; died 28 April, 1861; married Sybil Reeves.
 - v. John Reeves⁵, born 30 March, 1785; died in September, 1787.
 - vi. Mary Reeves⁵, born 20 October, 1787; married Michael C. Fisher, Esqr, born 30 September, 1772; died 15 August, 1862. He was for many years a justice of the peace and one of the lay judges of Gloucester County, and in 1821 and 1822, of the Legislative Council of New Jersey. They had issue.
 - vii. Samuel M. Reeves⁵, born 23 October, 1790; died 26 October, 1886; married Hannah, daughter of Samuel Hopkins, born 15 January, 1797; died 25 June, 1874. They had issue.

Henry Vrewes

- viii. Benjamin Reeves5, born 10 July, 1795; died 21 October, 1819.
- 11. HENRY REEVES⁴ (Henry³, John², Walter¹), was born 21 December, 1742; died 2 April, 1809. He was a farmer, and resided in Northampton Township, Burlington County.

He was a Friend, and a member of Mount Holly Meeting. He married, license dated 2 March, 1765, Rachel

Jess, born 1 May, 1746; died 4 December, 1810; daughter of David Jess by his wife Ruth Silver. (See Jess Family, No. 2.)

Children of Henry⁴ and Rachel (Jess) Reeves; all born in Northampton Township:

i. Isaiah Reeves⁵, born 27 January, 1766; died 16 March, 1851; married, 6 December, 1795, Tabitha Maulsbury. Issue: 1. Benjamin Reeves⁶. 2. Abigail Reeves⁶. 3. Allen Reeves⁶. 4. Rebecca Reeves⁶. 5. Clayton Reeves⁶, born 6 October, 1804; died 23 February, 1858. 6. Barzillai C. Reeves⁶. 7. Zachariah Reeves⁶. 8. Edward N. Reeves⁶. 9. William W. Reeves⁶.

- (19) ii. Joel Reeves⁵, born 14 October, 1767; died 12 September, 1840; married Hannah Gaskill.
 - iii. ABIGAIL REEVES³, born 2 March, 1770; buried 24 February, 1849; married Samuel Rogers. (See Rogers Family, No. 15.)
 - iv. Eli Reeves⁵, born 9 March, 1773; died 5 June, 1818; married, 10 June, 1798, Amy Carty. No issue.
 - v. Sarepta Reeves⁵, born 17 January, 1774; buried 17 January, 1849; married, 13 May, 1801, as second wife, Samuel Wills, and had issue, Jemima Wills, born 13 March, 1802; died 5 August, 1859; married Samuel Bullock. Mr. Wills died 7 January, 1849.
 - vi. Mary Reeves⁵, born 29 February, 1776; died 1857; married, 12 November, 1800, Isaac Carr, by whom she had issue.
- (20) vii. Abraham Reeves⁵, born 29 July, 1778; died 3 February, 1836; married (1) Hope Stratton; (2) Mary Matlack.
 - viii. Rachel Reeves⁵, born 8 June, 1781; died 8 May, 1782.
 - ix. Henry Reeves⁵, born 7 March, 1783; died 19 December, 1831; married, 20 September, 1804, Mary Rakestraw. He received a certificate from Chesterfield Monthly Meeting of Friends in Burlington County to Radnor Monthly Meeting in Pennsylvania, 5, 8 month, 1817, for himself, wife Mary and minor children, Esther Reeves, Abraham Reeves, George W. Reeves, and Mary Reeves.
 - x. David Reeves⁵, born 2 August, 1786; died 11 December, 1840; married, 23 December, 1807, Grace Renaer, and with her, by deed of 9 May, 1814, conveyed land unto his sister, Sarepta Wills, who was then a widow.
- (21) xi. Zachariah Reeves⁵, born 2 January, 1789; died 27 January, 1854; married Sarah T. Coles.
 - xii. Ann Reeves⁵, born 19 February, 1791, died 1 October, 1870.
 - xiii. Rachel Reeves⁵, born 23 August, 1793; died 9 March, 1830.
- born in Gloucester County, 25 April, 1762; died there, 18 September, 1819. He was a farmer, and resided on his plantation in Greenwich Township, Gloucester County. He possessed a large estate, his landed holdings including two plantations. He bequeathed his slaves to his son Joseph, and stipulated that they should be emancipated "when thirty years of age." He married three times: (1) Mary Wood; (2) Abigail Thompson; (3) Sarah Haines. His second wife died after 8 August, 1803, on which day she joined in a deed with her husband. It is difficult to determine the mother of his children, except that none of them were by the third wife.

Children of Thomas Reeves⁵:

i. Thomas Reeves⁶, was a wholesale grocer merchant in Philadelphia, where he died, 6 April, 1840, aged fifty-six years. He married 11 February, 1809, Hannah Sitgreaves. Issue: 1. Mary Reeves⁷, born 6 April, 1810; married General A. W. Reynolds. 2. Hannah Reeves⁷, married W. P. Craig. 3. Cordelia Reeves⁷, born 16 June, 1821; married Benjamin Ash. 4. Josephine Reeves⁷,

- born 20 May, 1823; married Edward L. Wood. 5. Thomas A. Reeves⁷, born 4 March, 1825; married (1) Augelina Bird; (2) Caroline Baker Bird. 6. Matilda Reeves⁷, born 16 February, 1829; married James H. Sewell, Esqr. 7. Louis Reeves⁷, married Hannah Wood.
- ii. Joseph Reeves, born 10 January, 1799; died 18 October, 1824; married, 11 January, 1821, Mary, daughter of Matthew Gill, Esqr, born 21 April, 1798; died 6 April, 1883, having married as second husband, John Jessup. Issue: 1. ABIGAIL THOMPSON REEVES⁷, born 2 November, 1821; died 1 September, 1842. 2. Thomas Reeves, born 17 February, 1823; died 6 January, 1857; graduated in medicine at the University of Pennsylvania, and practised his profession in Gloucester and Salem Counties. He married Isabella McPhail, and by her had one child, Abigail Thompson Reeves⁸. 3. Joseph L. - 18. ISAAC REEVES⁵ (Joseph⁴, Thomas³, John², Walter¹), was born in Gloucester County, I September, 1782; died there, 28 April, 1861. He engaged extensively in peach growing, both on his plantation in Gloucester County and in Delaware, and he is said to have been the first to plant orchards of budded fruit in the latter State. His work in this direction is thus mentioned by Scharf in his "History of Delaware":

^{*} The Phœnix Iron Company employs three thousand men, and its works cover one hundred acres of land.

[†] Samuel W. Pennypacker, the present governor of Pennsylvania, in his "History of Phœnixville and its Vicinity," makes mention of Mr. David Reeves, and says, "He was president of the Phœnix Iron Company from its incorporation until 1871, during the whole of which period it immensely increased in capital and production, and at the time of his death he was the largest stockholder in that company, and was probably the wealthiest man in Chester County. He will long be remembered for his true gentility, which was exhibited not only in courteous manners, but in the kind treatment of even the most abject who were brought in contact with him, and for his profuse generosity. The esteem in which he was held by the community is best evidenced by the fact that his death caused general mourning, and his funeral at Laurel Hill [Philadelphia] was attended by so many of the people of Phœnixville that they filled thirty-four cars and required three trains. The employees of the company determined unanimously to erect a monument to his memory, since completed at a cost of about six thousand dollars, and the Borough Council, with equal zeal, have acquired a grant of land to be ornamented and converted into a park bearing his name."

[‡] He was a son of James James, a member of the Provincial Congress of New Jersey in 1775.

"So far as can be learned, the first orchards of budded fruit set out in Delaware were planted near Delaware City in 1832 by Isaac Reeves. Mr. Reeves had been for some time engaged in peach-raising in Gloucester County, New Jersey. . . . In 1828 Mr. Reeves removed to Philadelphia and soon after planted seventy or eighty acres in peach trees at Red Bank, New Jersey, and owned in 1830 or 1831 altogether about one hundred and fifty acres set in orchards. . . . Mr. Reeves visited the place (Delaware City) and found large native trees of the Morris White, Oldmixon, Cling, and other varieties; so in 1832 he planted, where the Delaware Battery now stands, the first orchard of budded fruit, setting out thirty acres this year, as many more the year following, and had, in the neighborhood, one hundred acres in 1837. In 1838 Mr. Reeves planted an orchard of one hundred acres on the farm of Ayres & Thompson, between Wilmington and New Castle, and another of one hundred acres on the farm of Dr. Thompson, at Claymont. From this time orchards spread along the Delaware and Chesapeake Canal, and the whole country began to be filled with peach-trees. . . . One year, when peaches were very high and scarce, Reeves netted $16,000 from seven thousand baskets, and in 1837 or 1838 netted a like amount from sixteen thousand baskets."

Mr. Reeves spent his closing years on his estate near Woodbury, New Jersey. He married Sybil (or Sybilla) Reeves, born 20 February, 1786; died 5 July, 1853; daughter of Thomas Reeves, Jr. (see No. 9), and he and his wife were both interred in the Reeves Burying-Ground. His estate included an "interest in the fisheries at Red Bank;" also, lands in Columbiana County, Ohio.

- iv. Louisa Reeves⁶, born 24 November, 1825; married, 11 September, 1845, Josephus Sooy.
- v. Mark Reeves6, born 29 July, 1828; died 18 December, 1872.
- 22. BIDDLE REEVES⁶ (Biddle⁵, Biddle⁴, Thomas³, John², Walter¹), was born at the Reeves homestead, near Woodbury, New Jersey, 14 May, 1814; died at Woodbury, 10 June, 1852. He was the last to occupy the homestead estate on which the ancient burying ground is located. He was a member of Woodbury Friends' Meeting, and was held in high esteem by all who knew him. Some years before his death he gave up the active conduct of his large and well-appointed farm, and removed to Woodbury. By his last will and testament he devised a piece of ground for the enlargement of the family burying-ground. He married, 9 November, 1836, Sarah, daughter of Paul and Hope (Kay) Scull, born 19 October, 1816, who is still living at Woodbury, being in the eighty-ninth year of her age, and having married for second husband, D. Cooper Andrews, who is deceased.

Children of Biddle⁶ and Sarah (Scull) Reeves:

- i. Paul Scull Reeves⁷, born 10 September, 1837. He is the head of the manufacturing firm of Paul S. Reeves & Son, proprietors of the Tubal Smelting Works, at Philadelphia, and he is the president of the Phœnixville Industrial Association, Phœnixville, Pennsylvania, where he resides, at his seat, "The Knoll." He is a member of the Union League and the Historical and Colonial Societies of Pennsylvania, and is now serving as aide-de-camp on the staff of Governor Pennypacker, with the rank of lieutenant-colonel. He married, 19 October, 1859, Keturah, daughter of Samuel and Asenath (Oliver) Kreamer, born 22 July, 1838. Issue: 1. Alfred Scull Reeves, born 2 July, 1862; died 18 December, 1890; married, 8 June, 1887, Katharine Muhlenberg Eckert, of Reading, Pennsylvania. THE JESS FAMILY

ACHARIAH JESS¹, the first of his surname in New Jersey, was probably of English birth. The earliest date at which he is found there is 11 April, 1709, on which day he witnessed the will of John Mills, of Chesterfield Township, Burlington County. At that time he was probably a young man, and had but recently come from England to seek a fortune in the New World. He made his permanent settlement in Springfield, Hanover Township. He was a member of the Society of Friends, and became one of its ministers, in which capacity he was granted by the Burlington Meeting, 7 July, 1713, a "certificate to visit Friends on Long Island;" also one in September, 1721, to make a general visit throughout New England. The testimony issued by the Quarterly Meeting after his death was, that, "He travelled in the service of Truth through the Eastern Provinces to good satisfaction, and was respected at home; and died in unity with Friends, in the Sixth month, 1724." His estate at his death was valued at about three hundred pounds, a portion of which consisted of a two-thirds' interest in a saw- and grist-mill. His will, executed 12 September, 1721, and proved 23 September, 1724, mentions "wife" and "children," without naming them. On 11 January, 1713, he married Rachel, daughter of Restore Lippincott, Esq^r, by his wife Hannah Shattock. The marriage ceremony took place at the house of Mr. Lippincott. (See Lippincott Family, No. 4.) The widow, Rachel, married, second, 19 November, 1729, Francis Dawson, of Northampton Township, Burlington County, by whom she had no issue.

THE JESS FAMILY

Children of Zachariah¹ and Rachel (Lippincott) Jess:

- (2) i. DAVID JESS2, married Ruth Silver.
 - ii. Zachariah Jess², married, intentions declared 5 September, 1750, Hannah Southwick.
 - iii. Jonathan Jess², was a witness to the marriage of his brother David.
 - iv. Ann Jess², married, 2 November, 1743, Caleb Shreve.
- 2. DAVID JESS² (Zachariah¹), was born in Burlington County, and is supposed to have resided there throughout his life, although no record of his death has been found. The fact that he did not leave a will, and the absence of any record of administration on his estate, suggest that he probably divided his estate among his children during his lifetime, a practice which was not uncommon in his day. He married, at Mount Holly Meeting-House, 31 January, 1741, Ruth Silver, daughter of Archibald Silver,* by his wife Mary Cowgill.

ARCHIBALD SILVER, was born circa 1696, and married Mary, daughter of Ralph Cowgill‡ by his wife Susanna Pancoast. He removed from Salem County to Burlington County in 1718, taking a "certificate of removal" from Salem Monthly Meeting, 3 March in that year, and presenting it to Chesterfield Monthly Meeting, 4 June, same year. He and Mary Cowgill declared their intentions of marriage at Chesterfield Meeting, 3 March, 1719–20, and the same was reported as "accomplished" at the meeting held on 5 May following. In 1735 he and his wife were granted "a certificate of removal" to Burlington Monthly Meeting, and in 1741 they received a similar certificate from the latter Meeting to Salem Monthly Meeting, and removed to Salem County, where they resided during the remainder of their lives. He died 11 February, 1772, "in the 78th year of his age," and she died 3 November, 1767, "in the 66th year of her age." Their daughter, Ruth, married David Jess, as is set forth in the text.

^{} ARCHIBALD SILVER, the elder, was an early settler in Burlington County, New Jersey, where, also, his brothers James and John settled. By deed of 10 October, 1686, Archibald Silver purchased from Governor Byllinge one hundred acres of land, located on the south side of the north branch of Rancocas Creek, adjoining land of Dr. Robert Dimsdale, and on 10 May, 1695, he sold the same to James Smith. In the deed † to Smith, Silver is styled "of Northampton Township, Burlington County, planter." About the time he made this conveyance, he removed to Manneton Creek, Salem County, and died there in 1703, leaving personal estate valued at over one hundred and ninety pounds. His estate was administered by Joseph Burgen, doubtless a brother-in-law, and the same who married Jane Silver, 23 March, 1691–92. Archibald Silver married Christian Cheene, a young woman who had resided in the family of the Reverend George Keith, and by this marriage he acquired a tract of thirty acres of land in Monmouth County. Their son:

[‡] ELLEN COWGILL, a widow, and the mother of Ralph Cowgill of the text, emigrated from England to Pennsylvania in 1682, with William Penu in the "Welcome." She was probably accompanied by all of her children except Ralph, who appears to have been a passenger in the ship "Friends' Adventure," which arrived in the Delaware River 28 September, 1682, a few weeks before Penn arrived there. Ellen Cowgill's home is supposed to have been in Yorkshire, as, under date of 7 June, 1682, the Friends of Settle Monthly Meeting, Yorkshire, gave a "certificate" to her and other Friends who were about leaving for Pennsylvania. Ralph Cowgill came under contract of employment with Randolph Blackshaw, whose daughter he subsequently married. The families of Cowgill and Blackshaw settled in Bucks County. In 1694 Ralph Cowgill purchased of his father-in-law one hundred and twelve acres of land in Falls Township, that county, and later sold the same to Joseph Kirkbride. About the time of his second marriage, Ralph Cowgill removed to Burlington County, New Jersey, and is supposed to have continued there until his death.

THE JESS FAMILY

Children of David² and Ruth (Silver) Jess:

- i. Rachel Jess⁸, born 1 May, 1746; died 4 December, 1810; married, license, 2 March, 1765, Henry Reeves. (See Reeves Family, No. 11.)
- ii. Bathsheba Jess³, married Stephen Morris, by whom she had issue: I. Sarah Morris⁴, who married Thomas Pancoast. 2. Mary Morris⁴, who married Samuel Butler. 3. David Morris⁴, who married Elizabeth Knight. 4. Stephen Morris⁴, who married Elizabeth Knight. 5. John Morris⁴, who married Prudence Butler.
- iii. David Jess³, married Ann Thackary, and had issue: 1. Ruth Jess⁴. 2. Thomas Jess⁴. 3. Josiah Jess⁴. 4. Mary Jess⁴. 5. Rachel Jess⁴. 6. Ann Jess⁴.
- iv. Zachariah Jess^a, married Rebecca Pedrick. Under date of 27 October, 1777, both he and his wife were granted a certificate from Springfield Meeting to Evesham Meeting. Later he removed to Wilmington, Delaware. He was the author of "A Compendious System of Practical Surveying." 8vo. Wilmington, 1799; and "The American Tutor's Assistant Improved; or, A Compendious System of Decimal, Practical Arithmetic." 12mo. Wilmington, 1800.
- iv. James Jess³, licensed to marry Keziah Leeds, 5 September, 1782.

He was a member of the Society of Friends, and on his removal to New Jersey attached himself to Chesterfield Meeting. In 1722 he was overseer of highways in Chesterfield Township, and in 1729 an overseer of the poor. The date and place of his death have not been ascertained. He was living in Burlington County 19 February, 1733, on which day he was present at the marriage of his daughter Jane.

Ralph Cowgill married (1) Sarah Blackshaw, who was buried 15 August, 1694. By her he had issue: Abraham, born 15 May, 1690; married, in 1725, Dorothy Turner. John, born and died 30 December, 1692. Nehemiah, born 13 March, 1694; married, in 1717, Joyce Smith. Sarah, born 3 August, 1694, a few days prior to her mother's death. Ralph Cowgill married (2), 2 September, 1697, Susanna, daughter of John Pancoast,* and by her had issue: Marv, who married Archibald Silver. Rebecca, who married, 3 January, 1726, Edward Page, of Philadelphia. Isaac, who married, 14 January, 1730, Rachel Briggs. Jane, who married, 19 February, 1733, Benjamin Linton, of Bucks County Pennsylvania. Susanna, who married, 24 September, 1737, John King.

* JOHN PANCOAST, a Quaker, was one of the early colonists of West Jersey, and the founder of the American family of his surname. From a manuscript written by his son Joseph Pancoast, it is ascertained that the father came to America from Northamptonshire, England, in October, 1680, in the ship "Paradise," William Evelyn, master, and settled in Burlington County, West Jersey. He was a signer of the noted "Concessions and Agreements," and owned proprietary rights in the province named. His homestead was in Mansfield Township. In 1681, he was appointed regulator of weights and measures for Burlington County; was chosen constable two years later, and in 1685 was elected a member of the Assembly of West Jersey. His will, dated 30 November, and proved 22 December, 1694, names wife Jane, and children Mary, Ann, William, Joseph, Elizabeth, Sarah, Hannah, and Susanna. These children were by his first wife, who accompanied him to America, but whose name is unknown. He married (2), 2 August, 1682, Ann Snowden; (3) Jane —. The marriages of his children, so far as ascertained, are: Mary married, in 1682, Seth Smith; William married, in 1695, Hannah Scattergood; Joseph married, in 1696, Tomasin Scattergood; Sarah married Edward Boulton; and Susanna married Ralph Cowgill, as stated in the preceding note. The late eminent Philadelphia surgeons, Dr. Joseph Pancoast and his son, Dr. William H. Pancoast, were descendants of John Pancoast.

CHARD LIPPINCOTT¹, the founder of the family of his surname in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, was among the early Puritan settlers of New England. He emigrated from Devonshire, England, in which shire his ancestors had been located for some centuries.* Upon his arrival in Massachusetts, he took up his residence at Dorchester, and became a member of the church there. One I April, 1640, he was chosen to a town office, and on 13 May, following, he was admitted a freeman of the Colony. His stay at Dorchester appears to have been but for a few years, after which he removed to Boston, where his son John was born, 6 November, 1644, and baptized four days later, and where, also, his daughter Abigail was baptized 9 March, 1646. Both baptisms are entered on the records of the First Church at Boston, and in the baptismal entry of the son the father is noted as "a member of the Church at Dorchester." Some time after these baptisms Mr. Lippincott came to differ with his brethren of the church as to some of the religious doctrines of the Puritans, and he was so tenacious in this difference that, on 6 July, 1651, the Church excluded him from its communion. This action was soon followed by his return to England, where he may have possibly hoped to find a larger degree of religious liberty than he had found among his fellow-colonists in Massachusetts.

^{*} For some account of the early history of the name and family, see the article by James S. Lippincott, published in Judge Clements's "First Emigrant Settlers of Newton Township, Old Gloucester County, West New Jersey," pp. 378, 379.

Mr. Lippincott's religious views at this time can but be conjectured, but it is evident that they harmonized with those of the celebrated George Fox. the founder of the Society of Friends, as, shortly after his return to his native land, he allied himself with that sect. Becoming more than a passive believer in the doctrines of his new faith, he was made to suffer for his principles, and to share in some of the persecutions which fell to the lot of many of Fox's followers. In February, 1655, while residing at Plymouth, Devonshire, the mayor of that town caused his arrest and imprisonment in the jail near the Castle of Exeter, his offence being, it would appear, that he had asserted that "Christ was the word of God, and the Scriptures a declaration of the mind of God;" and later in the same year, he testified, with others, against the act of the mayor, and "the falsehood of the charges brought against him." Continuing faithful to his religious convictions, in 1660 he was again imprisoned by the mayor of Plymouth, on which occasion his release was brought about by the solicitations of Margaret Fell and others, who influenced Charles II. to grant the liberation of many Friends.

It is thought that Mr. Lippincott compared his then environment in Devonshire with that by which he had been surrounded in Boston; that the comparison favored the latter, at least in respect to his enjoyment of religious liberty; and that, thus influenced, he determined to bid a final farewell to Old England and again transfer himself and his family to New England. Moved by such conclusions, or, possibly, for other considerations, he sailed for America in 1661 or 1662. Arriving there, he made his way to Rhode Island, where he settled, finding in this Baptist colony a spirit of tolerance which presented a wide contrast to that prevailing in either England or Massachusetts. His residence in Rhode Island was but for a few years, and was soon followed by his removal to New Jersey.

All efforts of Englishmen to establish a settlement in what became New Jersey were thwarted by the Dutch, until the latter were overthrown in the government of New Netherlands by the English forces sent out by the Duke of York, under the command of Colonel Richard Nichols. This event was immediately succeeded by a movement on the part of a number of English colonists, chiefly from Long Island and Rhode Island, to establish settlements of Englishmen in New Jersey. The first step in this direction was towards securing title to the land from the Indians, in furtherance of which an "association" was formed at Newport, Rhode Island, for the raising of moneys to make the purchase. Mr. Lippincott joined this "association," and of the eighty-three subscribers to the fund secured, his subscription was the largest, amounting to £14 10s.,—more than twice that of any other subscriber, excepting one, of £11 10s. The purchase was effected, and on 8 April, 1665, the Indian Sachem, Popomona, acknowledged his conveyances before Governor Nichols, and the following day the latter gave the celebrated patent, known as the "Monmouth Patent," which, in addition to declaring the important franchises granted, made the declaration that all who settled within the bounds of the territory named should "have free Liberty of Conscience without any Molestation or Disturbance whatsoever in their way of worship," a declaration which must have been particularly gratifying to Richard Lippincott and his associates.

By the terms of the patent it was required that at least one hundred families should settle within the country patented, "within the space of three years." Mr. Lippincott was among the first to effect the removal of his family. He had probably visited the locality, and found it, as did Hendrick Hudson in 1609, "very good land to fall in with and a pleasant land to see." He settled at what was named Shrewsbury, where, by reason of his substantial subscription to the purchase fund, he received large grants of land.

Among the first settlers at Shrewsbury and vicinity there were a number of Friends, and these joined together in forming what has ever since been known as the Shrewsbury Meeting of Friends. Mr. Lippincott was an active member of the Meeting, and he also took a prominent part in public affairs. In 1667, a legislative assembly was organized in the colony, and it has the distinction of being the first legislative body ever assembled in New Jersey. Mr. Lippincott was elected a member of the Assembly in 1669, being chosen as one of the representatives from Shrewsbury.

Under the patent the patentees and the inhabitants were given authority to elect, from among "the ablest and discreetest" of the inhabitants, "associate patentees," who, joined with the patentees, were given full power "to make such peculiar and prudential laws and constitutions amongst the inhabitants for the better and more orderly governing of them," as well as "liberty to try all causes and actions of debts and tresspasses arising amongst the inhabitants to the value of ten pounds." This provision of the patent was first put into force in 1670, at which time Mr. Lippincott was chosen an associate patentee, thereby becoming entitled to participate in not only the making of the laws, but in the administering them as well. In 1677 he was again elected to the Assembly.

On 9 August, 1676, Mr. Lippincott purchased a tract of one thousand acres in Fenwick's Colony. The purchase was made from John Fenwick himself, and was no doubt intended by Mr. Lippincott as a land speculation. He never occupied the tract, although he retained ownership until 21 May, 1679, when he divided it into plantations of two hundred acres each, and conveyed one to each of his sons.*

He died at Shrewsbury, 25 November, 1683. His will, dated three days earlier, names wife Abigail, sons Jacob, Freedom, Remembrance, John, and Restore, and daughter Increase. His wife Abigail, whom he probably married at Roxbury, was the mother of all of his children. She survived her husband, and died at Shrewsbury, 2 August, 1697.† She was a woman of much force of character, and was among the first to provide by will for the liberation of slaves.

there a prominent and useful citizen. He was a farmer and a large landowner, and served in several public employments. In 1701 he was a petitioner to the king, asking that the government of East Jersey be taken under the crown, should the Proprietors of the province not appoint a suitable person as governor. Although he was baptized in infancy in the Puritan Church, he was reared in the Society of Friends, became one of its ministers, and was clerk of the Monthly and Quarterly Meetings of Shrewsbury for many years. He married, circa 1665, Margaret Barber, of Boston, who was mentioned in his will of 23 February, 1719.

Children of Remembrance² and Margaret (Barber) Lippincott:

4. RESTORE LIPPINCOTT² (Richard¹), was the third son of Richard Lippincott, and was born at Plymouth, Devonshire, England, 3 July, 1652 or 1653, and died near Mount Holly, New Jersey, about 20 July, 1741. Although he was approaching, at his decease, his ninetieth year, he was yet regarded as one much older. The noted Quaker Minister, Thomas Chalkley, attended his funeral, and made this note in his Journal: "On fourth day, the 22d, I was at Mount Holly, at the burial of our ancient friend, Restored Lippincott; he was, as I understood, nearly one hundred years of age, and had upwards of two hundred children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren, many of whom were at his funeral."

Mr. Lippincott was brought to America by his parents, and he accompanied them on their removal from Rhode Island to Shrewsbury, New Jersey. He married shortly after he attained his majority, and established himself upon a plantation at Shrewsbury, where he acquired several tracts of land, and where he resided until 1692. During that year he purchased a plantation of five hundred and seventy acres in Northampton, Burlington County, to which he removed, and upon which he resided at his death. In 1701 he was elected from that county a representative to the West Jersey Assembly,* and in the same year he joined with the Provincial Council and the members of the Assembly in the petition which they addressed to King William, asking for the confirmation of Andrew Hamilton as governor of the Colony. This Assembly was the last to meet under the West Jersey government, as in 1702 the Proprietors of the provinces of East and West Jersey surrendered their rights of government to the crown, whereupon Queen Anne united the two governments under one, naming it New Jersey, and appointing Lord Cornbury as governor. The first Assembly under the new régime met at Perth Amboy in 1703.* Mr. Lippincott was chosen one of its members, and participated in its deliberations. He was re-elected in 1704, and continued to serve in such capacity until the Assembly was dissolved in October, 1706.

Mr. Lippincott was an active and highly esteemed member of the Society of Friends, and died in the profession of that faith, and was buried in Friends' ground at Mount Holly. In 1716, a house for the religious meetings of Friends in the vicinity of Mount Holly was constructed. For some years prior to that these meetings were held in Mr. Lippincott's mansion. His will, dated 16 March, 1733–34, and proved 13 December, 1741, names son James, daughters Rachel Dawson, Abigail Shinn, Rebecca Gaskill, and Elizabeth Shinn, and grandsons Joseph and Restore Lippincott and David and Jonathan Jess.

He married (1), at Shrewsbury, 6 November, 1674, Hannah, daughter of William Shattuck, † born at Boston, 8 July, 1654; died before 1729, during which year he married (2) Martha Owen, widow of Joshua Owen.

Children of Restore² and Hannah (Shattuck) Lippincott:

- i. Samuel Lippincott³, born 12 September, 1675; married Ann Hulett, and had issue.

- iii. Judith Lippincott3, born 22 August, 1689; married, 9 November, 1710, Joseph Stokes (See "Genealogy of the Stokes Family"), and by him left issue.
- iv. Mary Lippincott3, born 21 November, 1691; married Edward Peake.
- v. Freedom Lippincott³, born 6 February, 1693; died about 1764; married, 17 November, 1715, Elizabeth, daughter of John Wills, and left issue.
- 6. INCREASE LIPPINCOTT² (Richard¹), was born at Stonehouse, near Plymouth, Devonshire, England, 5 December, 1657; died at Shrewsbury, New Jersey, 29 November, 1695. She married Samuel Dennis, of Shrewsbury, who survived his wife, and died at Shrewsbury, 7 June, 1723, aged seventy-two years and six months, and was buried in Christ Church grounds in that town. His will, dated 4 May, 1715, was proved 6 August, 1723, and named children Samuel, Jacob, Abigail Leeds, Zibeah, and Rachel. He owned a farm at Shrewsbury, and lands in Freehold, New Jersey.

Children of Increase Lippincott² by Samuel Dennis:

- i. Abigail Dennis3, born 25 May, 1682; married, in May, 1711, Philo Leeds.
- ii. Samuel Dennis³, born 18 August, 168-; married, in July, 1716, Ann West.

HE Bodines of New York, New Jersey, and, indeed, of America, have their origin in the family le Boudin or de Baudain, and the antiquity of the surname is attested by French charters * of the twelfth century. The family le Boudin was settled in Cambray, in France, originally a district in the Low Countries, as early as 1126, † and bore for arms: D'azur au chev. d'or, acc. de trois roses du meme: au chef d'arg., chargé de trois merlette du champe. ‡

In France the family has borne an honorable part in war and peace, and has given to the world the noted political thinker and philosophical reasoner, Jean Bodin, a native of Angers, born 31 May, 1530, died of the plague at Laon in 1596, the father of political science, if Machiavelli be excepted, and the author of "Livres de la République," Paris, 1576. Sir William Hamilton [1729–1803] said of him that, from the time of Aristotle until Montesquieu the six books of Bodin's form the ablest and most remarkable treatise extant on the philosophy of government and legislation.

Gaspard de Bodin, of the branch Bodin de Boisrenarce, progenitor of the Bodins de Galumbert, was captain of the grenadiers of Guyenne and Chevalier de St. Louis, and left the service in 1767 with the rank of brevetmajor. This line bore the arms of le Boudin, with the addition of lions as supporters. Of this family was Jean Francis Bodin, the historian, born at Angers, 26 September, 1776, died in 1829, author of "Recherches historiques sur Saumur et le haut Anjou," published in 1821 and 1822; and "Recherches historiques sur Angers et le bas Anjou." His son, Felix Bodin, born at Saumur, in December, 1795, died at Paris, 7 May, 1837, was likewise the author of several important historical works. Dr. Pierre Joseph François Bodin, the famous deputy for the Department Loire, who voted for the deportation of Louis XVI., was also of this branch.

I. JEAN BODINE¹, of the Cambray family, is said to have removed to Medis, in the province of Saintonge, France, where his son Jean was born in 1645. He was doubtless a Huguenot, and left the country of his nativity to find an asylum in other lands, and it is thought that he made a short stay in Holland, as well as in England, before his coming to New York, where, on 3 November, 1677, he witnessed, with Maria Creison, at the Reformed Dutch Church, the baptism of Jan, son of Andries Canon by his wife Janetje Plúck. He settled on Staten Island, New York, at which place he had a survey of land, I April, 1686,* and where he died during the latter part of 1694. His estate was administered upon, 4 March, 1695, by Paulus Richards, and before the final settlement thereof his son Jean Bodine appeared as defendant in a suit against the same.† Nothing is known of his wife or of children other than the son given below.

Child of Jean Bodine¹, born at Medis, France:

- (2) JEAN BODINE², born 9 May, 1645; married (1) Crocheron; (2) Esther Bridon.
- 2. JEAN BODINE² (Jean¹) was, according to a tradition universal in the family, born at Medis, France, 9 May, 1645, and naturalized at London, England, 21 March, 1682, with second wife Esther, her parents, Francis and Jane Susan Bridon, and Francis Bridon, their son. ‡ For a short period [‡] Agnew's French Protestant Exiles, ii. 45. Others of the Bodine family had found a home in England before this:

Jacques le Baudain and his brother Matthias le Baudain, born near Tournay, became merchants of London, about 1550.

Nicholas Baudoin, minister in charge both of St. Pierre Port in Guernsey and of St. Marie in Jersey. It appears that M. Baudoin accepted the charge in Jersey in 1585, owing to some disagreement between the French members and the Governor of Guernsey. He was however recalled to Guernsey and reinstated in the French Parish in 1599. He died in 1613, aged eighty-seven years.

Jasper Bodden removed from France to London, before 22 April, 1572, at which time he had a daughter Catherine, baptized at the Dutch Church of Austin Friars.

he resided at Rye, in Sussex, where at least two of his children were born,* after which he emigrated to the New World, possibly joining his father on Staten Island, and was living in the latter place at his father's death in 1695. His attention was attracted to the undulating fertile lands of Middlesex County, New Jersey, and thither he went, possibly with the intention of making a home in that district. He purchased on 12 May, 1701,† being then described as of Middlesex County, East Jersey, eighty acres of land on the west side of Staten Island, at Charles Neck, and removed there almost immediately, as his cattle-mark was entered at that place the following year. ‡ On 8 May, 1722, he bought of Francis Bridon another tract of eighty acres at the same place, § and on 2 February, 1736, Jelan Cossou and Esther Cossou, heirs-at-law to Francis Bridon, conveyed to him a dwelling-house and tract of ten acres also at Charles Neck. || He was living as late as 7 March, 1736, when he and his wife, Esther, sold lands to Francois Coden and John Lis.¶

He married (1) — Crocheron, whose father, John Crocheron, was among the émigrés to Staten Island, and who, by his will of 13 December, 1695, described himself as of great age, and bequeathed his estate to his wife Mary, eldest son Nicholas, son Anthony, and to his "other children."  The son Nicholas Crocheron did not long survive his father, and his will, dated 10 February, 1702, gave half his paternal estate to his "nephews and nieces, the children of John Bodine by his first wife." He also left a legacy to the French congregation on Staten Island.†† Jean Bodine married (2), probably in England, Esther, the daughter of Francis Bridon, ‡‡ who was

Daniel Bodin and Catherine Le Brun his wife, had daughters, Marie and Marte, baptized at the French Church in Threadneedle Street, London, 3 February, 1628, and daughter, Barbe, 29 January, 1629.

Daniel Bodin and Marie his wife, had daughter Judic, baptized at the same church, 19 August, 1638, at which ceremony Pierre Bodin was a witness.

David Boudin, a native of Rouen, married at the church in Threadneedle Street, Jenne Du Guais, widow of Abraham Rony of Liege, 13 October, 1636.

Guillaume Bodine and wife, Clara Guiry, had son Jonas, baptized 13 January, 1635.

François Bodien had daughter Marie, baptized 10 September, 1643.

^{‡‡} Port des Barques, near the mouth of Charente, Saintonge, France, was the home of Francis Bridon. He escaped to England in 1681, and afterwards came to Boston and was Elder of the French Church. His son Francis Bridon returned to Port des Barques for property in 1684, as Francis Bridon, wife, and two children fled in 1681, leaving property valued at eight hundred livres. The other heirs, under his will of 7 November, 1703, were son Francis Bridon, and daughter Susanna Rushé.† Francis Bridon, the younger, died in October, 1723, leaving a widow, Susanna Bridon, whose will, which bears date 10 November, 1724, gives to her "cousin" John Bodine a life interest in certain lands in Charles Neck, Staten Island, with remainder to his wife, Esther, and to their children. ‡

The descendants of Jean or John Bodine are scattered far and wide in the United States, and are people of character and substance who have borne their part in peace and was as law-abiding citizens and as active patriots.

huysen antagonized by his forceful preaching, and who voted, in 1729, for Mr. Frelinghuysen's removal from the united churches of Three Mile Run, Raritan, and North Branch. During the Colonial period lotteries were fruitful sources of raising funds for particular objects, and were often of great public utility. The following from the New York Weekly Post Boy of 28 November, 1748, well describes the land lottery system then in vogue:

"The scheme of a Lottery to be drawn at Rariton-Landing in the County of Middlesex, in New Jersey, by Mr. Peter Bodine, for raising £1302, New Jersey money, at Eight Shillings per Ounce. This Lottery consists of 195 Lots of Land, belonging to the said Peter Bodine, and are situated some of them in the very Heart of that growing Place, known by the Name of Raritan-Landing, which is the market for the most plentiful Wheat Country of its Bigness in America. The front Lots on the North Side of the Main Road are Number 14, and are all 63 Foot front, and are one with the other 150 foot back, and some more. There are great Improvements on two of the said front Lots, such as Houses, Store-Houses, Gardens, and other Out-Houses. There is also fronting the South Side of the main Road, 9 good building Lots of 63 Foot front, and 132 Foot back and some larger; on one of which there is a good new House. Also 16 Lots between the main road and the River, each Lot containing near an Acre; all which Lots are very conveniently situated for loading of Boats, and for the Market.

"There is also 156 other Lots, containing one with the other near Three Quarters of an Acre, some of which are well timbred, and so contrived in the laying them out, that they are commodiously situated for Building and other Uses. The Lottery consists of 930 Tickets, at Twenty Eight Shillings, Jersey money at 8s. per ounce each, amounting to the said sum of £1302; of which Tickets 195 are to be fortunate, agreeable to the Number of Lots, which are of different Values according to their different Situations. Bernardus Le Grange and George Vroome are appointed Managers of the said Lottery, which will be drawn on the first Day of February next, and sooner if full, at some convenient place at the said Raritan-Landing, under the Inspection of Edward Antil, Esqr., and Mr. Hendrick Vroome, and others to join them if need be; who, with the said Managers, will be upon Oath for the faithful Discharge of that Trust. The fortunate Tickets will be published in the New York Gazette, as soon as drawn; and the said Bodine will be at the Expence of laying out each Lot severally, but the Drawer to be at the expence of a Deed. A Map of the Whole is already carefully prepared, and will be shown at the Time of Drawing, and at any Time before, to such as have a Mind to be Adventurers.

"This Lottery must be at least as advantageous as any that has as yet appeared: First, Because the lowest Prize will be worth at least Four Pounds, and so gradually ascending to £250. Secondly, Because there will be but little more than three and a half Blanks to a Prize: And Thirdly, Because the Lots must increase in Value very fast, as being situate in the most flourishing Part of the Province, and surrounded by a very fruitful, well-settled and fast-growing Country, to which this Landing is the most natural, easy and best Market. Tickets may be had at the said Bodine's, and the said Managers."

A later announcement reads:

"Notice is hereby given. That the Lottery to be drawn at the Raritan Landing in New Jersey, by Mr. Peter Bodine, is not yet quite full, obliges the Drawing to be postpon'd a little; it will, however be drawn as soon as possible: and those who incline to become Adventurers, are desired to be expeditious: Tickets are sold by Messrs. Barnardus Legrange and George Vroom, the Managers, or the printer hereof.—Weekly Post Boy, March 20, 1749."

And still another in the issue of the same paper of 10 July:

"Whereas the Lottery of Mr. Peter Bodine, at the Rariton Landing, is very near full; Notice is therefore given, That the Numbers will be put in the Boxes, on Tuesday the Fifteenth Day of August next, so that the Drawing may begin the next Day, if full, otherwise the Money to be restored; which 'tis hoped will not be the Case, as it is as well calculated as any that has as yet appeared; there is but about three and a half Blanks to a Prize, and a great many very valuable Prizes, without any manner of Deduction to the Drawer, only the expenses of a Deed. A few Tickets still remain to be sold by Messrs. Barnardus Legrange and George Vroom, the said Managers, and the Printer hereof, at 28 shillings each. Money at 8s per oz.—IVeckly Post Boy, July 10, 1749."

The end came a few weeks later:

"The Land Lottery of Mr. Peter Bodine at Rariton Landing is drawn; but the Numbers came to Hand too late to be printed in this Weeks Paper.—
The Weekly Post Boy, August 28, 1749."

The issue of 4 September following contains "A List of the Numbers of the Prizes in the Land Lottery of Mr. Peter Bodine at Rariton Landing." *

that of his said son, 10 November, 1747. The date and place of his death are uncertain. In 1754 a Peter Bodine was living in Montgomery County, New York, and he was probably of this family. He married Margrita ——, who may not have been the mother of his eldest children; and he doubtless had others than those given below.

Children of Peter Bodine³; baptized at the Dutch Church at Three Mile Run, and at Somerville:

- i. Peter Bodine⁴, born circa 1710; married Agnes Constance de Bruyn, and had: I. Maria Bodine⁵, born 8 December, 1731; married Cornelius Ten Broeck,* born 14 May, 1727; died 26 June, 1766. Their eldest son, Major John C. Ten Broeck, served with distinction throughout the Revolution, was engaged in the battles of Trenton, Brandywine, and Monmouth, shared the privations of Valley Forge, and was wounded at Yorktown. He was an original member of the Society of the Cincinnati, and his place descended to the late William Ketchum, of Plattsburg, New York. Their third son, Peter Bodine Ten Broeck, enlisted in 1776 under Colonel Robert Van Rensselaer; a miniature of him in uniform is still extant. 2. Peter Bodine⁵, ancestor of the Bodines of Flemington, New Jersey, and Scranton, Pennsylvania.
- ii. John Bodine⁴, baptized 30 April, 1712; died about March, 1747; married Catherine

- iii. David Bodine⁴, baptized 3 April, 1717; probably removed to Montgomery County, New York.
- iv. Marretje Bodine⁴, baptized 15 October, 1738, at Somerville.
- 6. ABRAHAM BODINE³ (Jean², Jean¹), witnessed a baptism at the North Branch [Readington] Dutch Church in 1715. On 18 July, 1722,† he purchased of Elizabeth Merlatt, both being described as of Piscataway, some sixty acres of land on Ambrose Brook,‡ near Piscataway, which he afterwards sold, purchasing on 24 April, 1752, a tract of land adjoining his then residence on the North Branch of the Raritan. In this year one Abraham Bodine, possibly he, owned a part of the Peter Van Nest tract on the west side of the North Branch. The date of his death is uncertain. He married, about 1723, Adriantje Janse.

He was a witness to a deed for land at Charles Neck, 7 March, 1736,* after which his name disappears from the records of Richmond County, and he doubtless removed to Cranbury, Middlesex County, New Jersey, with his sons Francis and Vincent, and there died. He married Maria, daughter of James Dey,† of Staten Island, by his first wife, Mary Mulliner. The issue of this marriage is somewhat uncertain, and there were probably other children than those given below.

Children of Francis³ and Maria (Dey) Bodine:

- (9) i. Francis Bodine', married (1) --; (2) Rachel Wilson.
- (10) ii. John Bodine', died in March, 1779; married Dorcas ---.
- (11) iii. Vincent Bodine4, died in March, 1790; married Ann Dey.
- 9. FRANCIS BODINE⁴ (Francis³, Jean², Jean¹), was born, doubtless, on Staten Island, and crossed from there into New Jersey, settling at Cranbury, on the borders of Middlesex County, before 1745.

Cranbury, during the Revolution, frequently resounded with the tread of marching feet, and in 1778 the main body of the army spent the night of 26 June, the eve of the battle of Monmouth, at this place, which event was described by General Washington in his report to the Honorable Henry Laurens, President of Congress, under date of 1 July, 1778, in this manner: "In the evening of the same day [26 June], the whole army marched from Kingston, where our baggage was left, with the intention to preserve a proper distance for supporting the advanced corps, and arrived at Cranbury early the next morning. The intense heat of the weather, and a heavy storm unluckily coming on, made it impossible to resume our march that day without great inconvenience and injury to the troops. Our advanced corps, being differently circumstanced, moved from the position it had held the night before, and took post in the evening on the Monmouth Road, about five miles from the enemy's rear, in expectation of attacking them next morning on their march. The main body having remained at Cranbury, the advanced corps was found to be too remote, and too far upon the right, to be supported either in case of an attack upon or from the enemy, which induced me to send orders to the Marquis to file off by his left toward Englishtown, which he accordingly executed early in the morning of the 27th." #

On I November, 1775, Francis Bodine had some thirty acres of land surveyed in Tranquillity Swamp, on Wading River, in Little Egg Harbor

Township, Burlington County, which was in the possession of his sons Francis Bodine and John Bodine and Charles Newbold, 16 March, 1820.* Mr. Bodine was a farmer by occupation, an Episcopalian by religious conviction, and the founder of the Bodine families of Philadelphia and southern New Jersey.

The name of his first wife is not known; he married (2), 29 January, 1756, Rachel Wilson.

Children of Francis Bodine⁴; all probably born at Cranbury:

- (12) i. JOEL BODINE⁵, born 1742; died in May, 1819; married Mary Corlies.
- (13) ii. Francis Bodine⁵, born 1744; died 27 September, 1822; married Mary Rose.
- (14) iii. John Bodine⁵, born 1746; died 26 March, 1826; married (1) Mary Roundtree; (2) Ann Taylor.

10. JOHN BODINE⁴ (Francis³, Jean², Jean¹), was baptized at the Dutch Church of Richmond, Staten Island, 29 November, 1719, and resided at Port Richmond until his death, in March, 1779, being described in his will of 4 January, 1778,† as of that place, "farmer." The will named wife Dorcas, children John, James, Martha, Vincent, Ann, Mary Egberts, and eldest daughter Rachel Bodine.

He married Dorcas ——, who survived him. Both she and her husband were members of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, Richmond, where most of their children were baptized.

Children of John⁴ and Dorcas (——) Bodine; born at Richmond, Staten Island:

- i. RACHEL BODINE⁵, unmarried in January, 1778.
- ii. Mary Bodine⁵, baptized 24 March, 1751; married Egberts.
- iii. John Bodine⁵, born 3 February, 1753; died in March, 1835; married Catherine Britton. He resided at Castleton, Staten Island, and died at the Dongan Manor house, which he had purchased from his eldest son. By his will of 9 September, 1829, proved 6 April, 1835, ‡ he left legacies to the children here given. Issue: 1. John Bodine⁶, died in February, 1831; married Elizabeth—, and had ten children, named in his will of 2 October, 1824. § 2. Nathaniel Bodine⁶, died circa November, 1830; married Maria Garretson, and had issue. || 3. Vincent Bodine⁶. 4. Jacob Bodine⁶, married Johanna Hauseman, of Northfield, Staten Island, and had issue. 5. Abraham Bodine⁶. 6. Mary Bodine⁶, married Joseph Lake. 7. Phebe Bodine⁶, married Egbert Lisk. 8. Patty Bodine⁶. 9. Ann Bodine⁵.

- iv. Elizabeth Bodine⁵, baptized 23 May, 1756; not named in her father's will.
- v. James Bodine⁵, born 17 December, 1758; died 13 May, 1838; married Margaret —. Of his sons, James and Tunis Bodine removed, in 1816, to what is now Ocean County, New Jersey, located at Mannahawkin, and entered into the mercantile business.
- vi. Martha Bodine⁵, baptized 31 October, 1762; died in January, 1813; married Peter La Forge.
- vii. VINCENT BODINE⁵, born 26 November, 1766; baptized 11 November, 1767; died circa June, 1823; married, circa 1788, Jane —. In his will, executed at Castleton, 14 August, 1822, proved 1 July, 1823,* bequests were made to wife Jane, to grandchildren Vincent Bodine and Eliza Jane Bodine, children of son John deceased, to son Vincent Bodine, and to daughter Mary Ann, wife of Nicholas Britton. He had, besides these, a daughter Martha Bodine, born 4 October, 1789, baptized at St. Andrew's, 20 June, 1790.
- viii. Ann Bodine⁵, born 30 March, 1769; baptized 7 October, 1770.

11. VINCENT BODINE⁴ (Francis³, Jean², Jean¹), was born, doubtless on Staten Island, circa 1727, and located in Middlesex County, New Jersey, some time before the birth of his first child, at Cranbury, in that county, in 1754. On 22 September, 1760, he purchased one hundred and fifty acres along the Millstone River, beginning where Rocky Brook runs into the Millstone,† and the next year, on 14 April, he bought an additional tract which had originally been confirmed to his father-in-law, Lawrence Dey. lands were known as the Old Church Farm, near Red Tavern. One of his descendants, Mrs. Ann Eliza (Bodine) Dey, living in 1897, and then entering her eighty-seventh year, made the statement that her father, James Bodine, Wilson Bur W General Lafayette, with a detachment of troops, being quar-

frequently said he recollected

tered on the farm of his father, Vincent Bodine, at Cranbury, during the Revolution. This reminiscence is, at least partially, corroborated by General Washington's report to Congress, 1 July, 1778, in which he recounts the detention of the army at Cranbury.

Vincent Bodine died in March, 1790, and is thought to have been interred in the First Church burying-ground at Cranbury, leaving a will bearing date 22 July, 1785, proved 22 March, 1790, ‡ in which the various children given below are named. He married, about 1753, Ann, daughter of Lawrence Dey, of Middlesex County, born 14 May, 1732, who was living at the date of his will.

County; south by Mullica River and Little Egg Harbor Bay; and west by Washington Township.*

From 1790 until his death he resided at Long-a-Coming, now Berlin, the oldest village in the Township of Waterford, Camden County, and lying on the main branch of Great Egg Harbor Creek. It was at his house between the years 1800 and 1807 that elections for Council and Assembly were frequently held. On 22 August, 1790, he was a subscriber to St. John's Episcopal Church of Chew's Landing, in what is now Camden County. Chew's Landing antedates the Revolution. It is on the north branch of Timber Creek, at the head of tidewater navigation of that stream, and was at one time a place of considerable importance as a shipping point.

Joel Bodine died in May, 1819. He married, about 1771, Mary, daughter of William Corlies (see Corlies Family, No. 8), who was buried 27 March, 1825. Both husband and wife are buried in the graveyard of St. John's Episcopal Church at Chew's Landing.

Children of Joel⁵ and Mary (Corlies) Bodine:

- i. WILLIAM BODINE⁶, born 10 March, 1772; died 17 July, 1808; married, 4 December, 1796, Mary Mattocks, born 23 October, 1775; died 20 August, 1853. She married (2), 3 May, 1810, Thomas Hammitt. HE connection, if any, between the Corlies family of Haverhill, Massachusetts, and that of Shrewsbury, New Jersey, has not been determined. It is, however, a matter of interest that the Christian name of the progenitors of the respective families was George. The Haverhill family,* which has commonly adhered to the spelling Corliss, had its beginning in 1645, when George Corliss was of that town, among the thirty-two landholders, who were to be the future owners of all the beautiful country of the Penacooks. He had come from England to Newbury, Massachusetts, about 1639, being then twenty-two years of age. In Haverhill he married Joanna Davis, 26 October, 1645, by whom he had a son, John Corliss, and seven daughters, and through his marriage he became the ancestor of most, if not all, of the Corliss name in New England. His descendants to the eighth generation have lived on his original grant of land, which lay for a distance of more than three miles on both sides of the old Spicket Path in the West Parish of Haverhill. His name was indifferently written, on the earliest Haverhill records, Corliss, Corlis, and Curley, and this fact carries with it the suggestion that the name was a corruption, probably, of the old English surname, largely found in Hertfordshire, Curle, Curley, Kyrle. Equally variable in its entry on the New Jersey records was the name of George Corlies, the ancestor of the Shrewsbury family. He wrote it Corlies and Curlis; his sons, Corlis, Corlies, Corlise, and Corliss; and his descendants in the third generation, usually Corlies and Curlis.

^{*} For descendants of this branch see "A Genealogical Record of the Corliss Family of America, compiled from Public and Private Records by Augustus W. Corliss, assisted by Mrs. Betsey Ayer and Mrs. Margaret H. Webster, of Haverhill, Massachusetts. Yarmouth, Maine. 1875."

George Corlies may have been among the founders of Shrewsbury, and that town may not have been the place of his first residence in America, but the earliest record-evidence of his life there is in the return of a survey for some eighty acres of land for him by the Surveyor-General of East Jersey, bearing date 15 May, 1680; and the next, that he was in fellowship with the Friends and in membership with the Shrewsbury Meeting. Quaker influence predominated at Shrewsbury, and a Meeting there for the worship of God under the principles and rules of Friends was almost simultaneous with the settlement of the town, and certainly as early as 1672, when George Fox, one of the most distinguished of that people, wrote that the settlers at Shrewsbury "were building a meeting-place, and that there was a monthly and a general meeting set up, which would be of great service in these parts." Mr. Corlies was an overseer of this meeting, and was frequently a delegate from it to other meetings. The following deposition, evidently written by John Lippincott, affords a not uninteresting glimpse of some of the questions which came before the quiet tribunal of such delegates in meeting assembled:

"5.5. 1687:—These are to certify to any person or persons to know the truth of these following lynes: We whose names are underwritten being at the meeting at Bordentown, at that same time, when William Worth took Mary Smith to wife before the Meeting of Friends held at Burlington. And ye said Mary Smith came from Bermudas & brought 3 negroes with her which were children with their mother, and the said Mary Smith being willing to make something surer to herself proposed articles for herself and hers for the bringing up these children with William Worths', that is if he should be taken away from them, the which was granted by ye sd William Worth to give her a deed of gift, wherein all his houses and lands where now he dwelleth should be made sure to her during her life or widowhood. & also she requested that the 2 eldest boys might be att William Worths' dispose until they were of the age of 30ty years, & the said William Worth did condesend, if the meeting did see fit or convenient. And that bit of paper was carried in to the meeting to have their sense of that matter and their sense and judgment was, that that paper was not to be allowed of, and their sense was, that as his estate was left to her by deed of gift, so that the negroes should be at his disposing, as he saw good to. this signed by us, and to this Mary Smith agreed too.

"We are Witnesses:

WILLIAM SHATTOCK GEORGE CORLISS JOHN LIPPINCOTT."

"June the 24, year 1706: Then appeared George Corliss and John Lippincott and being engaged according to law saith that the above written instrument was the sense of the meeting and the above named Mary Smith did agree to it. Taken and acknowledged before me,

"GEORGE ALLEN, Justice."

Mr. Corlies acquired a patent for eighty acres of land 15 May, 1680,* and still another for about one hundred acres, 25 March, 1687,† and he had additional lands from William Shattock in 1698, and on 29 April, 1703, he purchased one hundred and seventy acres from Thomas Hillborn; all of these tracts were in Rumson Neck, which comprised that part of Shrewsbury between the Navesink and Shrewsbury Rivers, and is the Navarumunk Neck sold by the Indians to the first white settlers in 1664. There he lived for more than thirty years, and died, according to the records of the Shrewsbury Meeting, 10 September, 1715, having made a final disposition of his worldly effects in his will, which reads:

"The last Will and Testament of George Corleis of the Town of Sherosbyry and County of Monmouth in the Province of East New Jersey Cord winder being ancient but of good and perfect memory thanks be to allmighty God and calling to mind the uncertainty of this transitory life and that all flesh must yeild unto death when it shall please Allmighty God I doe make, Constitute and ordain and declare this to be my last Will and Testament in manner and forme following that is to say, first, I will that all those debts and Dues I owe in Conscience to any person or persons whatsoever shall be well and truly paid by my Exectors hereafter named. - v. Mary Corlies2, born 31 March, 1692; married Jonathan Allen. (6)
- vi. George Corlies², born 19 October, 1694; married (1) Sarah (West) Cook; (2) (7) Sarah ——.

Children of George¹ and Deborah (Hance) Corlies; all born at Shrewsbury: *

- vii. Thomas Corlies², born 3 November, 1700; died 20 January, 1700 (O. S.).
- viii. Deborah Corlies2, born 11 April, 1702; died 3 February, 1757; married, 12 December, 1728, Walter Herbert, Jun^r, born 25 January, 1701.
- ix. Joseph Corlies², born 14 March, 1705; died 26 January, 1784; married Margaret, daughter of Thomas Woodmansee, born about 1709; died 26 February, 1798.
- x. Benjamin Corlies², born 31 August, 1707; died 11 October, 1739; married, 24 May, 1732, Mary Jackson.
- xi. Timothy Corlies2, born 10 April, 1710; died 23 March, 1733.
- xii. DINAH CORLIES2, born 17 December, 1712; died 1798; married, 19 December, 1734, Britton, son of Peter and Abigail (Lippincott) White; died 26 December, 1760.
- xiii. Jacob Corlies², born 14 October, 1715; died 8 December, 1767; married, 22 December, 1737, Sarah White, sister of the above, born 21 July, 1715.
- 2. JOHN CORLIES² (George¹), was born at Shrewsbury, 11 March, 1682, and died there, between 24 May, 1745, and 28 May, 1750, the former date being that on which he made over to his son, John Corlies, a parcel of land which he had bought of Jacob Lippincott, and which was bounded by lands belonging to his son, James Corlies, lying on the north side of the main road from Black Point to the Meeting-House. His home plantation was in Rumson Neck in Shrewsbury.

He married, after 2 February, 1708, Naomi, daughter of Abijah and Naomi Edwards, of Shrewsbury, as on that day she witnessed, as Naomi

Edwards, a marriage at the Quaker Meeting-House in Shrewsbury, and she was Gorlies living as late as 6 January, 1731, when she was again a wedding-guest at the same place. Mr. Corlies was in membership with the Shrewsbury Meeting of Friends, and it would seem to have been his intention to enter the births of his children on the records of that Meeting; but there remain only the words, "the children of John and Naomi Corlies," and an unfilled space of several lines to tell of the miscarried intention.

Children of John² and Naomi (Edwards) Corlies; all born at Shrewsbury: i. James Corlies³, named in the will of his grandfather, Abijah Edwards, 17 January, 1714; was living at Shrewsbury, 1 August, 1769; married Mary Wooley. The will of her father, William Wooley, of Shrewsbury, bearing date 4 March, 1761, makes bequests to her children Elizabeth, wife of Jacob Hance, Margaret, wife of Michael Price, and William, Mary, James, and George Corlies.

- ii. John Corlies³, born 8 November, 1714; died between 12 February and 18 August, 1760, the dates of the making and the proving of his will; married, 24 February, 1734, Zilpah Wilbur, born 16 June, 1714; died 9 July, 1802. Issue: 1. Samuel Corlies⁴, born 5 August, 1736; died before 1 June, 1798. 2. John Corlies⁴, born 21 April, 1746; died 3 November, 1786; married (1), license, 28 January, 1767, Elizabeth Borden, or Burden; (2), license, 31 May, 1779, Rachel White.
- iii. Elizabeth Corlies³, married, 25 September, 1735, Richard Fitz-Randolph, of Woodbridge, son of Edward and Catherine (Hartshorne) Fitz-Randolph, born 16 April, 1705. His will of 20 November, 1754, mentioned wife Elizabeth, and children George, Thomas, Catherine, Richard, Mary, and Edward Fitz-Randolph.
- iv. Samuel Corlies⁸, married, license, 17 August, 1745, Elizabeth Bills, born 1723. He died without issue, leaving a will, dated 22 December, 1748, probated 5 December, 1749. His widow married, license, 20 September, 1749, Thomas Cox, of Shrewsbury.
- v. George Corlies³, born 1718; was of Scituate, Rhode Island, at the probate of his brother's will, 5 December, 1749. The Providence Gazette had this notice of his death:

"Died 16 June, 1790, Captain George Corlies, native of New Jersey, many years a resident of this Town, in the 72nd year of his age."

He married Waitstill, daughter of the Honorable William Rhodes, of Providence, Rhode Island, born at Portsmouth, Rhode Island, 18 February, 1722; died there 21 October, 1783. Issue: 1. WILLIAM CORLIES⁴, died at Providence, 19 September, 1789, in his thirty-eighth year. 2. John Corlies⁴, removed to Paris, Kentucky, where he was living 6 September, 1824.

3. HANNAH CORLIES² (George¹), was born at Shrewsbury, 25 October, 1684, and died there, 15 March, 1712. She was in membership with the Shrewsbury Meeting of Friends, and married, at their Meeting-House, 18 January, 1702, Henry Allen, born at Sandwich, Barnstable County, Massachusetts, 24 March, 1680, and died in Burlington County, New Jersey, 30 August, 1748. His father, Jedediah Allen, a son of Ralph Allen, of Sandwich, was born in that town, 20 January, 1650, and removed to Rhode Island, and thence to Shrewsbury, before 1684. He represented Shrewsbury in the Assembly of East Jersey in 1686 and 1688, and in the first Assembly of the united provinces of East and West Jersey in 1703.* He was a justice of the peace and of the courts of Monmouth County in 1700, and one of the trustees of the Friends' Meeting of Shrewsbury in 1695. He died in January, 1711, leaving a large family, of whom his son Nathan married Margery, daughter of Robert Burnet, one of the proprietors of East Jersey, and was the founder of Allentown, in Monmouth County. Henry Allen, in partnership with his brother, Jonathan Allen, received from his father all his right of proprietary in the eastern division of the Province of New Jersey, and a piece of meadow in or near Raccoon Island. He, too, was a member of the Shrewsbury Meeting of Friends, and the births of all his children are Island. He, too, was a member of entered on its records. He received a certificate of removal to the Burlington Meeting 1 December, 1735. married (2), April, 1714, Abigail, daughter of John and Elizabeth Adams, of Rancocas, Burlington County, New Jersey, born 2 January, 1682, and died 12 August, 1759, by whom he also had issue.

Children of Henry and Hannah² (Corlies) Allen; all born at Shrewsbury:

- i. JACOB ALLEN3, born 15 September, 1704; removed to Morristown, New Jersey, and died there, 29 March, 1779; married (1) ----; (2), at Morristown, 15 January, 1751, Naomi, widow of George Day. He had issue by both marriages. His will was made 24 May, 1774, and his estate divided between sons Henry, Gilbert, John, Moses, grandson Samuel, the son of son Aaron, deceased, and daughters Susanna Allen and Hannah Hathaway.
- ii. Exercise Allen³, born 18 October, 1705.
- iii. Moses Allena, born 22 September, 1707.
- iv. Zachariah Allen³, born 16 December, 1709; died intestate in 1750, administration on his estate being granted, 13 January of that year, to his widow, Elizabeth Allen.
- v. Patience Allen8, born 27 January, 1711; died 14 June, 1793; married, 23 March, 1733, John Lippincott, born 18 February, 1699. Issue: 1. James Lippincott⁴, married Sarah Wooley. 2. DINAH LIPPINCOTT4, married Thomas White. 3. ELIZABETH LIPPINCOTT', married James Lafetra. 4. SARAH LIPPINCOTT', married William Lane. 5. HANNAH LIPPINCOTT⁴, married Joseph Allen. 6. Hul-DAH LIPPINCOTT⁴. 7. HENRY LIPPINCOTT⁴. 8. JOSEPH LIPPINCOTT⁴. 9. PATIENCE LIPPINCOTT4.
- 4. ELIZABETH CORLIES² (George¹), was born at Shrewsbury, 1 July, 1687, and died there about 1738. She was married, at Friends' Meeting-House, Shrewsbury, 26 January, 1704, to William Brinley, of Shrewsbury, son of Captain William Brinley, of Newport, Rhode Island, by his wife, a daughter of Honorable William Reape, of Newport and Shrewsbury. William Brinley, the elder, held various positions of trust, civil and military, in Rhode Island, was one of the founders of Trinity Church, Newport, and died about 1704. He was the son of the Honorable Francis Brinley, who was born at Datchet, Buckinghamshire, England, 15 November, 1632, and who, coming to Newport in 1651, spent a long and useful life in Rhode Island, and died there in 1719, having been Governor's Assistant, 1672–73; member of Sir Edmund Andros's Council in 1687; and presiding judge of the General Quarter Sessions and Inferior Court of Common Pleas, 1687–88. He had but two children, William Brinley, before mentioned, and Thomas Brinley, who was a merchant of Boston, Massachusetts, and London, England, and one of the founders of Kings' Chapel, Boston, where the tomb of his son, Colonel Francis Brinley, is embellished by the armorial bearings here given. The maternal grandfather of the subject of our sketch, William Reape, was an early follower of Quakerism, and was arrested at Sandwich, Massachusetts, and on Long Island, in 1661–62, for adherence to the principles and practice of Friends. As early as 1665 he was active in promoting the settlement of Monmouth, in East Jersey, of which he was one of the patentees. He was one of the Governor's Assistants of Rhode Island in 1667, and one of the members of the East Jersey Assembly in 1670. He died 6 August, 1670. His widow, Sarah Reape, removed to Shrewsbury about 1687, accompanied, possibly, by her grandson, William Brinley, to whom her will of 12 April, 1715, left a house and lot in Newport and legacies to all his children named below, except John and Hannah. Just when William Brinley became a resident of Shrewsbury is uncertain, but, from 1695, he was frequently a witness to the marriages of Friends. He was captain of the sloop "Elizabeth," sailing between Perth Amboy, New York, Newport, Boston, and Newfoundland, and his name is of frequent occurrence in the shipping news of 1730, et seq.

He was justice of the peace and of the courts of Monmouth County, and died after 29 October, 1753, when he acknowledged a deed in which his then wife, Elizabeth (Corlies) Brinley, had joined in 1714. He married (2), 19 July, 1739, Mrs. Elizabeth Lippincott, by whom there was no issue. By her will of 12 November, 1745, she gave to her granddaughters, Elizabeth, Audry, and Ann Lippincott, six suits of clothing which she had before her marriage with William Brinley, also a pair of sheets marked E. A. L. She further named grandchildren Vincent and George White, and son Daniel Lippincott's children, and made "cousins Joseph Corlies and Hezekiah Williams" the executors of the instrument.

Children of William and Elizabeth² (Corlies) Brinley; all born at Shrewsbury:

- i. Francis Brinley³, named in the will of his grandmother, Sarah Reape, 12 April, 1715; executed a deed for land in Shrewsbury, 19 August, 1737; was called deceased in deed of his daughters Phebe Brinley, Jun^r, and Euphemia Brinley, 10 March, 1755, for one hundred and forty acres on the north side of White Pond Creek, in Shrewsbury.* He had probably married Phebe ——, and had but the children above, of whom, Euphemia was described as of age 8 February, 1757.
- ii. William Brinley³, mentioned second in the will of Sarah Reape, married, 6 January, 1736, Keziah Woolcy. His estate was administered upon by the widow Keziah Brinley, 12 October, 1743. The account of the settlement of the estate shows payments made to William Brinley, Esq^r, Thomas and John Brinley, and James Curlis, William Curlis, John Curlis, Sen^r, and John Curlis, Jun^r. She married (2), license, 18 May, 1751, Samuel Osborn.
- iii. Thomas Brinley³. His will, dated 4 January, 1754, named "wife" and "three children." At the probate thereof, 19 April, 1771, the wife was deceased. He married, license, 14 July, 1746, Sarah Leonard.
- iv. Elizabeth Brinley⁸, married, license, 27 August, 1745, John Mount, Jun^r.
- v. Sarah Brinley⁸, probably married Job West, of Shrewsbury; named in his will 28 September, 1741. (See West Family, No. 5.)
- vi. John Brinley³. His will, of 12 April, 1775, made bequests to wife Leah and to children William, John, Joseph, Lydia Eatton, Reape, and Jacob. He married (1), 17 January, 1744, Elizabeth Hulett, who was the mother of all his children, and who died 14 February, 1763; (2) Leah ——, who married (2), 22 January, 1777, Jacob Laing.
- vii. Hannah Brinley³, married, license, 8 July, 1749, Joseph Wardell.
- viii. Reape Brinley³, called "youngest child" in his grandmother's will, 12 April, 1715; probably died unmarried.
- 5. WILLIAM CORLIES² (George¹), was born at Shrewsbury, 15 July, 1689, and was undoubtedly named for his maternal grandfather, William Shattock.* Shortly before his death, George Corlies, in April, 1715, made a deed of gift of certain tracts of upland and meadow to his second son William, the land being described as lying along Cole's Brook, and part of that patented to Thomas Hillborn, 24 May, 1694, and sold by him to the said George Corlies in 1703. The portion of this patent so conveyed was made over by William Corlies to his youngest brother, of the half-blood, Jacob Corlies, 7 May, 1737, the text of the deed being as follows:

"This Indenture made this Seventh day of May in the year of our Lord One thousand Seven Hundred and thirty seven BETWEEN William Corlies of the Town of Shrewsbury in the County of Monmouth and Eastern Division of the Province of New Jersey yeoman of the one part and his Brother Jacob Corlies of the Same Place Singleman of the other part WITNESSETH that he the said William Corlies for and in Consideration of the Sum of Two hundred pounds currant money at eight Shillings the ounce to him in hand paid by the said Jacob Corlies at and before the Sealing and Delivery hereof the receipt whereof he the said William Corlies doth hereby acknowledge and himself therewith to be fully satisfied Contented and paid HATH granted, bargained and sold and by these Presents DOTH fully, freely, clearly and absolutely Grant, bargain and Sell alien enfeoff release convey assure and Confirm unto him the said Jacob Corlies his Heirs and Assigns forever All those Tracts of Land and Meadow Situate lying and being in the said Shrewsbury BEGINNING at a Red Oak Tree marked on four sides Standing by Coles Brook thence South twenty four degrees thirty minutes, Easterly Twenty one Chains to Deal Path, thence North forty seven degrees, Easterly Sixty one Chains to a Ditch and little brook, thence Northerly as the said Ditch and brook runs to said Coles brook, thence South westerly as the said Coles Brook runs to where it first began, Bounded north by the said Coles brook, West and South by Joseph Corlies and East part by said little brook and part by the following Tract of Meadow Also a piece of Bogg Meadow lying East of said William Corlies's House BEGINNING at a White Oak Tree marked on four sides, thence south sixty four degrees, Westerly two Chains to the aforesaid Ditch and little brook, thence Southerly as the said Ditch and brook runs six chains and two Rods, thence North East as another Ditch runs four Chains and two Rods, thence

September, 1693, when he witnessed a marriage at Friends' Meeting-House in Shrewsbury. By his wife Hannah, who accompanied him to Shrewsbury, he had: I. HANNAH SHATTOCK², born at Boston, 8 July, 1654; married, at Shrewsbury, 6 November, 1674, Restore Lippincott. 2. Exercise Shat-TOCK2, born at Boston, 12 November, 1656; married, at Shrewsbury, 10 December, 1680, George Corlies. 3. ELIZABETH SHATTOCK², who married Jacob Coale, of Shrewsbury.

^{*} WILLIAM SHATTOCK emigrated to Massachusetts in 1650, and while living at Boston, about 1658, embraced Quakerism and was mercilessly punished therefor by the civil authorities and compelled to leave their jurisdiction. The story of his persecution for conscience' sake "by the unjust rulers of Boston' is given in "New England's Ensign," in Besse's "Collections of the Sufferings of Quakers," and is noticed in Sewall's "History of the Quakers." After a short stay in Rhode Island, during which he was one of the original purchasers of land in Monmouth County, New Jersey, he settled at

"Signed, Sealed and delivered in the Presence of Joseph Corlies Anth^o Moultsby Jacob Dennis" [SEAL]

Prior to this time, or, on 11 February, 1726, William Corlies purchased of Anthony Pintard, Junr, of the township of Shrewsbury, a house lot in Perth

Amboy, on the westerly side of Back Street. For some years there had been an effort to increase the population and improve the commerce of Perth Amboy, and various inducements were resorted to in the hope of securing new settlers, and it may be that William Corlies decided to take up a residence in what it was hoped would be the progressive capital of the Province. In 1738 it was stated that "planters had not resorted to it as was expected, notwithstanding its commodious situation," and there is no evidence that William Corlies left, even temporarily, his Shrewsbury home for Perth Amboy. It is possible, however, that shortly before his death he removed to Burlington County, as the inventory of his effects is filed in that county. He died intestate in April, 1754, leaving a considerable estate, both real and personal, to which his son, William Corlies, was appointed administrator, 19 April, 1754.* In addition to the usual household equipment, "linen, silver, pewter, bible, swoard," etc., his inventory exhibits a number of notes and bonds due to the deceased.

He married (1), possibly as early as 1715, Jerusha West, daughter of John West by his wife Jane Wing (see West Family, No. 6), born about 1696; she was living, as Jerusha Corlies, at the date of her father's will, 4 March, 1728. He married (2), 13 January, 1731, at the house of Sarah Wing, in Shrewsbury, Sarah, probably daughter of Joseph Wing by his wife Ann Lippincott (see Wing Family, No. 7), who doubtless predeceased him, as no mention is made of her in the settlement of his estate, and by whom there is no evidence of issue.

Children of William² and Jerusha (West) Corlies; all born at Shrewsbury:

- (8) i. William Corlies³, died after 13 December, 1805; married (1) —; (2) Ann Cox.
 - ii. Exercise Corlies³, married, as second wife, license, 6 June, 1739, William Shinn, of Burlington. Issue: 1. Isaiah Shinn⁴, born 1740. 2. Exercise Shinn⁴, born 1743. 3. Elizabeth Shinn⁴, born 1748. 4. Job Shinn⁴, born 1749. (See "History of the Shinn Family.")
 - iii. Mehitable Corlies³, married, license, 2 January, 1739, Caleb Shinn, brother of the above. The license bond styles him of Monmouth County, and spelled her name Curlis, given as Curtis in the Shinn Genealogy. Issue: 1. John Shinn⁴.
 2. Henry Shinn⁴. 3. Caleb Shinn⁴. 4. Mehitable Shinn⁴. 5. Mary Shinn⁴. (See "History of the Shinn Family.") And, probably, 6. Corliss Shinn⁴, who was of age in 1776.

iv. Jane Corlies³, married, license, 16 March, 1745, John Willgus, of Monmouth County.

v. Uriah Corlies3, possibly he who had license to marry, 23 May, 1746, Exercise Allen.

If this marriage was accomplished, he died some time before I May, 1749, when she was the wife of Charles Mackay. (See Corlies Family, No. 6.)

6. MARY CORLIES² (George¹), was born at Shrewsbury, 31 March, 1692, and died there after 9 February, 1739. As Mary Corlies, she witnessed the will of Mrs. Sarah Reape, of Shrewsbury, 12 April, 1715, and married, before the probate of the same, 29 March, 1716, Jonathan Allen, son of

Jedediah and Elizabeth Allen, born at Shrewsbury, 16 October, 1689, and died there in November, 1748. His will, of 12 November, 1748, bequeathed legacies to his three sons and six daughters, and provided that his real estate should be promptly sold by his executors, Joseph Corlies and John Woodmansee. The first account of the executors was rendered I May, 1749, with the showing that the sale of the property had been effected for the sum of £1306. A later account made a final distribution to the heirs given below.

Children of Jonathan and Mary² (Corlies) Allen; all born at Shrewsbury:

- i. Bathsheba Allen³, called eldest daughter in her father's will; married, 8 February, 1740, John Woodmansee, of Shrewsbury. His will, of 16 June, 1793, named wife Bathsheba, children David, Joseph, Daniel, John, Bathsheba Allen, and Phebe, and grandsons David, John, and Thomas.
- ii. Hezekiah Allen³, "eldest son;" made his will 29 February, 1776, which was proved 22 May, following; his heirs were children Mary, Martha, James, Jonathan, and Catherine, and grandson David Allen.
- iii. NAOMI ALLEN³, married, license, 30 July, 1743, Darius Lippincott, son of William Lippincott, of Shrewsbury, and named in the will of the latter, 15 April, 1763.
- iv. James Allen³, died possibly before the final settlement of his father's estate, as he does not receipt for his portion, 2 July, 1757.
- v. Sarah Allen³ married, license, 25 March, 1751, William Brewer, of Shrewsbury.
- vi. Exercise Allen³, was licensed to marry, 23 May, 1746, Uriah Corlies, of Shrewsbury, at which time Ralph Allen and Joshua Bond testify that Exercise Allen "is upwards of twenty-one years," and that they "believe that her father, Jonathan Allen, consented to the marriage, but that, being a Quaker, he might not be willing to signify his consent." * If the marriage took place Exercise Allen had become a widow, and again a wife, before I May, 1749, when her then husband, Charles Mackay, signed for her portion of her father's estate.†

- vii. MARY ALLEN³, married, license, 23 May, 1749, Jedediah Allen, of Shrewsbury.
- viii. Hannah Allen³, married, license, 13 January, 1755, Peleg, son of Samuel and Deborah Slocum, of Shrewsbury. The Slocum Genealogy says that Peleg Slocum, above, "died early," leaving a son Peleg, who, with his mother, deeded land in Shrewsbury to John West, 18 April, 1788.
- ix. DAVID ALLEN³, receipted for his share of his father's estate, I May, 1749, but not on 2 July, 1757.
- 7. GEORGE CORLIES² (George¹), was born at Shrewsbury, 19 October, 1694, and received a share of his father's lands in Rumson Neck, Shrewsbury, 4 May, 1715. Some part of this gift he held and improved until 13 March, 1763, when he disposed of it to his youngest half-brother, Jacob Corlies. A piece of the same land he had made over to another brother of the half-blood, Joseph Corlies, 13 February, 1737, his wife Sarah joining in the deed. Mr. Corlies served on the grand jury of Monmouth County in February, 1721.

He married (1) Sarah, the widow of Silas Cook, of Shrewsbury, who died 5 June, 1725, and daughter of William West, also of Shrewsbury. Her father's will, of 1 May, 1740, set forth that she had had ten children by her two marriages, seven by the first, three by the last, and that she was then deceased. (See West Family, No. 5.) Mr. Corlies married (2) Sarah—, who was living 13 March, 1763, when she joined her husband in the conveyance of land to Joseph Corlies, and there may have been issue by this marriage.

Children of George² and Sarah (West) Corlies; born at Shrewsbury:

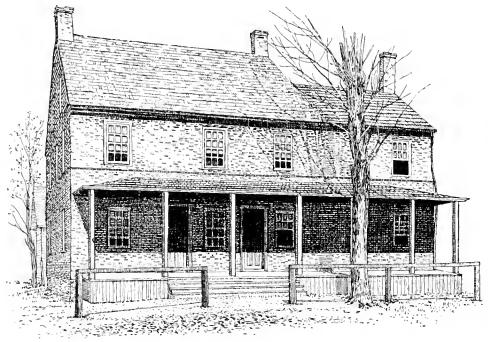

- i. Hannah Corlies³, married, license, 27 September, 1753, Ebenezer Wardell, son of Joseph Wardell, of Shrewsbury. She and her husband join in a deed of 3 July, 1767, and her estate was administered upon by Joseph Wardell, 7 May, 1798.
- ii. Daniel Corlies3, security to the marriage bond of his brother, 22 June, 1752.
- iii. URIAH CORLIES³, married, license, 22 June, 1752, Anna Dunham, of Amboy, and received, 17 May, 1760, her share of the estate of her father, James Dunham. A Uriah Corlis was entered on the Shrewsbury tax-list of 1759, and again on the list for the Poor-Rate and Dog-Tax for 1764 and 1765. One of this name, probably he, made a will at Shrewsbury, 23 April, 1804, proved 17 March, 1806, in which the legatees were wife Elizabeth and children Elizabeth, Margaret,
- 8. WILLIAM CORLIES³ (William², George¹), purchased, on 16 September, 1740, from William Dey a tract of land including eight acres of meadow, in the township of Upper Freehold, and this he conveyed, as William Sarah, Daniel, and James, and the latter's son Uriah.

Corlis, Jun^r, of Upper Freehold, to Joseph Cheeseman, 3 August, 1745. He served on the grand jury of the county at the April court, 1746, and was at that time allowed a license or privilege to keep a house of entertainment for travellers. The settlement of his father's estate, in 1754–56, involved him in considerable litigation with the Brinleys and Wests, which may have been a factor in turning his thoughts to a home in the adjoining county of Burlington, where, on I January, 1757, he leased, for the term of six years, from Jacob Warwick a plantation located partly in Springfield and partly in New Hanover Townships. The contract for this leasehold bears the signature of William Corliss, and also that of John Woolman, the Quaker diarist and preacher, whose literary style was so highly commended by Charles Lamb. From this time until his death

Mr. Corlies resided in Burlington County, interested in the cultivation of his rapidly increasing acres, and in conducting the well-known hostelry, the Red Lion Tavern, on the post-road between Medford and Vincentown. A generous hospitality and the maintenance of a large family brought him in the evening of life into embarrassed financial circumstances. Believing, however, that his estate, if properly administered, was sufficient to meet all obligations, and to provide a proper livelihood for himself and his family, he executed the following power of attorney to Job Jones, of Northampton, 12 September, 1805:

"William Corlies of Northampton, Sendeth greeting. Whereas the said William Corlies being in advanced years, by reason whereof he is in a great measure incapable of transacting his business and concerns. And the said William Corlies being indebted unto divers persons in considerable sums of money, and some of his creditors having obtained judgments and executions which are now unsatisfied in the hands of the sheriff of Burlington County, and levied on the estate real and personal of the said William Corlies. And the said William Corlies being desirous that all his just debts should be fully paid and satisfied and believing that he is now seized and possessed of property sufficient (if disposed of to the best advantage) to pay all his debts and leave to him and his family in his advanced age a comfortable support. But, if his said property now being advertised for sale by the sheriff and if sold by him, in all probability a great sacrifice will be made therein and tend to reduce him to penury and want. And, in order that all my estate Real and Personal (or so much thereof as will raise a sufficient fund to pay off and discharge all my just debts) be speedily sold to the best advantage. Be it known that I, the said William Corlies, for divers good causes and valuable consideration me here unto speedily moving Have and by these Presents do nominate constitute and appoint my trusty friend, Job Jones of Northampton my true and lawful attorney to dispose of in my name with all possible speed, all or so much of my estate real and personal (except one hundred acres I have sold to William Irick including the mansion house and west end of place) for the best price that can be gotten for the same, as will enable my said attorney to pay off and discharge all my just debts."

This document was signed by the wife, Ann Corlies, who renounced her dower rights. Three months later, 13 December, 1805, Mr. Corlies released to John Jenkins his plantation commonly known as the Red Lion Tavern, situated in the township of Northampton and containing two hundred and nineteen acres.*

The date of William Corlies's death is uncertain, but it was doubtless shortly after the execution of the above release. In November, 1820, Samuel Sykes petitioned the Orphans' Court of Burlington County for the settlement of the estate of William Corlies, and set forth that the deceased had left children William, Joseph, John, Abiah, Asher, Samuel, Ann Robinson, Jerusha Goldy, Sarah Brown, Lucy Mills, Rebecca Hedger, and Mary Bodine, and that since the decease of William Corlies the eldest of his children, William, Joseph, Abiah, and Jerusha, had also deceased, each leaving children, and that Asher and Sarah had already conveyed their part of said deceased's estate to the petitioner, Samuel Sykes. The Court ordered that the desired division should be made by John Warren, Esqr, Joshua S. Earl, and Joseph Shinn.*

The name of the first wife of William Corlies is not known. He married (2), license, 13 June, 1756, Ann Cox, of Middlesex County, New Jersey, who joined him in a deed of 12 September, 1805.

Children of William³ and —— Corlies; born probably at Shrewsbury:

- (9) i. WILLIAM CORLIES*, born about 1742; married Ann Davis.
 - ii. Joseph Corlies⁴, died at Cedar Bridge, Ocean County, before November, 1820. Issue: Elizabeth Corlies⁵, married Samuel Webb.
 - iii. Abiah Corlies⁴, died in 1812. Issue: 1. Joseph Corlies⁵. 2. Joel Corlies⁵. Both sons removed to Williamsburg, Ohio.
- (10) iv. Jerusha Corlies⁴, born 28 September, 1746; married Samuel Goldy.
 - v. Mary Corlies⁴, buried 27 March, 1825; married Joel Bodine. (See Bodine Family, No. 12.)

Children of William³ and Ann (Cox) Corlies; born, doubtless, in Burlington County:

- vi. Ann Corlies⁴, born 1757; died at Philadelphia, 15 April, 1846; married, at Philadelphia, 3 February, 1789, Samuel Robinson, of that city. Under date of 17 July, 1844, Ann Robinson, of the city of Philadelphia, widow, by her attorney, Samuel Corlies, conveyed to John Cramer, of Burlington, part of a certain tract of land in Washington Township, in Burlington County, known as the Mine Survey, which was set off to the heirs of William Corlies deceased by Joshua S. Earl. Issue: 1. Samuel Robinson⁵, died unmarried. 2. Eliza Robinson⁵, died unmarried.
- vii. John Corlies⁴, married Elizabeth Bogar, or Bogert, and removed to Genesee Valley, New York.
- viii. Asher Corlies⁴, married, and had issue: 1. Sarah Corlies⁵, married Anthony Brown, and removed to Waretown, Ohio. 2. Harriet Corlies⁵, born 1795; married, in 1816, Moses Headley, of Waretown, Ocean County, New Jersey.
- ix. Rebecca Corlies⁴, married —— Hedger, and removed to Ohio.

xii. Lucy Corlies, married, 15 January, 1790, Joshua Mills, of Freehold, and removed to Ohio before 1 November, 1827.

9. WILLIAM CORLIES⁴ (William³, William², George¹), was born, probably in Monmouth County, about 1742. He was a farmer and spent most of his life in Burlington County, where he was also engaged in milling. By deed of 29 January, 1802, in which his wife Ann joined, he, then described as "William Corlies Jun^r, of Northampton Township," conveyed to John Middleton, of Stafford, Monmouth County, and William Cooke, of Chesterfield, Burlington County, some seventy acres of cedar swamp. Mr. Corlies died after 13 December, 1805, and before the filing of the petition for the settlement of his father's estate.

He married, license, 13 July, 1767, Ann Davis, of Burlington County, who was living as late as 20 December, 1824, when she was a legatee under the will of her daughter Ann Corlies.

Children of William⁴ and Ann (Davis) Corlies; born, probably, in Burlington County:

- i. Job Corlies⁵, died near Vincentown, New Jersey, before 27 March, 1830, when, in the announcement * of the marriage of his daughter Beulah, he is called "deceased." He married Rebecca Leeds, of Evesham, whose will was dated 4 October, 1852, and proved 19 September, 1854. Issue: 1. William Corlies⁶, born 11 June, 1798; died 2 May, 1858; buried in Evergreen Cemetery, Camden, New Jersey; married, 8 February, 1820, Mary S. Lippincott, "a speaker among Friends." 2. Nehemiah Corlies⁶, died unmarried; buried in Eldridge Graveyard, Mt. Laurel, New Jersey. 3. Beulah Corlies⁶, married, as second wife, 27 March, 1830, Mark Moore. Her will of January, 1881, gave a legacy to the Eldridge Burying-Ground. 4. Rachel V. Corlies⁶, married, 2 October, 1828, Ely Moore, on whose estate she administered 23 April, 1838; was living January, 1881.
- ii. Rachel Corlies, born 31 October, 1770; died 24 March, 1847; married (1) Caleb Ridgway, whose estate was administered upon 30 October, 1793, and by whom she had issue: 1. Caleb Ridgway, died in 1828; married Elizabeth Crackford; died in 1821. 2. Richard Ridgway, died in his minority. Mrs. Ridgway married (2), as second wife, 26 June, 1796, John Butterworth, born 1760; died at Vincentown, 23 January, 1839. Issue: 1. William Butterworth, died near Vincentown, 26 August, 1829; married, 19 February, 1829, Hannah Lippincott. 2. John Butterworth, born 8 September, 1800; died at Vincentown, 4 November, 1879; married (1), 6 February, 1828, Keturah Stockton; (2), April, 1870, Keturah E. Jones, widow of Charles Campion. 3.

Edward F. Butterworth⁶, born 29 July, 1803; married, 19 June, 1828, Lettuce B. Dungan. 4. Job Butterworth⁶, born 1 July, 1805; died 3 January, 1888; married, 4 September, 1833, Sarah Wilkins. 5. Sarah Butterworth⁶, born 1 July, 1807; died 15 February, 1891; married (1), 25 October, 1829, William Stockton; (2), 29 January, 1844, Jacob Githens. 6. Nancy Butterworth⁶, born 9 December, 1809; died 12 June, 1877; married, 3 October, 1830, Joseph French Rowand.

- iii. Beulah Corlies, born 1780; died in Springfield Township, 26 February, 1853; married, about 1800, Monroe Stockton, born 22 January, 1776; died 22 January, 1834. Issue: 1. Joseph Stockton, born 1802; died, unmarried, 20 May, 1846.
 2. Jonathan Stockton, born 1805, died, unmarried, 12 June, 1852. 3. William Corlies Stockton, born 1807; died 15 August, 1857; married, 19 October, 1829, Sarah Maria Cox. 4. Samuel Stockton, born 1808; died 4 July, 1871; married, 1 October, 1828, Meribah Cox.
- iv. WILLIAM CORLIES⁵.
- v. Ann Corlies, made her will 20 December, 1824; probated 10 January, 1825.*
- vi. George Corlies⁵, possibly married, 19 September, 1803, Mary Branson, who, as administrator of his estate, conveyed lands in New Hanover which the deceased had purchased 1 August, 1809.†
- 10. JERUSHA CORLIES⁴ (William³, William², George¹), was born in Monmouth County, 28 September, 1746, and died in Burlington County, after 13 December, 1805. She married, license, 2 February, 1765, Samuel Goldy, of Burlington County, born 29 August, 1742; died at Pemberton, New Jersey, 20 February, 1819, and was buried in the Baptist church-yard of that town, as was his second wife, Ann, who died 19 April, 1826, aged seventy-six years.

Children of Samuel and Jerusha⁴ (Corlies) Goldy; born at Pemberton:

- i. SARAH GOLDY⁵, born 4 September, 1765.
- ii. WILLIAM C. GOLDY⁵, born 27 April, 1767; died 2 October, 1851; lived in Camden County, New Jersey; married (1), about 1791, Lettis Jennings; (2), 29 March, 1816, Hannah Peacock.
- iii. Daniel Goldy⁵, born 22 June, 1769; died 23 March, 1843; married Mary Pancoast, born 30 November, 1772; died 4 August, 1855; both husband and wife are buried in the Baptist church-yard at Pemberton.
- iv. Mary Goldy⁵, born 4 September, 1771.
- v. Deborah Goldy⁵, born 16 February, 1773.
- vi. Thomas Goldy⁵, born 30 August, 1776.
- vii. Jerusha Goldy, born 21 February, 1779; married Crusher.
- viii. Samuel Goldy⁵, born 1 April, 1781; died 23 October, 1819.

Wing Lineage

THE WING FAMILY

B A S

ANBURY in Oxfordshire—familiar alike to the Shakespearian scholar, the puritan divine, to him who loves good cheer, or to the childish ear but just attuned to the tinkling rhythm of nursery tale—was the home of Matthew Wynge, the earliest known ancestor of the Wing family of Sandwich, Massachusetts; indeed, of most of the Wings of America. It may have been that Matthew Wynge was born in this old town; certain it is, that it was his desire to find a last resting-place in its old church-yard. He must have gone into its original bakery for "Banberrie Cakes;" along High Street, and into its fine old Elizabethan houses, with Tudor fronts, and through the quaint gateway of the Reindeer Inn. He must have eaten the cheeses, beloved of Shakespeare, and he must have seen the demolition of Banbury Cross, now happily restored; and from Puritan zeal, so rampant in Banbury in his time, he might, in the eventide of life, have turned himself to majestic old St. Mary's, and have been not unwilling to bide awhile beneath its shadows.

Matthew Wynge was born probably about 1550, and died between 9 August and 15 November, 1614, the dates of the making and the proving of his will, and witnessed in the span of his life some of the most pregnant events in the history of the English people,—the excitement attending the "Invincible Armada," the rise of Puritanism, the beginning of the Stuart dynasty, the "gunpowder plot," and the first permanent English settlement in America. His will* describes him as of Banbury in Oxfordshire, tailor, leaves to the poor of the town ten shillings, and records his wish to be buried in the church-yard of St. Mary's. It leaves to his eldest son, Fulk, the lease of the house in which the testator dwelt, and twenty pounds in money; to second son, Thomas, thirteen pounds; to third son, John, forty shillings; to son-in-law, Robert Chamberlain, ten pounds; to daughter Joanna, twenty shillings. Other bequests were made to the children of eldest son, Fulk,—viz., Anne, Dorcas, Mary, and Matthew; to John, the son of his second son, Thomas; to Deborah Wynge, the daughter of his third son, John, and to John, her brother; to John Nichols, son of John Nichols, his son-in-law; to William Wynge, the son of his fourth son, James; to the children of Richard Gullins,—John, Thomas, and Phebe; and to Thomas Chamberlain, his grandson.

The Chronicles of Banbury; note, under the year 1608, that the Charter of King James to Banbury, given 28 June, 1608, appoints John Pym, John Winge, Robert Bentlye, George Moselye, Edward Wisdome, and John Austen to be Chief Burgesses for life, unless they shall any of them be removed by the majority of the Council. In the year 1687 the records of the Corporation have the entry: "Paid also to Mr. Wynge for traine soldiers & the King's proviscon—£7—9—0;" and in 1620, "Paied Thom. Wynge for the muster master for the last yeare." These last refer, doubtless, to Thomas, the second son of Matthew Wynge, then lately deceased.

The relationship has not been ascertained between Matthew Wynge and the Wings of County Rutland, who bore for arms, from a grant to Theodore Wing, Warden of the Wards and Liveries to Henry VII.: Per Nor is the kinship known between Matthew Wynge and the learned divine, Godfridus Wynge, the pastor respectively of the Dutch congregation at Frankford in Germany, Sandwich in England, and at London; his incumbency at the latter place being from 1563 until his death, 3 September, 1590.

Children of Matthew Wynge¹, all probably born at Banbury:

i. Fulk Winge². Issue living in 1614: 1. Anne Winge³. 2. Dorcas Winge³. 3. Mary Winge³. 4. Matthew Winge³. The latter may be he who matriculated at Queen's College, Oxford, 14 December, 1621, aged sixteen.

- ii. Thomas Winge². Issue living in 1614: John Winge³.
- (2) iii. John Winge², born 1585; died 1630; married Deborah Bachiler.
 - iv. James Winge². Issue living in 1614: William Winge⁸.
 - v. Joanna Winge².
 - vi. Winge², married Robert Chamberlain. Issue: Thomas Chamberlain⁸.
 - vii. Winge², married John Nichols. Issue: John Nichols⁸.
 - viii. Winge², married Richard Gullins. Issue: 1. John Gullins³. 2. Thomas Gullins³. 3. Phebe Gullins³.
- 2. THE REVEREND JOHN WING² (Matthew¹), was born doubtless at Banbury, county Oxford, in 1585, and at the age of fourteen years entered the University of Oxford, some twenty miles distant from his home, his matriculation entry being as follows: "John Wynge of Oxon, pleb, St. Alban's Hall, 15 October, 1599, aged 14." And on 12 February, 1603, Queen's College invested him with the degree of Bachelor of Arts.* ancient foundation of Queen's is still one of the most notable of the Oxford group of colleges, and the subject of our sketch gains an added interest from his association therewith, though of his life and pursuits there nothing is known but the fact of his entrance and graduation. The drift of his theological tenets and the time of his induction into holy orders are conjectural. His eldest son, John, is said to have been born at Yarmouth, in 1613, and he was then possibly in commission at some church in that place. That he was some time a resident of Sandwich in Kent, and doubtless in fellowship with the Established Church, and in charge of a living there, may be inferred from the dedication of his first book, published during his stay in Holland, to the Mayor and Corporation of Sandwich, in which he says, "Your former favour and the abundant fruits of your love which I have from time to time experienced ever since it pleased the Lord to cast affliction upon my external state, does daily provoke and deeply challenge from me the manifestation of a thankful heart unto you all, to whose kindness I stand a debtor much engaged to this day."

On 19 June, 1620, he was ordained, "under the direction of Mr. John Paget, of Amsterdam, assisted by two Dutch Clergymen, and in the presence of the burgomaster and other magistrates," pastor of the English churches of Flushing and Middleburg, which were sufficiently near together to be served by one chaplain.

He had previously been of Hamburg, and is thus noted by Mr. Stevens: "Mr. Wing, a pious man, and an edifying preacher, was first at Sandwich, but had latterly been Chaplain to the Merchant Adventurers of England resident at Hamburg. He exerted himself much for the good of his people here [Flushing] until he was removed to the Hague in 1627." In the chaplaincy at Hamburg he was succeeded by Thomas Young, the preceptor of Milton. His sermon, "Jacob's Staffe to bear up the Faithfull, and to beat down the profane," was preached in November, 1617, as his farewell "to the famous fellowship of Merchant Adventurers of England, resident in Hamburgh." It was later "published at the instant entreaty of a Godly christian," and "dedicated to the honor and use of that most worthy society there or wheresoever being."

He was the first settled English pastor at the Hague, being admitted 11 May, 1627; the states of Holland allowing him a subsidy of £300 yearly, which, by a decree of 17 August, 1628, was augmented to £500. A subscription of £100 sterling was raised by the English, and expended in repairing and beautifying the chapel. This church, or chapel, was much frequented by the royal family, and it was here that Mr. Wing preached, on 18 May, 1624, being then pastor at Flushing,

"Before the most High, and Mighty Princesse, ELIZABETH, By the Grace of God Queene of Bohemia, Countesse Palatine of the Rhene, Dutchess of Bavaria, &c.

And onely Daughter of our Soveraigne Lord King James," his sermon entitled, "The Saints Advantage; or, the Well-Fare of The Faithful in the Worst Times." This was printed at London in 1624, by John Dawson for John Bellamie, and was sold at his shop at the Three Golden Lions, near the Royal Exchange. A volume containing this sermon bound with others was once owned by the Reverend Thomas Prince, the New England annalist, who made this note on its title-page: "This Wing was Pastor of the English Puritan Church at Middleborough in Zealand, whose widow brought her children to Sandwich in New England, who afterwards turned Quakers, and from whom the Wings of Sandwich, Wareham, Dorchester, and Dartmouth are descended." A copy of the title-page is here interleaved.*

John Wing lived in the day of serious disputation in matters theological, and Holland was the asylum of several Separatist communions. Robert Browne, the English schismatic, famed alike for his condemnation of episcopacy and the presbytery, had, with his congregation, found a home in the city of Middleburg in 1581, and the fact that Mr. Wing preached to the English congregation of that place leads to the inference that it was to Browne's old followers that he ministered. And this is confirmed by a passage in the introduction of his sermon,—"The Crowne Conjugall, or the Spouse Royall, a Discovery of the true honor and happiness of Christian Matrimony," printed at Middleburg in 1620, in which, speaking of his hesitancy in presenting the theology therein contained, he adds: "I may faile in judgment and soone slip in some unsound passage, being here alone in this forraine land, and, if I fall, having none to help me up." A copy of the title-page of this publication, owned by Colonel George W. Wing, of Kewawnee, Wisconsin, is, by his courtesy, also interleaved.

Samuel Austin Allibone, in the "Dictionary of Authors," makes this mention of Mr. Wing's publications: "Wing, John, pastor of the English Congregation at Flushing, Zeeland. I. The Crowne Conjugall; or, the Spouse Royall, Middleburg, 1620, 4to. 2. Jacob's Staffe to beare up the Faithfull, and to beate down the Profane, Flushing, 1621, 4to. 3. The Best Merchandise, 1622." And to this must be added, "Abel's Offering," preached at Hamburgh in 1617, and "The Saint's Advantage; or, the Well-Fare of the Faithful in the Worst Times," before alluded to, and "dedicated to the Right Worshipfull and most worthy Gentlemen, Sir Francis Barrington, Sir Thomas Barrington, and Sir William Massam, Knights, and to their virtuous Ladies."

These glimpses of Mr. Wing show that he must have enjoyed a considerable degree of distinction as a theologian, and his writings, which have followed him, afford excellent proof of his scholarship, tact, and mental balance, and a few excerpts from "The Crowne Conjugall" may serve to show something of his literary style:

- "In the search of naturall ability, a man cannot goe a readier or surer way than to the progenators of whom he is descended."
- "I think every man loves himself both as well and as much as he is able."
- "How much more comely and comfortable would it be to make concordance between our opinions, and our practice, and to reconcile these one to another."
- "Language will discover much. Court English is the most neate and refyned of all other; they speak not in any rude words, or Barbarous phrase, but the purest speech of any people."
- "It is the strange blindness and dotage of the world, as soone as anything is applauded to be presently eager of it, and hungry after it."

His will, which bears date 2 November, 1629, describes him as late of the Hague, in Holland, clerk, now living in St. Mary Aldermary, London, and speaks of certain lands in Crickston, and Stroud in Kent. It was to Stroud that his son, Matthew Wing, returned from Sandwich, New England, and it is probable that the home of his early married life was at or near Sandwich in Kent, and that Sandwich, in Massachusetts, obtained its name through the Wing influence, since of its sixty earliest planters, none but the Wings have any proved affiliation with the English town of that name. The will of Mr. Wing was proved 4 August, 1630; * and while Mr. Stevens may be correct in his statement that he died during his incumbency at the Hague, he probably died at London, where he may have gone to visit, or to assist his father-in-law, the Reverend Stephen Bachiler, who was then maturing his plans for a colony in the New World.

He married, about 1609–10, Deborah, daughter of Stephen Bachiler, the one time vicar of Wherwell in Hants, at which place, in the shadow of the old abbey, founded by Queen Elfrida, she was born in 1592, and there spent her life until thirteen years of age. The records of the parish church of the Holy Cross and St. Peter do not begin until 1634, and the age of Deborah Bachiler Wing is only learned from her license to return to her husband after a visit to her father in England, which reads: "XXII Junii 1624, Debora Wynge XXXII years old, wife of Mr. John Winge, preacher, resident in Vlishing, wth her two children, vizt Steephen iii yeares old and Debora Winge xiii years old vrs ib 'm." † And there are two other recorded permits for travel, which had considerable influence on the future of Deborah Wing and her family of sons:

"23 Junii 1631, Stephen Bachiler aged 70 yeres, resident at South Stonham in Com. Southampton et uxor Hellen of age xlviii yeeres, vrs fflushing to visite their sonnes and daughters, and so to returne within two months.

"xxv Junii, 1631, Ann Sandburn of age 30 years, widowe, resident in ye strand, vrss Vlishing." †

At this time, Mr. Bachiler's ‡ family probably consisted of the three

[‡] The Reverend Stephen Bachiler was matriculated at St. John's College, Oxford, England, 17 November, 1581, "aged twenty years," and received the degree of Bachelor of Arts, 3 September, 1585-86. He took holy orders and became vicar of Holy Cross and St. Peter at Wherwell, county Hants, 17 July, 1587, and continued there until about 9 August, 1605, when John Bate, A.M., clergyman, was appointed vicar to fill the vacancy then existing, "because of the ejection of Stephen Bachiler." Little is known of Mr. Bachiler's life from this period until his removal to Massachusetts in 1632. In 1610 his son Stephen was matriculated at Oxford, as from county Southampton. On 11 June, 1621, Adam Winthrop's diary states that he had "Mr. Bachilier the preacher to dine with him," presumably daughters and three sons given below, and the visit of the aged father was doubtless a last effort to induce them to accompany him to America, whither he sailed on the "William and Francis," 8 March, 1631-32, accompanied by at Groton in Suffolk. In this year, 1621, he purchased lands at Newton Stacey, a retired hamlet, a mile and a half east of Wherwell, where he acquired considerable property, and where he must have preached the Puritan doctrines, as he was complained of in this particular, in 1632, by Sir Robert Payne, the then sheriff of Hampshire, and one of the church wardens of the parish of Barton Stacy. On 23 June, 1631, in a permit to pass beyond the sea to visit his children in Holland, he is described as a resident of South Stoneham, in county Southampton. On 9 March, 1632, he sailed from England in the ship "William and Francis," and after a voyage of eighty-eight days, landed at Boston, Massachusetts. The ship "William and Francis" was sent out by "the Company of husbandmen," sometimes called "The Company of London," or "Company of the Plough," and of this company Stephen Bachiler was an active member, and was chosen their pastor in 1629 or 1630. He had planned, while in England, to settle at Newtown (now Cambridge), Massachusetts, but owing to a disaster which befell the Plough Company in 1631, and also having received a ministerial call from Lynn (then known as Sagus), Massachusetts, he proceeded to the last-named place, where his daughter Theodate, wife of Christopher Hussey, resided. His ministry there began on Sunday, 8 June, 1632, when he baptized four children, but it was not a happy one. Some of his religious views were at variance with those of many of his congregation, which led to distraction in the church, and resulted in his departure from Lynn in 1636. In the next year he was induced to attempt the settlement beyond Sandwich on Cape Cod, Massachusetts, referred to in the text, and on 6 July, 1638, he received a grant of land at Newbury, Massachusetts, where he then resided, and on 2 October of that year the General Court of Massachusetts granted to him and to his company, who had petitioned therefor, liberty to begin a plantation at what is now Hampton, New Hampshire, whither he removed, and where a church was organized, of which he was made the pastor. In 1643 the church at Casco, Maine, extended to him a pastoral invitation, but he does not appear to have accepted it, although he relinquished his church at Hampton about this time. In 1647 he resided at Strawberry Bank (now Portsmouth), New Hampshire, and a few years later, just when is not known, returned to England, and died at Hackney, within the present limits of the city of London, in 1660, "in the one hundredth year of his age."

Winthrop classes Mr. Bachiler "among honest men" when he arrived in 1632. Prince, in his "Annals of New England," appendix to edition of 1632, says, "From Gov. Winslow and Captain Johnson, we learn that he (Stephen Bachiler) was an ancient minister in England; had been a Man of Fame in his Day; was 71 years of Age when he came over; bro't a number of People with him; and soon became the 1st Feeder of the Flock of Christ at Lynn (and by several Letters I have seen of his Writing to the R. Mr. Cotton of Boston, I find he was a Gentleman of Learning and Ingenuity and wrote a fine and curious hand.")

Sylvanus Morgan's "Sphere of Gentry," published in 1661, ascribes the following coat armor to Mr. Bachiler: "Vert, a plough in fesse: in base the sun rising, or," and further states that it was "granted to Stephen Bachiler, the first pastor of the church of Lygonia in New England, the plough to signify his ploughing up the fallow ground of their hearts, and the sun appearing, in allusion to his motto, sol justitiæ exoritur." Mr. Bachiler had possibly intended this for the seal of the Plough Company, and not for his own use. The grant to the Plough Company was later called the province his widowed daughters and at least seven grandchildren, three Sanburns and four Wings, and arrived in Boston harbor, 5 June, 1632. For the following five years Deborah Wing and her children remained with her father at Lynn, where he had gone on his arrival, and where his daughter Theodate and her husband, Christopher Hussey, had preceded him. In 1636–37 a number of Mr. Bachiler's parishioners removed from Lynn, and commenced a settlement on Cape Cod under a grant from the Plymouth Colony. Under date of 1 mo., of Lygonia, after Cicily Lygon, the mother of Sir Ferdinando Gorges, and Maverick says that there was a patent for this same land (Casco Bay) by the title of the Province of Lygonia granted to Colonel Alexander Rigby.

Mr. Bachiler has many descendants of prominence in America, among whom may be named General Henry Dearborn, of the Revolution; Daniel Webster; the Quaker poet, John G. Whittier; Honorable Justin Smith Morrill, and Honorable Seth Low. For an extended and interesting sketch of the life and work of Reverend Stephen Bachiler, see "The New England Historical and Genealogical Register," vol. xlvi; also The Batchelder, Batcheller Genealogy. By Frederick Clifton Pierce, Chicago, 1898.

The name of his first wife is not known. He married (2) Helen —, born in 1583, and died in 1641. His third marriage was in 1647 or 1648, to Mary —. His children, all probably born at Wherwell, were:

- i. NATHANIEL BACHILER, born in 1590; married Hester Mercer, of Southampton, a niece of the Reverend John Pryaulx, archdeacon of Sarum.
- ii. DEBORAH BACHILER, born in 1592; married the Reverend John Wing.
- iii. Stephen Bachiler, born in 1594; matriculated at Magdalen College, Oxford, 18 June, 1610.
- iv. Theodate Bachiler, born in 1596; died at Hampton, New Hampshire, 20 October, 1649; married Christopher Hussey.
- v. Samuel Bachiler, was chaplain in Sir Charles Morgan's regiment in Holland in 1620, and preacher to the English at Gorinchem, a fortified town in South Holland, some twelve miles east of Dort. He was the author of a sermon printed at Amsterdam, in 1625, during his incumbency at Gorinchem, entitled "The Christian Soldier; or, the Campe Royale, Set forth in briefe Meditations on the Words of the Prophet Moses, Deut. xxiii. 9-14," a copy of which is to be found in the British Museum. The following year he published another treatise on religious subjects, mixed with political questions, called "The Dangers Hanging over the Head of England, and France."
- vi. Ann Bachiler, born 1601; married John Sanborn.

1637, Governor Winthrop wrote: "Another plantation was now in hand at Mattacheese, six miles beyond Sandwich. The undertaker of this was Mr. Bachiler, late pastor at Sagus (since called Lynn), being about seventy-six years of age; yet he walked thither on foot in a very hard season. He and his company being all poor men, finding the difficulty, gave it over, and others undertook it." * Freeman, in his History of Cape Cod, states that it is generally supposed that John Wing accompanied his grandfather, Stephen Bachiler, to Mattacheese, and, after the abandonment of that settlement, found his way to Sandwich, where he, at that time twenty-two years of age, was the head of the Wing family, and the support of his mother, Deborah Wing. Tradition places the first Wing homestead in Sandwich, near a stream of water between two beautiful ponds, and on a highland overlooking the lower sheet and the town, and about a mile from the village, and here, upon what is called the old cellar-hole, will shortly be placed a bronze memorial tablet with the following inscription:

- (5) iv. Stephen Wing³, born 1621; died 24 April, 1710; married (1) Oseah Dillingham; (2) Sarah Briggs.
 - v. Matthew Wing³, born probably in Holland; accompanied his mother to Lynn and Sandwich, Massachusetts. He acquired property in the Colony of New Plymouth, probably in Sandwich, and leaving this in the hands of his brother, Daniel Wing, returned to England, possibly to look after the property at Stroud in Kent, mentioned in the will of his father. In Stroud he married Joan, daughter of Robert Newman of that place, and had by her one son, John Wing, who died in his minority. Matthew Wing, his wife, and child were all deceased before 27 August, 1680, as is set forth in a power of attorney of that date, from the heirs of Joan Newman Wing, of Stroud, in Kent, to their uncle, Daniel Wing, of Sandwich, in New England. The original of this document now hangs on the walls of the New England Historic and Genealogical Society in Boston, having been found some years since in a barrel of waste paper at New Bedford, and then presented to that Society.*
- 3. JOHN WING³ (Reverend John², Matthew¹), is said to have been born at Yarmouth, England, in 1613, and was named in the will of his grandfather, Matthew Wing, in 1614. He accompanied his maternal grandfather, Stephen Bachiler, to Lynn, Massachusetts, in 1632, and later to Cape Cod, and he was one of the sixty planters who effected the settlement at Sandwich in 1637. In 1641 he was allowed six acres as his share of the meadow-lands held at first in common, but later divided annually for the use of the settlers in severalty. He was sworn on the Grand Inquest of Plymouth Colony, 7 January, 1642, and in 1643 was a member of the Sandwich militia company, as were also his brothers Daniel and Stephen. Family history is responsible for the statement that he left the home of his mother at an early period, to form a new settlement to the eastward on the Cape, some forty miles distant, and the county court records show that in 1657 John Wing took the oath of fidelity at Yarmouth. It was against the policy of the early town corporations to allow planters to settle beyond the limits of an organized township, and on I March, 1659, the Plymouth court issued this order: "The Court, taking notice that John Wing is erecting a building in a place that is out of the bounds of the township (Yarmouth), and conceiving that such practices if permitted may prove prejudicial to the whole, do order that the said John Wing, and others that have done or shall do so, be prohibited to persist therein until it be further cleared to what township said lands belong on which they built." Satuckett was soon thereafter determined to be within the township of Yarmouth, and John Wing established himself on a high piece of land, subsequently called Wing Island, about a mile northeast of the present town of Brewster. A large pond in Brewster still bears the name of Wing, but no vestige of the John Wing house remains.

^{*} JOAN NEWMAN WING, widow of Matthew Wing, intrusted her rights in her husband's estate in Plymouth Colony, during the minority of her son, John Wing, to her brother-in-law, James Green, of Malden, in Massachusetts Bay Colony, who had married her sister, Elizabeth Newman, which rights were apparently not well cared for, and the estate was not delivered into the hands of either Joan or John Wing before their decease, and so devolved unto the three brothers of the said Matthew Wing, deceased: John Wing, of Yarmouth, and Daniel and Stephen Wing, of Sandwich, Massachusetts, who made over "to their well-beloved cousin Hannah, wife of William Shankes, and daughter of Thomas Griffen, of Stroud, and of Anne Griffen, alias Newman, his then wife, deceased, and sister of Joan Newman, alias Wing, also deceased."

He met with the usual trouble and litigation in locating his lands, and the court records show sundry of his transactions with the Indians. March, 1674-75, Robin, of Mattachesett, Ralph and Sampson, of Nobscussett, Indians, in the right of their wives, the daughters of Napoiatan, Indian sachem, deceased, "complaineth of much wrong done unto them by reason of sundry Englishmen unjust possession and detaining of sundry lands belonging to the said complainants, which were the lands of Napoiatan aforesaid, and not by him sold unto them, the said lands lying between Bound Brooke and Stony Brooke in the constablewicke of Yarmouth, and in particular complaines against John Winge in an action on the case, to the damage of fifty pounds for his possessing and detaining unlawfully from them a psell of the said lands whereupon he hath built, fenced, and otherwise improved." This action was non suited.* Under date of I March, 1676-77, John Wing and John Dillingham, in behalf of themselves and others associated with them, purchased this land from Robin, Sampson, Ralph, and their wives. The next year, on 10 July, "This Court gives libertie unto John Wing, Sen. of Yarmouth, to exchange a psll of land with an Indian named Pampamuett, which land is a psll of land belonging to the said John Wing, lying at or about Satuckett, for a psll of land being about one hundred acres, lying and being by the river Connecticut alias Teticutt River.";

His first wife Elizabeth ——, who died 31 January, 1692, was the mother of all his children. He married (2) Miriam, daughter of Stephen Deane. She died in January, 1702–03. The following is his last will and testament:

"Be it known to all men of these presents that I, John Wing, of ye town of Harwich, in ye county of Barnstable, New England, being grown aged and weake in body and not knowing how soone it may pleas God to call me hence by death, I do therefore this thirteenth day of April, 1696, make and ordaine this my last will and testament to stand and Remaine unviolable forever, and first I committ my Body to ye dust from whence it was taken, to be decently buried at ye discretion of my executors here after named and my soul I

Children of John³ and Elizabeth (----) Wing; all born in Plymouth Colony:

- i. Susanna Wing, born circa 1647; died 2 August, 1717; married William Parslow, of Harwich.
- ii. Ephraim Wing, born 30 May, 1648; died young.

- iii. Ephraim Wing4, born 4 April, 1649; died 11 December, 1649.
- (6) iv. Joseph Wing⁴, born 12 September, 1650; buried 31 May, 1679; married Jerusha Mayhew.
 - v. Ananias Wing⁴, died 30 August, 1718; married Hannah Freeman,* who died 9 December, 1730: His will, probated 17 September, 1718,† described him as of Harwich, and named children Elnathan, Samuel, John, Joseph, Deborah Weeks, Hannah Askin, Rachel, Elizabeth, and Mary. He served in King Philip's War, under Captain Gorham, and his heirs received from the government on 6 June, 1733, one hundred and ten acres of land in Narragansett Township, Number Seven, now Gorham, Maine.
 - vi. John Wing⁴, died in 1683; married Mary Knowles(?), ‡ by whom he had one son, John Wing, born 1680; died 12 June, 1758; married (1), 1 March, 1712, Bethia, daughter of Kenelm Winslow; (2), 24 July, 1723, Rebecca, widow of Joseph Vicery, and daughter of Thomas Freeman.
 - vii. Oseah Wing⁴, married (1), before 1680, Nathan Turner, of Scituate, mariner, who died in Virginia, 15 August, 1693; (2) Joseph White, who died in 1722.

4. DANIEL WING³ (Reverend John², Matthew¹), was born possibly in Sandwich, in England, about 1617–18, and died at Sandwich, Massachusetts, in March, 1698. He purchased of Andrew Hallett, 28 June, 1640, certain lands about a mile on the road leading southward from Sandwich to Falmouth, and there erected his homestead, which is still standing "nestling" at the foot of hills at the head of the lower pond, and surrounded by a growth of shrubbery and trees." There his children were probably born, and it must have been there that his "entertainment of the Quakers" brought down the wrath of the Plymouth authorities upon himself. He was a member of the Sandwich military company in 1643, and served on the Grand Inquest of the Colony 7 January, 1653, but by 2 March, 1657, he had adopted the faith and practice of the Society of Friends, and was at that time fined twenty shillings for appearing before the court with his hat on. § On I June, 1658, he was one of those deprived of the rights of citizenship, and was also one of those summoned by the Court "to show cause for their refusal to take the oath of fidelity to this government and unto the state of England," which again (I June, 1658) being tendered to them in open court, they refused, saying they "held it unlawfull to take any oath at all." On 2 October, of that year, he was fined five pounds for continuing in his refusal to take the required oath, and this fine was repeated on 6 October, 1659.* Thus to satisfy fines imposed, he was under distraint of £12, and the authorities sold three of his cows in settlement thereof.

Freeman, in his History of Cape Cod, makes the statement that Daniel Wing, of Sandwich, died in 1659, and an inventory of his estate taken in that year would seem to bear out this conclusion. Professor Hoxie, in his paper, "The Wings as Friends," published in The Owl, in September, 1902, shows, however, that to avoid in some measure the continued strenuous persecution, Daniel Wing made over his estate to his children, and quotes the following entry from the records of the court, I May, 1659: † "Whereas at this Court, John Wing testified and cleared up unto this court that the estate of Daniel Wing is made unto his children, the Court allows thereof that the said John Wing give unto this court a true inventory of the Estate so disposed and engaged, and that he likewise engage that the estate be employed for the use of the said children." This shrewd business venture may have lessened, though it did not entirely bar the fines, and Daniel Wing acquired a considerable estate, which he disposed of by will bearing date 10 March, 1698. ‡ He died between this and the date of probate, 9 April, following.

He married (1), at Sandwich, 5 September, 1642, Hannah, daughter of William and Jane Swift, who died 30 January, § 1664; and (2), 2 June, 1666, Ann, daughter of Thomas and Sarah (Learned) Ewer, who survived him.

Children of Daniel³ and Ann (Ewer) Wing; all born at Sandwich:

- xi. Experience Wing⁴, born 4 August, 1668; died in 1759; married Samuel Spooner, born 1655; died 1739.
- xii. Bachilder Wing⁴, born 10 December, 1671; married Joanna Hatch, and removed to that part of Scituate which later became Hanover, where he died 22 April, 1739-40, and his widow died 20 May, 1761, aged, according to the church record, one hundred years.
- xiii. Jashub Wing⁴, born 30 March, 1674; will dated 30 August, 1725; married, 11 February, 1701-02, Anna, daughter of Ludwick and Mary (Presbury) Hoxie, who died 16 December, 1721.
- 5. STEPHEN WING³ (Reverend John², Matthew¹), was born probably at Flushing, Holland, in 1621, and died at Sandwich, Massachusetts, 24 April, 1710. With his brothers he joined the military company of Sandwich in 1643, but on 6 October, 1659, he was complained of by Marshall Barlow, "for refusing to assist him in the countryes services, being required att three severall times," and was accordingly fined. About this time he accepted the principles of the Society of Friends, and became a member of the Sandwich Meeting. He suffered the usual fines for non-conformity in civil matters, but served on the Grand Inquest, as surveyor of highways, and as town clerk, being appointed to the latter office in 1669.

Confident tradition locates the house of Stephen Wing on a farm near Spring Hill. Part of the original house, now over two hundred and fifty years old, is said to be comprised in the residence of Alvin P. Wing, a direct descendant in the seventh generation of the original Stephen. The part of the house erected by Stephen, and now standing, serves as the parlor of the present home. The family history places the date of the erection in 1664. The section still standing is said to have been erected as a block-house, as a place of refuge in case of attacks from the savages. From father to son the house has come down through the ages,—from Stephen to Ebenezer to Joshua to Presbury to Joshua to Seth to Alvin P. Wing, the present occupant. The main part of the old house is thought to have been originally constructed of stone, the walls still being some eighteen inches in thickness. There are many quaint nooks and corners, and an attic full of retired colonial household furniture and utensils. The part of the house said to have been erected as a block-house is the room at the right hand of the front door shown in this illustration. This is the oldest Wing house in America, and it was probably within its walls that its founder, Stephen Wing, died, 24 April, 1710.

He married (1), 1646–47, Oseah, daughter of Edward and Drusilla Dillingham, who died 29 April, 1654, and (2), 7 January, 1654 (O.S.), Sarah, daughter of John and Catharine Briggs, who died 26 March, 1689.

Children of Stephen³ and Oseah (Dillingham) Wing; born at Sandwich:

- i. Nathaniel Wing⁴, born 1646-47; died after 1730; married, at Falmouth, in 1664, Sarah, daughter of Jonathan and Sarah (Rowley) Hatch, born 31 March, 1635; died in 1731. He was in service during King Philip's War, for which his son, Nathaniel Wing, received from the government, 17 October, 1733, certain lands in Narragansett Township, Number Seven, now Gorham, Maine.
- ii. Deborah Wing4, born 1647-48.
- iii. Ephraim Wing4, born 21 June, 1649; died in infancy.
- iv. Mercy or Mary Wing4, born 13 January, 1650.

Children of Stephen³ and Sarah (Briggs) Wing; born at Sandwich:

- v. Stephen Wing⁴, born 7 April, 1656; was a member of Captain Michael Peirse's company from Plymouth, in King Philip's War, and was killed in battle with the Indians under Canonchet at Seekonk, 26 March, 1676.
- vi. SARAH WING4, born 5 February, 1658; married Robert Gifford.
- vii. John Wing⁴, born 25 September, 1661; died 21 September, 1728; married, 22 September, 1685, Mary, daughter of Edward and Mary Perry. She died 6 May, 1714.
- viii. ABIGAIL WING, born I May, 1664; died unmarried.
- ix. Elisha Wing, born 2 February, 1668; died 9 November, 1731; married, 1 March, 1689, Mehitable, daughter of Daniel and Elizabeth Butler.
- x. EBENEZER WING, born 11 July, 1671; died 24 February, 1738; married, 23 February, 1698, Elizabeth, daughter of Francis Backhouse, who died 21 June, 1758.
- xi. Matthew Wing⁴, born 1 March, 1674; died at Dartmouth in 1724; married, 4 September, 1696, Mrs. Elizabeth Ricketson, widow of William Ricketson, of Dartmouth, and daughter of Adam Mott by his wife Mary Lott, born 6 August, 1659.

6. JOSEPH WING⁴ (John³, Reverend John², Matthew¹), was born probably at Sandwich, Massachusetts, 12 September, 1650, and died at Yarmouth, about 28 May, 1679. He removed with his parents to that part of Yarmouth which later became Harwich, and is now Brewster. On 1 March, 1676–77, he purchased, in partnership with his father and John Dillingham, and others associated with them, from the Indians, Robin, Sampson, Ralph, and their wives, "all that tract of land both upland and meadow, which they had in common or partnership, lying in Saquetucket in the liberties or constablewick of Yarmouth, containing all that land lying between the place commonly called Bound Brooke on the west, and the middle of Saquetucket River on the east, from the North Sea to the South Sea." In this purchase Joseph Wing and his brother Ananias were to have one-third of four shares, and the division was made and the land deeded to each, 16 April, 1677–78.

King Philip's War, in 1675–76, made a heavy tax upon the settlers in Plymouth Colony for the supply of troops in the field, and John Wing, Senr, and his two eldest sons, Joseph and Ananias, were each assessed "toward the charge of the late war," Joseph Wing's rate being £2.16.5.

The Yarmouth records give the date of Joseph Wing's burial as 31 May, 1679.

He married, 12 April, 1676, Jerusha, daughter of Thomas Mayhew, of Martha's Vineyard, by his wife Jane Paine. Mrs. Wing married (2), at Yarmouth, 12 December, 1684, Thomas Eatton,* of Portsmouth, Rhode by wife Jerusha (Mayhew) Wing, were: 1. Thomas Eatton², who died at Shrewsbury, 10 December, 1686. 2. John Eatton, Esq^{R2}, born at Shrewsbury, 25 March, 1689, and died there 1 April, 1750. The latter was many years justice of the peace and of the courts of Monmouth County, and a member of the Provincial Assembly of New Jersey from 1723 to 1749. He married Joanna, daughter of Joseph Wardell, and had:

Island, and removed with him to Shrewsbury, Monmouth County, New Jersey, where she was again a widow 26 November, 1688. John, Elizabeth, Sarah, and Ananias Wing were witnesses at the marriage of Mrs. Jerusha Wing and Thomas Eatton. On 20 March, 1700, Jerusha Eatton, described as of Shrewsbury, in East Jersey, widow, conveyed, in consideration of £40, to Benjamin Smith, of Edgartown, half a house lot in Edgartown, her son Joseph Wing renouncing his right, title, and interest in and to the same, and both mother and son appeared and acknowledged the deed on 29 April, 1700. On 2 May, following, Matthew Mayhew, Esqr, of Edgartown, also quit-claimed all the right and interest he might have in and to one house lot of land lying in Edgartown and lately belonging to his two sisters, Jerusha Eatton, widow, and Jedidah, wife of Benjamin Smith.* (See Mayhew Family, No. 2.)

Mrs. Eatton witnessed a marriage at the Shrewsbury Meeting-House, in October, 1717, and probably died shortly afterwards.

Children of Joseph⁴ and Jerusha (Mayhew) Wing; born at Yarmouth:

- i. John Wing⁵, born 6 January, 1676, probably died young.
- ii. Jane Wing⁵, married, 15 October, 1694, John West, of Shrewsbury. (See West Family, No. 6.)
- (7) iii. Joseph Wing⁵, died circa 1710; married Ann Lippincott.

7. JOSEPH WING⁵ (Joseph⁴, John³, Reverend John², Matthew¹), was born at Yarmouth, Massachusetts, about 1678, though no record of his birth has thus far come to light. He was of age 10 March, 1700, when he exchanged with Dr. John Stewart, of Shrewsbury, New Jersey, land which had been patented to Thomas Eatton 25 March, 1687, and by him bequeathed to the said Joseph Wing, for one hundred and forty acres in Shrewsbury Township.*

He was doubtless in membership with the Shrewsbury Meeting of Friends, and was frequently a witness to marriages accomplished at the Friends Meeting-House. He died about 1710, and the administration of his estate was granted 15 October, 1710,† to Stephen Colvin, ‡ who probably had married his widow, Ann, as one Ann Colvin witnessed the marriage of Jacob Lippincott and Mary White, 17 October, 1717. Stephen Colvin was living at Shrewsbury, 22 September, 1716, when he made sale of lands in that town to John Green, of Newport, Rhode Island, after which his name disappears from the New Jersey records.

Mr. Wing married, at Shrewsbury, 2 July, 1701, Ann Lippincott, born 17 June, 1680; daughter of John Lippincott by his wife Ann Barber. The following subscribed their names as witnesses, at the house of John Lippincott:

Children of Joseph⁵ and Ann (Lippincott) Wing; born at Shrewsbury:

- (8) i. Joseph Wing⁶, married Elizabeth Colvin.
 - ii. Sarah Wing⁶, married, as second wife, 13 January, 1731, William Corlies. (See Corlies Family, No. 5.)

8. JOSEPH WING⁶ (Joseph⁵, Joseph⁴, John³, Reverend John², Matthew¹), was probably the "Captain Wing from West Jersey," who entered the port of Boston, and was noticed in the Boston Gazette of 12–19 March, 1739. He died before 18 April, 1751, when Joseph West, of Shrewsbury, as guardian to his son, James West, and his wife, the heir at law to Joseph Wing, deceased, entered a caveat against a highway through the property of the said Wing.* He is said to have married Elizabeth Colvin, and she would seem to be the Elizabeth Wing who married, license, 18 July, 1757, Joseph Chambers, of Monmouth County.

Child of Joseph⁶ and Elizabeth (Colvin) Wing:

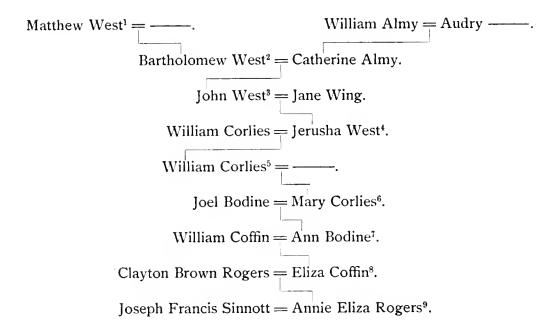

i. Ann Wing⁷, born at Shrewsbury, 14 August, 1729; died 28 May, 1793; married, license, 30 December, 1749, her second cousin, James West, of Shrewsbury, born 10 December, 1731; died 10 January, 1788. Both husband and wife are buried in Christ Church Burying Ground, Shrewsbury. Issue: 1. John West⁸.

family, appeared at Lynn, Massachusetts, as early as 1636, where he was admitted freeman of the town, 9 March, 1637. He removed to Newport, Rhode Island, about 1646, was made freeman there in 1655, and was one of the members from Providence at the Court of Commissioners, which met at Portsmouth, 28 June, 1655.* He was of Newport, 16 January, 1677, when he conveyed to his grandson, Nathaniel West, the dwelling-house in which he then lived, bounded partly by lands of John Crandall and John Thornton. The grantee was described as "the son of my eldest son Nathaniel West, who departed this life many years ago," and the property was made over to him in consideration of the fact that "he hath for many years past and now does live with me, and is the comfort of me in my old age."

The time of his death and the name of his wife are unknown, and the number of his children is problematical.†

Children of Matthew West¹:

i. NATHANIEL WEST², who was one of the twelve members of the First Baptist Church of Newport, and was in full communion therewith, 12 October, 1648. He was drowned in February, 1658, during a visit to Plymouth Colony, and, at the inquest on his death, the jury rendered the verdict that, "Nathaniel West, a stranger to us, belonging to Road Island, being by God's providence amongst us, and being under cure of an infirmitie of his body, it appears that he had occasion to go to Providence, and going upon the ice, it broke, and he fell in and was drowned; when his body was taken up, it appeared to us that his death was in no way violent nor wilfull, but accidental as far as we apprehend." * His son, Nathaniel West, married Elizabeth, daughter of the Reverend Thomas Dungan,† of Newport, Rhode Island, and Cold Spring, Pennsylvania, and died in Mansfield Township, Burlington County, New Jersey, before 2 November, 1697, when his estate was administered upon by his brother-in-law, Clement Dungan, of Bucks County, Pennsylvania. ‡ According to Morgan Edwards's "History of the Baptists in Pennsylvania," he left four children.

- ii. John West², freeman of Newport, 1655.
- (2) iii. Robert West², died 22 November, 1687; married (1) Elizabeth ——; (2) Frances Heard.
- (3) iv. Bartholomew West², died before 1675; married Catharine Almy.
 - v. Francis West², of Kingston, Rhode Island; was taxed there, 6 September, 1687, as were also his sons, Francis West and Richard West.
 - vi. Joan West², born in England, 1635; died 24 April, 1676; married, 22 December, 1652, Joshua Coggeshall, Esq^r, of Newport and Portsmouth.
- 2. ROBERT WEST² (Matthew¹), was one of the fifty-four settlers who secured a home lot in Providence Plantation in 1637, and one of the thirty-nine signers, 27 July, 1640, to an agreement for civil government. He was also one of the thirteen who, in a letter dated 17 November, 1641, complained to the Massachusetts government against "the insolent and riotous carriage of Samuel Gorton, and his company," and petitioned that colony to consider their complaint, and "lend a neighbor like helping hand" § against that arch disturber of their political and religious peace. He later removed to Portsmouth, where, by deed of 18 October, 1663, he and wife Elizabeth sold to John Nixon, of Newport, twenty-eight acres in Portsmouth. was doubtless preparatory to his departure, with other of his fellow-townsmen, to Monmouth County, East Jersey, where he was one of the original purchasers of land in 1665, and where he took the oath of allegiance to King Charles II. as an inhabitant of Navesink, 27 February, 1667; | and he was living at the latter place in 1670. That he was buried at Shrewsbury, Monmouth County, is learned from a deed of 10 May, 1697, from his son, Joseph

West, who reserved land in that town, "where his loving father, Robert West, lies interred."

He married (1) Elizabeth —, who was living 18 October, 1663, and (2) Frances Heard, who, after his death, married Edmund Lafetra. The will of Edmund Lafetra, dated 4 September, 1687, named sons Edmund and Joseph, son-in-law John West, daughters Sarah Lafetra and Elizabeth West, and called Joseph West a son, and Robert West, Frances Stout, Mary Cammock, and Ann Chamberlain, children. The wife Frances administered on his estate 1 December, 1687.*

Children of Robert West², the mother being uncertain:

- i. Robert West³, took the oath of allegiance with his father, in Monmouth County, East Jersey, in 1667. He and wife Margaret conveyed to his brother Joseph West, 2 April, 1688, land in Shrewsbury, which had belonged to his late father.
- ii. Joseph West³, married at Shrewsbury, 12 May, 1692, by Peter Tilton, Esq^r, to Mary Webley. His will of 4 January, 1714–15, described his land as "on the east side of the laurel birch near Falls River," and made bequests to wife Mary, sons Webley, Stephen, and Joseph, and to three daughters. The probate bears date 23 February, 1714–15.†
- iii. John West³, married Elizabeth, daughter of Edmund Lafetra; called "son of Robert West of Shrewsbury," in deed from John Williams, 26 September, 1694, for land at Manasquan; and "the son of Frances, late wife of Edmund Lafetra, deceased," in a deed from her, dated 25 January, 1688, for lands in the same place. In 1685 William Lawrence, Richard Hartshorne, John West, Joseph West, Edmund Lafetra, and others took up two thousand five hundred acres of land on the coast in Middletown Township, from Wreck Pond to the head of Barnegat Bay, under the name of the Manasquan Beach Company.
- vi. Frances West³, married, before 1680, Richard Stout, Jun^r. She may have been, however, Frances Lafetra.
- v. Mary West³, married Nathaniel Cammock, of Shrewsbury, whose will of 29 August 1710, named wife Mary, daughters Mary Gifford, Audry Parker, Ann, and Leah, and son-in-law Caleb Allen.
- vi. Ann West³, married Henry Chamberlin, ‡ and her will of 15 January, 1691, named son John Chamberlin, and brothers Robert and Joseph West, and Nathaniel Cammock.
- 3. BARTHOLOMEW WEST² (Matthew¹), purchased of William Baulston seventy acres of land in Portsmouth, Rhode Island, 23 February, 1651. Like his brother Robert, he was one of the original purchasers of land in Monmouth County, East Jersey, in 1665, and he was one of the deputies from Shrewsbury to the General Assembly of East Jersey, 14 December, 1667.* He is also named in the list of patentees and associates of East Jersey, 8 July, 1670. He lived in Shrewsbury on the corner opposite Christ Church.

He married Catharine, daughter of William and Audry Almy,† and died before 1675, in which year his widow was the wife of Nicholas Brown, ‡ of Shrewsbury. Catharine Almy was born probably at Lynn, Massachusetts, in 1636, and died at Shrewsbury, East Jersey, later than 25 March, 1688. In the year 1675 she received one hundred and eighty acres of land as the widow of Bartholomew West, and, with her then husband, Nicholas Brown, two hundred and ten acres.§

 - ii. Audry; West, married Thomas Webley, of Shrewsbury. The will of the latter, dated 10 January, 1698, proved 29 March, 1705, mentioned estate in Wales, inherited from his father; an estate coming from his uncle, Edward Webley; wife Audry; kinsman Lewis Morris; son John; daughters Catharine, Ann, and Mary.
- (5) iii. WILLIAM WEST³, died 1745-46; married Margaret Wardell, widow of Ephraim Allen.
- (6) iv. John West³, died circa January, 1728; married Jane Wing.
 - v. Bartholomew West³, named in the will of his grandfather, William Almy, 28 February, 1676, under the terms of which instrument he was to receive £20 at twenty-one years of age.
- 4. STEPHEN WEST³ (Bartholomew², Matthew¹), was born probably at Portsmouth, Rhode Island, about 1654, and died at Dartmouth, Massachusetts, 12 August, 1748, "aged ninety-four years." In 1675 he received sixty acres of land in Shrewsbury,|| whither he had accompanied his father, but where he doubtless did not long remain, as, on 2 May, 1687, Stephen

West, then "of West, alias Mackatory Island in New England," gave power of attorney to his brother, William West, of Shrewsbury, for the collection of debts in East Jersey.* Mackatory or Mackataw Island had been acquired by Stephen West in consideration of eighty pounds sterling, under date of 8 July, 1686, from John Cooke, his father-in-law, who had purchased it from Philip, the great Sachem. On 2 May, 1690, there was confirmed to Stephen West, of Shrewsbury, one-thirty-second of one-sixteenth of one-twenty-fourth share of three hundred and twelve acres, held by purchase from Nicholas Brown, of the same place.† He executed a deed, 29 October, 1729 (being then of Dartmouth, Bristol County, Massachusetts), for lands in New Jersey purchased of Nicholas Brown, 7 February, 1687, to his children, Catharine, wife of Christopher Turner, Sarah, wife of Jacob Taber, Amy, wife of William Peckham, Eunice, wife of Beriah Goddard, Lois, wife of Jonathan Taber, and Ann West, all of Dartmouth.‡

^{} EPHRAIM ALLEN, of Shrewsbury, married Margaret Wardell, and died 29 January, 1691. Their children were: 1. EPHRAIM, who died 2 August, 1684. 2. Lydia, born 13 November, 1686. 3. John, born 29 September, 1688. 4. EPHRAIM, again, born 13 July, 1691. His will named "two sons and a daughter." Letters testamentary were issued, 13 February, 1694-95, to Margaret, the widow of deceased, and wife of William West. (New Jersey Archives, xxi. 220.)

- Job Cook, brother-in-law Ephraim Allen, and children Ebenezer, William, John, Thomas, Margaret, and Edward Patterson Cook. The widow, Catherine Cook, married (2), 19 September, 1744, Benjamin Woolley, of Shrewsbury, by whom there may have been no issue.
- iii. SARAH WEST⁴, married (1) Silas Cook, who died 5 June, 1725, leaving six children: Stephen, Ebenezer, Jasper, William, Silas, and —, a daughter; there was also a posthumous one, Joseph. She married (1) George Corlies. (See Corlies Family, No. 7.)
- iv. Job West⁴, married Sarah Brinley. His will of 27 September, 1741, proved 6 April, 1742, named sons William, George, and Joseph, daughters Margaret and Elizabeth, and wife Sarah.
- 6. JOHN WEST³ (Bartholomew², Matthew¹), was born probably at Portsmouth, Rhode Island, about 1660, and died at Shrewsbury, New Jersey, circa January, 1728. He obtained a patent for fifty acres in Shrewsbury, in the right of his brother, William West, 1 May, 1688,* which small tract he subsequently increased by various purchases until he became a considerable land-holder.

He lived near Christ Church in Shrewsbury, and owned the "Great House," at which place the first election for freeholders of the township took place in March, 1710. The lot on which the first Episcopal church was built, and on which the present church now stands, was deeded 20 May, 1706, by Nicholas Brown, his step-father to "ye Revd & Honorable Society for ye propogation of ye Gospel in Foreign Parts for ye service & worship of God according to ye way & manner of ye church of England, as is now by law established, being in ye town of Shrewsbury, beginning at Nicholas Brown's northwest corner at a walnut stump, bearing southwesterly twelve degrees, westerly from ye Quaker's Meeting-House Chimbley, and from John West's great house chimbley north fifty-eight degrees easterly." The deed was executed in the presence of Thomas Bills, John West, Samuel Dennis, and Joanna Gaunt.†

Mr. West was married at Shrewsbury, 15 October, 1694,‡ by Lewis Morris, Esq^r, to Jane, daughter of Joseph Wing, deceased, by his wife Jerusha Mayhew. (See Wing Family, No. 6.) She is not named in his will, and was probably deceased at its execution. She witnessed, 29 September, 1692, as Jane Wing, the marriage of Abraham Brown and Leah Clayton, and on 2 July, 1701, that of her brother Joseph Wing to Ann Lippincott.

OUTHEAST of Massachusetts, washed on all sides by the Atlantic Ocean and fanned by its salt perfume, Nantucket, Martha's Vineyard, and the Elizabeth Isles lie embedded in a soft horizon of blue. These islands were in 1641 in the possession of William, Earl of Sterling, and Sir Ferdinando Gorges, who, on 13 October of that year, made a deed of the same to "Thomas Mayhew, at Watertown, merchant, and to Thomas Mayhew, his son." * On 2 July, 1659, Thomas Mayhew, Senr, sold Nantucket to nine purchasers, with Tristram Coffin at their head, and these, with himself, have since been considered the founders of that famous island town.† But it was on Martin's ‡ or Martha's Vineyard, called by the Indians, Nope, that Thomas

Mayhew, afterwards governor, made his home from about 1645. Born at Tisbury in Wiltshire, in old England, and baptized at its parish church, I April, 1593, the son of Matthew and Alice (Barter) Mayhew,* he transplanted the name of his birthplace to the land of his adoption, and, in its honor, erected the only manor in New England.† Chilmark, an adjoining town to Tisbury, in Wiltshire, and likewise the home of the Mayhews, had also a namesake on Martha's Vineyard.

An interesting monograph on the English Ancestry of Governor Thomas Mayhew, and his probable connection with the armorial Mayow family of

Mayow of Dinton

Dinton, some few miles distant from Tisbury and Chilmark, in county Wilts, by Charles Edward Banks, M.D., was published in the Genealogical Advertiser of 1901. In this, Dr. Banks calls attention to the differentiation in the seal used by Thomas Mayhew, as corroborative evidence of his descent from a third son of an armorial grantee. The seal used by Governor Mayhew must have been cut in England, and the use of the mullet for difference leaves no other inference possible.

The Mayhews of Dinton were Roman Catholics, and, according to Dr. Banks, suffered persecution in the pursuance of their faith. Edward Mayhew, § of Dinton, became a Benedictine monk, and, with his brother, Henry Mayhew, was, in 1583, admitted to the English College at Douay, then temporarily removed to Rheims, and later matriculated at the English College, Rome, in 1590. They were probably sons of Henry Mayhew, brother of Thomas Mayhew, third son of Robert Mayow, of Dinton, whose pedigree is set forth in the "Heralds' Visitation of Wiltshire." To quote Dr. Banks once more, it is possible that the branch of Thomas Mayhew, to which Governor Mayhew unquestionably belonged, became Protestant, and thus lost affiliation with the parent stock.

With his brothers and sisters,* John, Edward, Jane, Alice, and Katherine, Thomas Mayhew shared the patrimony of their father, Matthew Mayhew, who died at Tisbury in 1614, and he later became a merchant at Southampton, England, some twenty-five miles from Tisbury.† Indeed, it is quite likely that he is the "Mr. Maio" from whom the Massachusetts Bay Company purchased "supplies" in 1628. ‡ The date of his departure from Southampton, or arrival in Massachusetts, is somewhat uncertain, but he was, as stated by Bond, in his "History of Watertown," chairman of the committee which reported to the General Court, 6 March, 1631/2, on the boundary between Charlestown and Newtown (Cambridge). For the ensuing thirteen years, says Dr. Bond, it appears by the Colonial Records that few, if any, other persons so often received important appointments from the General Court. He was a representative or deputy from Watertown to the General Court of Massachusetts in 1636, and for several years subsequently. In 1641 he, having received, as before stated, the grant of Martha's Vineyard, Nantucket, and the Elizabeth Islands, his son Thomas Mayhew, and others with him, went to Martha's Vineyard,

[†] In the Indexes to the Patent Rolls, in the Public Record Office, London, are two entries of the appointment of Thomas Mayhew as commissioner to administer oaths to persons desirous of passing beyond the seas. A connection with him of the sketch has not been ascertained. The entries read: "I. 10 May. Grant to Thomas Mahewe, the office of clerk of the passes and licenses in the Outports, and the writing and registering of the same, and of the names of all those that shall go out of this kingdom beyond the seas for 21 years in reversion (12 Chas. I. p. 14). II. 22 September. Grant to Thomas Mayhew, Esq^r, of the office of clerk and clerkship of all Licenses or passes in the Outports made, and to be made, to any person or persons, to go unto any foreign ports or places beyond the sea; and also the office of Register [Registrar] of the names of all the said persons for the term of 21 years in reversion (12 Chas. II. p. 24)." Of Mayhew's lists of those who passed into foreign parts during this period beginning with 1637, nothing is to be found but a fragment commencing at page 287, and that continues but for a short period; the others are either lost, or are among the great uncatalogued at the Record Office (John Camden Hotten's Lists of Emigrants to America, 1600–1700, pp. 160, 161).

settling at Great Harbor [Edgartown],* which for nearly thirty years was the only township on the island. It is probable that the father did not remove there until the spring or summer of 1645, as he signed at Watertown, 7 December, 1644, as chairman, the report of a committee which was presented to the General Court in May following.;

Concerning his life on the Vineyard and the islands adjacent, considerable has been written. His purchase of the lands from the Indians after he had acquired them from the Earl of Sterling and Sir Ferdinando Gorges, his wise and beneficent government, and his labors to instruct the natives in the principles of the Christian religion are familiar themes. So also are the disturbances between Maine and New York relative to the jurisdiction of the islands, with the result that on 8 July, 1671, the charters of Edgartown, Tisbury, and Tisbury Manor were granted by Governor Francis Lovelace to Mr. Mayhew, i and on the same day he was made governor over the English and Indians of Martha's Vineyard and the Elizabeth Isles. §

With his commission as chief executive, special instructions were issued to Governor Mayhew which, when considered in the light of after events, were of a most timely character. "You are to cause," directs Governor Lovelace, "a general meeting to be summoned of the inhabitants (among which I would not have the chief of the Indians omitted), to whom you are to declare the end of your being with me, and the power I have invested in you, by causing your commission to be read publickly, Seal of Martha's Vine- together with your instructions.

"You are to cause some of the principal sachems to repair, as speedily as they can, to me that so they may pay their homage to His Majesty, and acknowledge his Royal Highness to be their only lord proprietor. You are not to suffer any of your Indians to enter into a confederacy ^{*} Great Harbor, or Edgartown, was from 1641 the county-seat of the island, and the early records of that settlement are in effect the official records of the county, which, until 1671, had no other incorporated town. The entry on these records therefore, under date of 22 January, 1655, that "The common seale of this place shall be a bunch of grapes," was applied to the Vineyard, and not to the still unnamed Edgartown. of war with any other foreign Indians, without advertising me first about it, and procuring my permission for it."

The meeting was held according to the instructions, the commission read and explained, and the Indians received the orders from New York with submission and promised allegiance and obedience with alacrity, each one in token thereof holding up his hand.

In writing of this event to Governor Prince, of Plymouth, 19 August, 1671, Governor Mayhew in part said,—

"As to our Indians, it is my understanding there is no manner of plot known to any of the heads of this Island; for before I went to York, considering the troubles in your colony, I went to all the towns, some English with me, and they did give in their names for to subject themselves unto His Majesty, and to fight against his enemies, and the enemies of his subjects, if called thereunto. This was upon the matter universal, only at Mettaack's place were not many present; but himself and those present did freely give in their names. But since I came home, bringing with me a commission to govern all the Indians of this island and Elizabeth Isles, I sent for all the sachems and chief men, acquainting them with what was done. All the sachems, with many others, as well non-praying as praying men, did, with much thankfulness, submit unto his Honor's act in setting me over them: and every person present, by holding up his hand, did promise the worship of God. The like was never of them heretofore attained." *

The plot referred to in Governor Mayhew's letter was one of those clouds which, gathering slowly, culminated in the second Indian war in New England. Massasoit, the friend of the Pilgrims, had died in 1660, leaving sons Alexander and Philip, the former of whom succeeded his father as chief sachem of the Wampanoags.† The early death of Alexander invested Philip with the tribal headship, and he at once concluded a treaty of amity with Plymouth Colony, after which a few years of outward tranquillity ensued, broken finally by the murder, by Philip's men, of Sassamon, a Christian Indian, whose murderers were promptly tried, found guilty, and executed by the colonists. Quickly following this came the retaliatory massacre at Swan-

^{*} Massachusetts Historical Society Collections, first series, vol. vi. 196.

[†] Massasoit had several children, three of whom are known by name; Wamsutta and Metacom, who in 1656, on their own request, received English names from the Governor of Plymouth Colony, who christened them "Alexander" and "Philip." A sister of these, called by the English "Amie," was the wife of Tuspaquin, chief of the Namaskets. Mention is also made of another son and daughter. See "Soldiers in King Philip's War. Being a Critical Account of that War, with a Concise History of the Indian Wars of New England from 1620–1677." By George Madison Bodge, A.B., Leominster, Mass., 1896.

sey, 20 June, 1675, and war in its grimness from this time swept over New England, leaving, however, the islands of Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard comparatively free from the harassing foe. There were upon the Vineyard about forty-five Englishmen able to bear arms, and about fifteen hundred Indians, who had been brought, largely through the labors of Mr. Mayhew, under the humanizing influence of Christianity. Frequent, yet unsuccessful, were the solicitations of Philip and his emissaries to the latter group to join the common league of tribes upon the main-land, but the island red men kept steadfastly to the faith and government of their adoption, and carried away as captives some of Philip's agents to abide the pleasure of Governor Mayhew, whose conduct during this time "that tried men's souls," as well as throughout the entire administration of his high office, exhibited a rare union of wisdom and moderation, firmness and forethought, that commanded the respect of his people and enabled them to enjoy security and peace while the neighboring continent was ravaged by war.

But the full story of his life and labors as missionary, governor, and gentleman is graphically told in the Reverend Dr. William A. Hallock's "The | Venerable Mayhews | and the | Aboriginal Indians | of Martha's Vineyard | Condensed from Rev. Experience Mayhew's | History Printed in London in 1727, and | Brought down to the Present | Century." Dr. Hallock quotes extensively from Cotton Mather's "Magnalia," from which latter work a few excerpts here, outlining Governor Mayhew's policy of government for the Indians, with whom and for whom he had spent the best years of his life, and with whom his name is so exclusively identified, needs no apology. "He tells the island Indians," says Dr. Mather, "that by order from the crown of England, he was to govern the English who should inhabit these islands; that his royal master was in power far above any of the Indian monarchs; but that, as he was great and powerful, so he was a lover of justice; that therefore he would in no measure invade their jurisdiction, but, on the contrary, assist them if need required; that religion and government were distinct things, and their sachems might retain their just authority, though their subjects were Christians. And thus, in no long time, he brought them to conceive no ill opinion of the Christian religion.

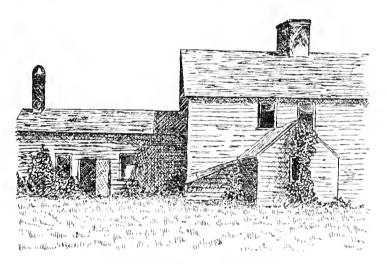

"When afterwards the number of the Christian Indians increased, he advised and persuaded them to admit the counsels of judicious Christians among themselves; and in cases of more than ordinary consequence, to erect a jury for trial, promising his own assistance to the Indian princes, whose assent was always to be obtained, though they were not Christians. And thus in a few years he settled a happy administration among them, to their great content; and records were kept of all acts passed in their several courts by such as, having learned to write, were appointed thereto.

"By his prudent measures and reasonings he brought even the princes themselves, with their sachems or nobles, to see the distinguishing excellence of the English government. And in his administration he gave them so fair an example of the happiness of it as not only charmed them into an earnest desire of copying after it, and coming into the same form themselves, but even induced them to make a public and free acknowledgment of their subjection to the crown of England, though they were always to be understood as subordinate princes, to govern according to the laws of God and the king, which they very much aspired to know.

"In his administration he was always ready to hear and redress their grievances upon the first complaint, without the least delay; whereby he wisely prevented any ill impressions from so much as ever getting into their minds against the English, through a neglect of justice. Whenever he decided any causes between them, he not only went by the rules of the most impartial equity, and gave them equal justice with the English, as being fellowsubjects of the same sovereign, but he also took care to convince and satisfy them that what was determined was right and equal. He would not suffer any to injure them in their goods. lands, persons. orThey always found a father and protector in him; and so far from introducing any form of government among them against their will, he first convinced them of the advantage of it, and even brought them to desire him to introduce and settle it. He took care to keep up the state and authority of a royal governor, not with ostentatious pomp or show, but with such superior, constant gravity, and wise and exact behavior, as always raised and preserved their reverence; and so to govern as that his acts of favor appeared to proceed, not from fear, constraint, or political causes, but from a gracious and condescending temper of mind; and to make it evident that he was not ruled by self-interest, will, or humor, but by wisdom, goodness, justice, reason, and the laws of God.

"By such wise and Christian conduct there was no difference between the English and Indians on these islands as long as he lived among them, which was for near forty years. The Indians admired and loved him as the most superior person they had ever seen; and they esteemed themselves so safe and happy in him, that he could command them anything without giving them uneasiness, they being satisfied that he did it because it was most fit and proper, and that in due time it would appear to be so.

"By such means he not only gained their perfect confidence in him, but also most firmly attached them to him and to the English interest." *

Governor Mayhew's large outlook on the future, and firm grasp of the principles of government and the elements that tend to higher civilization would have made him a striking figure in any position, but in his island home, surrounded by his dusky converts, he is a lofty, picturesque character, of which history has but few parallels. He died where he had lived, at Edgartown, and the place of his habitation remains to the present day, a venerable old structure, one hundred feet or more back from the street, near to the shores of the bay; and not far off, in an unmarked grave, "he sleeps well."

It has been calculated that Mr. Mayhew died on Saturday evening, 25 March, 1682, aged six days less than ninety years, as stated by Matthew Mayhew in a letter to Governor Thomas Hinckley, bearing date 13 April, 1682, announcing the death of his grandfather in these words: "It pleased God of his great goodness as to continue my honored grandfather's life to a great age (wanting but six days of ninety years), so to give the comfort of his life, and to ours as well as his comfort in his sickness (which was six days)." †

Tradition is responsible for the statement so frequently met that Mr. Mayhew's first wife who died in England, was Martha Parkhurst. By the first marriage he is thought to have had but one child, the gifted missionary. He married (2), probably in England, the widow of Thomas Paine, of London, whom Dr. Savage calls Grace, and Dr. Bond, Jane. On 14 October, 1647, Thomas Paine, son of Thomas Paine, of London, deceased, being then upward of fifteen years, constituted Thomas Mayhew, "of the Vineyard, my father-in-law, and Jane, his wife, my mother, to be my guardians until I come to twenty-one years, which will be 8 February, 1652." Dr. Savage is no doubt in error, as the records of Watertown give the mother of

Thomas Mayhew

Children of Governor Thomas Mayhew²:

- (2) i. Thomas Mayhew³, born circa 1616; died at sea, 1657; married Jane Paine.
 - ii. Hannah Mayhew³, born at Watertown, 15 June, 1635; died at Edgartown, 1722; married, circa 1657, Thomas Doggett, born at Watertown, circa 1630; died at Edgartown, between 18 March and 17 September, 1691. Issue, born at Edgartown: I. Thomas Doggett⁴. 2. Samuel Doggett⁴. 3. John Doggett⁴. 4. Joshua Doggett⁴. 5. Israel Doggett⁴. 6. Mary Doggett⁴. ‡
 - iii. Bethia Mayhew³, born at Watertown, 6 December, 1636; died before 13 August, 1689; married, as second wife, before 7 June, 1675, Richard Way, of Boston, "wine cooper," to whom, at that date, Thomas Mayhew conveyed an interest in a water mill at Watertown. § Mr. Way was a man of substance, a lieutenant in the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, and served at the Castle in Boston Harbor under Roger Clapp; was farmer-general of the impost in 1674, and later a candidate for the office of postmaster of Boston. There would seem to have been but one child by this marriage,—Hannah Way⁴, born at Boston, 13 July, 1677; probably died young, as his will of 2 January, 1697, proved 28 October following, left his estate to a third wife, Hannah, "having no reason to believe that any of my own children are surviving."
 - iv. Mary Mayhew³, born at Watertown, 14 January, 1640; died before 12 April, 1675;

- probably married Thomas Harlock, of Edgartown, whom Governor Mayhew, in a letter of 1661, calls "son Horlock."
- v. Martha Mayhew³, married, 22 October, 1661, Thomas Tupper, Junr, of Sandwich, and died 15 November, 1717. Thomas Tupper, son of Thomas Tupper, was born at Sandwich, 16 January, 1638, and died there in March, 1706. He was active in town affairs; town clerk; representative to the General Court of the Colony in 1673; lieutenant of militia 1680–1690, and captain 1690; was also a preacher to the Indians.
- 2. REVEREND THOMAS MAYHEW3, only son of Governor Thomas Mayhew², was born in England about 1616, and accompanied his father to Watertown, preceding him in 1641 to Nantucket, Martha's Vineyard, and Elizabeth Islands, the conflicting title to which had just before been secured by the elder Mayhew. Possessed of a liberal education, with a knowledge of Greek, Latin, and Hebrew, and a deep piety as well, he was, shortly after his settlement on the Islands, called to the ministry there. His English flock being small, he at once mastered the tongue of the aborigines and devoted himself to missionary work among them, and in 1643, some time before John Eliot's first Indian sermon, gained his first convert, Hiacoomes, who was to become a worthy assistant to him in his work among the natives. converts from this time multiplied rapidly, and glowing accounts thereof were printed in London.* So unwearied were his labors that, by the year 1657, many hundred Indian men and women had embraced Christianity, and the result determined Mr. Mayhew to seek further aid in London from the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel among the Heathen, and he accordingly took passage in November, 1657, in the best of two ships then bound from Boston to London. Captain Daniel Gookin in his Historical Collections of the Indians in New England,* describes the vessel as "Captain Garrett's ship, which was about four hundred tons, had good accommodations, and greater far than the other; and she had aboard her a very rich lading of goods, but most especially of passengers, about fifty in number; whereof divers of them were persons of great worth and virtue, both men and women; especially Mr. Mayhew,† Mr. Davis, Mr. Ince,† and Mr. Pelham, all scholars, and masters of art as I take it, most of them." Captain Gookin adds: "This ship of Garrett's perished on the passage, and was never heard of more. And there good Mr. Mayhew ended his days, and finished his work. This awful providence of God put a great check upon the progress of the gospel at Martha's Vineyard. But old Mr. Mayhew, his worthy father, struck in with his best strength and skill, and hath doubtless been a very great instrument to promote the work of converting many Indian souls upon those islands."

After his son's premature death, the elder Mr. Mayhew, having no immediate prospect of procuring for the natives a stated preacher, began at the age of seventy to minister to them spiritually, as well as to the English, and he succeeded in bringing the aborigines at Gayhead to receive Christianity, though they had strenuously resisted all previous efforts of evangelization. In August, 1670, an Indian church was formed at the Vineyard, and, though Mr. Mayhew was upward of four score years, he was urged to become its pastor, but he declined, and Hiacoomes, the first convert, was then accepted. To his other labors for this people Mr. Mayhew added that of the compilation of a large and excellent catechism for the Indians of Martha's Vineyard, agreeable to their own dialect.

On the eve of his departure for England Mr. Mayhew the younger took a solemn farewell of the Indians, of whom, it is said, about three thousand accompanied him to a place some four and a half miles from Edgartown,

[†] Mr Mayhew and Mr Jonathan Ince, of Hartford, were the custodians of, to print in England, the Indian catechism prepared and translated by the Reverend Abraham Pierson, for the religious instruction of the Indians of New England, other than those of the Massachusetts tribes. The manuscript being lost, another was compiled during the ensuing year and printed at Cambridge. Few copies of this first edition are known; one is in the British Museum, and another at the Lenox Library, New York. where a service was held, and where the Indians deposited each a stone.* Writing, in 1726, of the English ministers of Martha's Vineyard, Thomas Prince, the New England annalist, said,—

"For many years after his departure, he was seldom mentioned without tears. . . . I have myself seen the Rock on a descending ground upon which he sometimes used to stand and preach to great numbers crowding to hear And the Place on the Wayside, where he solemnly and affectionately took his leave of that poor and beloved People of his, was for all that Generation remembered with sorrow.";

In 1901, the society of patriotic women, known as the Martha's Vineyard Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, set a tablet on the pile of stones at the Place by the Wayside, which was dedicated with appropriate ceremonies in July of that year. The inscription thereon reads:

> "This Rock Marks the 'Place on the Wayside' where the REV. THOMAS MAYHEW, JR.,

First Pastor of the Church of Christ on Martha's Vineyard, and the first missionary to the Indians of New England, solemnly took leave of the Indians, who had in large numbers followed him down from the western part of the island, being his last worship and interview with them before embarking for England in 1657, from whence he never returned, no tidings ever coming from the ship or its passengers.

In loving remembrance of him Those Indians raised this 'pile of stone.' 1000-1001 Erected by the Martha's Vineyard Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. The site given for this purpose by Captain Benjamin Coffin Cromwell, of Tisbury. The boulder was brought from Gay Head, a gift from the now resident Indians. The tablet purchased with contributions from Mayhew descendants."

Mr. Mayhew married, about 1645, Jane, daughter of Thomas Paine, of London, who survived him. She is said to have married (2), about 1658, Richard Sarson, ‡ of Nantucket; this is incorrect as to date of marriage, as in September, 1667, she was styled "Mistress Mayhew," in the accounts of the Commissioners of the United Colonies of Plymouth and Massachusetts Bay.

By a devise of "one Hatton Barnes to the heir of the Paines," the brother of Mrs. Mayhew, Thomas Paine, became possessed "of a farm and certain tenements lying about Greensnorton in Northamptonshire," worth about one hundred and forty pounds per annum, and through him the Mayhews obtained an interest in the same. In a recital of the case, September, 1656, by the Commissioners of the United Colonies to the Corporation for the Propagation of the Gospel among the heathen natives in New England, it is set forth that, "fourteen years since, when Thomas Paine's own mother, and the mother-in-law to Thomas Mayhew, was in England to settle her son's rights, the jury at Greensnorton found the land in question to be of considerable value, and the true heir to be Thomas Paine, and that now [1656] Thomas Mayhew had proposed that he journey to England to claim and secure title thereto." *

Under date of September, 1658, the Commissioners wrote to the Corporation on behalf of the family of the lost missionary, stating that the widow had been left with six † or seven children, and that her desire was "that three boys may be brought up in learning to fitt them for after service amongst the Indians, which wee are slow to assent unto in regard they are very younge and the charges will be very great before they bee fit for Imployment and then uncertaine how theire minds may be adicted or theire hearts Inclined to this worke; yett for her support and the Incurragement of others wee have allowed her twenty pounds and taken upon us to defray the charge of her eldest son of about ten yeares old now at School for this yeare and shall bee willing to doe further for him or her as you shall please to advise."

There seemed to be no evidence that the financial interest of the Commissioners and Corporation extended beyond the education of Matthew, and how well that interest was repaid may be gathered from an item in a letter from the former, dated September, 1672, which, after commenting on the Reverend Mr. Eliot's unwearied endeavors for the good of the Indians, concludes with, "As also some other persons that may in time be useful Instruments in that worke; one whereof is the son of that Reverend and Good man Mr. Mayhew, deceased, who, being born on the Island called Martha's Vineyard, and now growne to man's estate and then settled, is an hopeful young man and hath their Language perfectly."

[†] An interesting collection of letters, eleven in all, from Mr. Mayhew to the Governors John Winthrop, father and son, has been published in the Massachusetts Historical Society Collections, fourth series, vol. vii. pp. 30-42. In one of these letters, written in 1658, and addressed to "my much honoured friend Mr John Winthrop at Boston," the writer distinctly states that his son's children then numbered six. "I cannot yett give my sonnes over, if they come not more, my daughter and her six children will want help." The "sonnes" were, of course, his son Thomas and stepson Thomas Paine, who was also a passenger on the ill-fated vessel.

Of these children, Experience Mayhew began preaching to the Indians in March, 1694, taking charge of five or six congregations. Familiar with the Indian tongue from infancy, he was employed by the Commissioners of the Society in London for the Propagation of the Gospel in New England to make a new version of the Psalms, and of the Gospel according to St. John, in the Indian language, which he completed with great accuracy in 1709. Among his publications are: A sermon entitled "All mankind by nature equally under sin," 1725. "Indian Converts" (in which he gives an account of the lives of thirty Indian ministers and about eighty Indian men, women, and youth, worthy of remembrance on account of their piety), 1727. "Indian Narratives," 1729. "A Letter on the Lord's Supper," 1724. "Grace defended in a Modest Plea for an Important Truth," 1744. He wrote also "Strictures on the Conduct and Preaching of Whitfield," in 1743; and about the same time, "Two Letters on Human Liberty," in a controversy with Jonathan Dickinson, president of the New Jersey College. Not a scholar of the college, Harvard honored herself by giving him the degree of M.A. in 1720. ^{*} Dr. Jonathan Mayhew, born at Martha's Vineyard, 8 October, 1720; died at Boston, 9 July, 1766, where he had been pastor of the West church from 1747. In January, 1750, he delivered a sermon on the Sunday following the death of Charles I., in which he advocated a limitation to allegiance. This sermon has been called "the morning gun of the Revolution." In his Thanksgiving sermon for the repeal of the Stamp Act, in May, 1766, he made a fervent appeal for civil and religious liberty. Bancroft said of him: "From his youth he had consecrated himself to the service of Colonial freedom in church and state. He died overtaxed, in the beauty of unblemished manhood, consumed by his fiery zeal;" and Adams earlier wrote: "When we say that Otis, Adams, Mayhew, Lee, Jefferson, etc., were authors of independence, we ought to say they were only awakeners and reviewers of the original fundamental principle of colonization."

His youngest son, Zachariah Mayhew, "took up the duties which his dying sire had laid down; with entire devotion he wrought on to his life's end, but in his latter days his heart was saddened by the steady wasting away of the aboriginal population.
